

22 CHILDREN KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING WHEN FAST FREIGHT CRASHES SCHOOL BUS

SERIES OF RAIDS AND INDICTMENTS AMAZES CLAYTON

Playground of Atlanta Tense, With Interest Centering on Charge Against the Sheriff.

3 ARE CONVICTED, 1 FREED IN TRIALS

Foreman of Grand Jury Says Body Heard 'Only One Side of the Matter.'

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

JONESBORO, Ga., Dec. 1.—

Tension and excitement today gripped this little capital of Clayton county, playground of metropolitan Atlanta. Scores "aired" their views in only hushed voices.

E. L. Adamson, for the last ten years sheriff of the county, target of an extortion indictment returned Monday and on ouster demand filed today by Solicitor General Roy Leathers, of the Stone Mountain superior court circuit, asserted tonight he will "demand an early trial to clear my name."

Trials Continue.

While Sheriff Adamson was engaged with a series of charges and counter demands, the court continued trials of a group arrested by Atlanta police in an alleged numbers racket headquarters.

Judge James C. Davis was presiding, and late yesterday there had been three convictions and one acquittal.

Andrew Crider, the third of 10 persons to face a jury, was found guilty early this afternoon, and Mrs. W. M. Lavendar, also known as Eunice Gazaway, was convicted later in the day. Tom Bradley was found guilty and E. D. West freed previously.

Question Behind Raids.

But the court trials are not commanding the interest of the citizenry so much as the question: "What is behind the whole thing?" It is asked and answered in a hundred ways each 24 hours.

The sheriff's ultimate conviction or vindication is the center of interest.

Adamson's friends charge his indictment was due to "politics." They assert that disgruntled opponents, who could not "beat him at the ballot box" are determined to vacate his office in the "hopes of getting it themselves."

Adamson Gives 'Lie.'

To this, Adamson, himself, gave "the lie" yesterday. "I had some money when I was elected sheriff ten years ago. I bought some property at $3.25 an acre. I saved and was thrifty. I have done my duty conscientiously, have nothing to be ashamed of or to hide. I have never owned or been interested in any road house or night club, and if I had my way, I'd close them all. I pay taxes on $15,000 worth of property. The people of Clayton county have been good to me. I appreciate it and have tried to do a good job. If there is any doubt about me,

Pleads for Return of Her Kidnaped Daughter

While an anxiety-torn father, William E. Brown, personally sought aid of G-Men in the abduction of his daughter, Mary Brown, (left), by two men on the outskirts of Washington, the stepmother, nearly prostrated, pleaded over the radio that her daughter be sent back unharmed. She returned several hours later.

KIDNAPED GIRL, 18, IS RETURNED HOME

Daughter of Lord Denies Misconduct

Convent Student Says Abductors 'Knocked Me Out With Their Fists.'

OXON HILL, Md., Dec. 1. (UP)

Mary Brown, 18-year-old convent student who was kidnaped by three men yesterday, stumbled into her home here late tonight, sobbing hysterically, her clothing virtually torn to shreds.

The comely girl, who was seized near her home yesterday afternoon while returning from Notre Dame Academy Business school in nearby Washington, told police that she was returned in the same truck in which she had been held captive for nearly 30 hours.

Speaking almost incoherently, she said that she had not been criminally assaulted, but her captors had "knocked me out with their fists" several times. She said she had been kept blindfolded and could not identify the three men "except that one of them had a mustache."

Walks Five Miles.

According to the girl, the three men thrust her out of the truck, still blindfolded, about five miles from her home near the center of this small suburb. She then walked home, she said.

Reaching the front door of her home, she knocked weakly and when the door was opened she fell into the arms of Robert L. Manning, retired Washington detective and an old family friend.

Manning said that the girl was without her coat and that her sweater was badly torn. The rest of her clothing, he said, was in "shreds."

A doctor was summoned immediately to make an examination and a local magistrate also was sent for.

Mary's parents would not permit the girl to speak to reporters.

News of her return first was made public by Governor Harry W. Nice at the Governor's mansion in Annapolis, where he had been advised of her arrival by state police.

Sister Escaped.

Police on the scene said that Mary informed her parents that she had no clue whatsoever to the identity of the three men who seized her. Her sister, Lucy, 15, who was on her way home with Mary at the time, escaped capture when she tore from the grasp of one of the men and fled home through a muddy field.

Manning timed Mary's return at 10:45 p. m. The purported abduction occurred at 4:45 p. m. Wednesday afternoon.

William B. Brown, the girl's father, an employee of the Federal Bureau of Printing and Engraving, refused to discuss the case with newspapermen, but expressed happiness at the turn of events. Earlier this evening Mary's mother had broadcast a second appeal for the girl's return "unharmed." It could not be learned immediately whether the truck contained a radio and whether the abductors had heard the plea.

Answers Husband's Charges in Child Custody Suit at Miami.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1. (AP)—

Mrs. Calypso Haring Liddell, resisting her estranged husband's efforts to gain custody of their four children, denied allegations in court today that she had improper relations with anyone.

Mrs. Liddell, daughter of the late Lord Revelstoke, said testimony that she lived in the same room with her half-brother, L. Sufferin Tailor, in Coral Gables was false.

Under cross-examination she conceded staying in the same room with Tailor in Miami and North Carolina hotels, but said it was to save expenses.

Investigators Used.

She explained her presence in night apparel in Tailor's bedroom in the Coral Gables house by declaring she had been frightened by persons peering in the windows and flashing lights.

Guy Maynard Liddell, the husband, previously admitted employing investigators to get information about his wife and children, but denied instructing them to harass her.

Joe Reuga, a former chauffeur, told Circuit Judge Paul Barnes he had witnessed improper conduct by Mrs. Liddell in suburban Coral Gables. Mrs. B. H. Phillips, former linen room employee of a North Carolina resort hotel, gave similar testimony.

Impounds Income.

Liddell, chief of England's civil intelligence department, said he did not of his own knowledge know that his wife was an unfit person to have possession of the children, as alleged in his plea for a writ of habeas corpus. He previously had told the court that he provided about $3,000 annually and his wife provided about $17,000 annually for the family's living expenses before they separated.

The Briton impounded his wife's income and possessions after she left England with the children. Defense counsel told the court

PRESIDENT CALLS GEORGIA OFFICIALS TO WARM SPRINGS

PATRONAGE RUMOR IS AGAIN RECALLED

WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins Is Guest of Governor at Mansion.

Governor Rivers, Chairman Jim L. Gillis of the state Democratic executive committee and United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp will visit President Roosevelt at the Warm Springs Little White House today by invitation of the chief executive.

The meeting with the President follows a long conference between the governor and Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator yesterday. Announcement that the three leaders of the New Deal element of the state's democracy had been invited to visit the President once more drew attention to reports that for the remainder of the present Roosevelt administration they would have charge of distribution of federal patronage in Georgia.

Hopkins Rivers' Guest.

Hopkins arrived here early yesterday morning en route to Warm Springs. He was accompanied by Frank Walker, former chairman of the National Emergency Council and former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. They were met at the Terminal station by Downing Musgrove, executive secretary to Governor Rivers who escorted them to the executive mansion where they were breakfast guests of the Governor and Mrs. Rivers.

After breakfast Musgrove took Walker to Warm Springs and Hopkins was closeted with Governor Rivers for several hours. He also conferred with Governor Carl Bailey, of Arkansas, who has been a guest at the mansion for several days.

Hospital Discussed.

Governor Rivers said he and Administrator Hopkins discussed details of the state's projected $4,000,000 federal loan and grant for the Milledgeville state hospital. He insisted that politics, particularly Georgia patronage, were not discussed.

Administrator Hopkins left for Warm Springs yesterday afternoon after a conference with Miss Gay B. Shepperson, the state WPA administrator and an old friend.

Musgrove returned early last night. He drove Speaker Bankhead back to Atlanta. The speaker, who conferred with President Roosevelt early yesterday, took the late afternoon train for Birmingham.

Governor Rivers said as far as he knew the visit to Warm Springs today was purely social. "Mr. McIntyre, the President's secretary, called me on the telephone and asked me to come down for a little while," the governor said. "It is a routine visit as far as I know. Ever since I have been governor I have visited the President every time he has come to Georgia. We just look

F.D.R., BANKHEAD DISCUSS PROGRAM

President Will Deliver Message on January 3; Envoy Bullitt Arrives.

Special to The Constitution

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 1.—President Roosevelt and Speaker Bankhead surveyed the congressional outlook and the international situation today and announced afterward the President would deliver his annual legislative message in person, January 3.

Beyond that, all they would say at a roadside press conference was that they talked about "cabages and kings." They smilingly borrowed the Walrus' quotation from "Alice in Wonderland," to describe the extensive range of their discussion without going into detail.

Late in the day the President conferred with Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator.

The President considered relief requirements for the coming fiscal year in a conference with Hopkins.

The President was understood to have received tentative estimates during a broad discussion of the relief problem.

The President's exploration of the relief situation began in his automobile as he drove Hopkins about the foundation property before settling down before an open fire in the living room of his cottage.

Another conferee at the Little White House was William C. Bullitt, U. S. Ambassador to France, who had cut short a vacation in Nassau and had flown

25-Mile-an-Hour Speed Limit Is Demanded by Hartsfield

Slowing of Vehicles One Point in Three-Way Program To Be Presented Police Committee; Elimination of Angle Parking Downtown, Unloading Restrictions Urged.

Three measures to govern city traffic will be sponsored tonight before the police committee by Mayor Hartsfield.

Pursuing the announced intention to clear up downtown congestion and reduce deaths from automobile accidents, the mayor will advocate a uniform 25-mile per hour speed limit throughout the city; elimination of angle parking in the downtown section, and renewal of the effort to ban parking trucks on restricted streets during peak traffic hours. He declared:

"If council will adopt those measures, we will ask the police department strictly to enforce them."

Member of Committee.

The mayor is a member of the police committee, to which the proposed measures will go before being considered by council. If they are approved by the committee, city council will take them up Monday afternoon at its regular meeting.

In answer to Hartsfield's appeal for the people to express themselves on their desire for better traffic conditions, council members said yesterday that they had already received many letters and communications from the public, urging reforms.

"I am confident that the majority of council members want to do the right thing in attempting to clear up this dreadful traffic congestion and to stop this useless slaughter of men and women and children on our streets," said the mayor. "Providence, R. I., stopped automobile murders by rigid enforcement of a 25-mile per hour speed limit."

Driver's Death Raises Total to 23; Parts of 'One or Two' Victims Remain To Be Identified.

WEeping MOTHERS CROWD TO SCENE

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 1. (AP)

A freight train speeding a mile a minute in a snow storm crashed into a school bus at a little used crossing today, killing at least 22 students and the bus driver.

Hysterical parents identified the bodies at an improvised morgue in Salt Lake General Hospital.

In addition, authorities sought identification of what Dr. R. J. Alexander, superintendent at the hospital, said were parts of "one or two bodies."

Seventeen of the more than 40 students on the bus, en route to Jordan District High school near Midvale, a Salt Lake City suburb, were injured, six critically.

Testimony Conflicts.

Conflicting testimony hampered officials who sought to determine the cause of the accident, one of the worst of its kind in the nation's history. Students who escaped death in the demolished, orange bus told how Driver Farrold Silcox, 29, stopped near the crossing in accordance with Utah law, then went ahead. They told of reduced visibility because of a snow storm.

Engineer E. L. Rehmer stated in his report to Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad officials that although a light snow was falling, "visibility was at least 1,200 feet."

Brakeman Sees Bus.

Brakeman G. M. Kelley reported seeing the bus come to a stop and then, when "the train was an engine and two car lengths from the crossing, the bus started. The fireman and I hollered 'big hole' (an emergency cry on board train to indicate a coming crash). The engineer made emergency application of brakes. The crossing whistle was properly sounded and was still sounding when we came to the crossing."

The 50-car train—"The Flying Ute"—apparently struck the bus just ahead of its middle. The body of the bus was tossed nearly 100 yards to the left. The chassis was wrapped around the front of the

DOWNTOWN COLUMBUS FLOOD OF YULE LIGHTS
COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Thousands of Christmas lights were turned on in the downtown business section of this city tonight at exercises in charge of the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the lighting project. Mayor L. C. Wilson pulled a switch to turn on the lights. With many from surrounding communities expected to visit the city to see the Christmas display, Christmas club checks totaling approximately $175,000 placed in the mail today and the large monthly pay roll at Fort Benning swelling the amount released in retail channels, business is expected to be unusually good in Columbus this week end.

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES

BY Sally Saver

Fruit and meat combinations are growing in favor, as together they gain savor as well as nutritional balance. Oranges combine well with meat, and have the advantage of being always in the market.

Florida, our neighbor state, supplies us with luscious citrus fruits and the prices this winter are so low, the fruit so healthful and delicious, that we must not fail to take advantage of them and serve an abundance of citrus fruits.

This new chicken salad gives you an unusually savory dish, which will please your family and friends.

ORANGE CHICKEN SALAD.
(Serves 5-10)
2 cups chicken (or veal),
2 cups celery,
1 cup seeded grapes,
2 cups orange slices (or segments),
1/2 cup toasted almonds,
Curry powder,
French dressing.

Cut chicken and celery in small pieces. Blend with orange slices, cut in halves, grapes and French dressing. Let marinate a short time and put in a salad bowl lined with curly endive or other crisp salad greens. Garnish with slices of stuffed green olives.

SALLY SAVER'S FAVORITE RECIPE CONTEST.

During the holiday season, menus usually are much heavier than at any other time of the year. It's because of this that we often look for a change to lighter meals. Oysters, now seasonable and comparatively reasonable, will prove satisfactory to those who like sea food. Sally's contest this week brings you the favorite oyster recipes of three Georgians. They should prove popular with you for they are unusual and tasty.

Orange Chicken Salad

Sally Saver

SCALLOPED OYSTERS.
1 pint oysters.
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs.
1/4 cup milk or cream.
8 tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon pepper.
Grease a baking dish, arrange a layer of bread crumbs in the bottom of it, then a layer of oysters, butter in small pieces, salt and pepper. Repeat, having a layer of crumbs on top with small pieces of butter dotted on them. Have only two layers of oysters. Moisten with the milk and oyster liquor combined. Bake in hot oven for 30 minutes or until brown. Serve at once.

This prize recipe is especially delicious for a buffet supper. It may either be served on toast or in individual shells. The recipe is suggested by MRS. ELLIS OWEN, of Calhoun, Ga.

DEVILED OYSTERS SUPREME.
1 1/2 cups white sauce.
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard.
12 pecans (or 8 English walnuts).
1/2 cup prepared cracker meal.
2 tablespoons melted butter.
Heat oysters in own liquor. Make white sauce as usual, using two parts of milk to one part oyster liquor for the liquid required. When of medium thickness add the prepared mustard. Chop oysters and nuts and add to sauce.

ROLLED RIB ROAST OF BEEF.
Select a two or three rib roast, boned and rolled. Wipe with a damp cloth and rub with salt and pepper. Place the roast, fat side up, on a rack in an open pan. Season it with salt and pepper. Make a small incision through the fat covering and insert a roast

SALLY SAVER'S FAVORITE RECIPE CONTEST
More and more people, it seems, are becoming fond of eggplant and Sally has received so many requests for good eggplant recipes that she is passing the request on to you. Send your favorite eggplant recipe to her this week and if your letter is published in this column Sally will send you $1.00. Send it today so that it reaches her not later than Tuesday of next week. Share your favorite eggplant recipe with us and you may win $1.00.

Pour mixture into individual baking dishes (1 use baking shells), top with well buttered cracker meal. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Brown under broiler flame. (Serve 4)

MRS. J. H. JONES, 802 Amsterdam avenue, Atlanta, suggests her favorite oyster recipe and writes of it, "the oysters give the sausage a new delicious flavor. This is my favorite oyster recipe."

Oysters & Sausage.
Make country sausage into a thin cake. Place an oyster on it and cover with another thin sausage cake. Fry as usual.

Oyster Bisque.
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 1/2 cups chopped oysters
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
Melt butter and add flour. Mix and pour in milk. Cook slowly and stir constantly until the mixture thickens slightly. Add rest of the ingredients and cook for five minutes. Serve in hot bowls.

meat thermometer so that the bulb reaches the center of the roast. Do not cover the roast and do not add water. Place the meat in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) and roast until done. The roast meat thermometer will register 140 degrees F. for a rare roast, 160 degrees F. for a medium roast, and 170 degrees F. for a well-done roast.

A boned and rolled roast must be allowed more cooking time than a roast with the bone left in. Allow 30-35 minutes to the pound for cooking a rare roast, 35-40 minutes to the pound for a medium, and 40-45 minutes to the pound for a well-done roast.

It is wise to choose a beef roast larger than will be needed for one meal, for there are so many easy ways of making roast beef into attractive dishes for second and third day meals.

GRANDMOTHER'S COOK BOOK

GRANDMOTHER'S FRUIT CAKE.

One pound butter, one pound sugar, one pound flour, one dozen eggs, two glasses brandy, two glasses sherry wine, two pounds raisins (seeded and cut up), two pounds currants (dried and picked), one pound citron (finely cut-up), two tablespoons New Orleans molasses (black), one teaspoon each: allspice, cloves, mace, cinnamon and nutmeg (powdered), two large teaspoons baking powder (sifted into the flour). Beat the eggs one at a time into one-half of the sifted flour (one-half of this must be rubbed into the fruit). Then add spices, molasses, brandy, wine and fruit. Grease a pan well with good lard. Then paper bottom of pan with three layers of good white paper, greased with butter. Paper sides of pan, fitting it carefully by clipping the paper the right size. Grease the sides well with butter. Press your batter on bottom and around the sides. Test the heat of the oven by throwing a handful of flour on the bottom. If it burns, it is too hot. If it browns, it is just right. Place the cake in the oven. Fruit cake usually leaves the side of the pan when done. This recipe is for a large cake. Half the ingredients are enough for a medium sized cake.

FROM CAROLINE JENKINS' DIARY, JULY 22, 1864.
"Today I took a large package of Confederate money, in the hope of purchasing some materials needed for fruit cake. I know it is reckless, but I would so like to make one for the children and a few friends. I visited a new store that carries some staples, and inquired what the goods would cost in Confederate money. The woman refused any amount of money and I was about to leave when she said I might have the groceries in exchange for my shawl." (Copyright N. J. Bond.)

returned to office by a huge majority.

The survey measures only the popular following of leaders in the Democratic party and has no bearing on their so-called "availability" as presidential nominees.

Following are the ten leading choices in today's study as compared to the ten leaders in the survey conducted just before the November election.

Leading Choices.

Before Election
1. Garner
2. Farley
3. Hull
4. McNutt
5. Earle
6. Ambassador Kennedy
7. Wallace
8. Lehman
9. Lehman
10. Barkley
Today
1. Garner
2. Hull
3. Farley
4. Clark
5. Lehman
6. McNutt
7. Barkley
8. Murphy
9. Hopkins
10. Ambassador Kennedy

The most notable rises in popularity have been those of Secretary Hull, who moved from third place to second place, Senator Clark, who was not among the leading ten before election and is today in fourth place, and Governor Lehman, who moved from eighth to fifth place.

Senator Alben W. Barkley, who is widely regarded by many New Dealers in Washington as a logical choice, ranks near the bottom of the list.

Senator Robert F. Wagner and Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York each received enough mentions to put them among the second and fifth in the list. Wagner, however, is ineligible for the presidency, having been born in Germany, and LaGuardia, though sympathetic toward the New Deal, is not a registered Democrat.

It is a significant fact that more Democratic voters favor President Roosevelt for a third term than any of the prospective candidates named in the survey.

The Institute's last test of third term sentiment, before the election, found approximately one-half (47 per cent) of Democrats endorsing Roosevelt for a third term.

By contrast, the highest single vote for any other prospective candidate, Vice President Garner, is only 20 per cent of those who expressed a definite choice for 1940.

Secretary Hull, the second choice, received 11 per cent, and Farley 10 per cent, while the others have less than 9 per cent.

Party sentiment would be affected, of course, by President Roosevelt's attitude. If he were to endorse Senator Barkley or WPA administrator Harry Hopkins or one of the other Democratic leaders, sentiment for that candidate would undoubtedly show a great increase.

But at the present time it seems clear that the Democratic situation is pretty much an open field with no one candidate having enough of a popular following to put him very far in front.

The Republican party picture, on the other hand, is radically different. Sentiment is more crystallized. A recent Institute survey found, for example, that one-third of the Republican voters with definite opinions on 1940 favor Dewey. Senator Arthur Vandenberg and Senator-Elect Taft are next with 18 per cent apiece. This puts three candidates out in front with a combined total of 89 per cent, as compared to a total of only 41 per cent for three leading Democrats.

GOING STRAIGHT?
CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE, N. J., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Sidney Ingram, 39, a burglar, told Judge

Palmer M. Way yesterday that he would "sign an affidavit" authorizing the court to sentence him to death if he did not "go straight." Judge Ingram to 10 years in prison, and today Ingram escaped.

Foreign sales of American-made automobiles, parts and accessories totaled $346,848,000 in 1937.

DEMOCRATS FAVOR GARNER AND HULL

Opinion questioned a cross-section of Democratic voters in all states. They were asked to name the candidate they would favor in 1940 if President Roosevelt does not run. No lists were presented; hence the replies were entirely spontaneous.

The results show that Vice President James N. Garner is the leading choice, with Secretary Cordell Hull second. These two have been top choices of the rank and file in Institute surveys since early last spring.

In third and fourth position, respectively, are Postmaster General James A. Farley, who received prominent mention in previous Institute studies, and Senator Bennett Clark, of Missouri. Clark's rise to top rank has taken place since the November election, when he was

CONGRESSMEN TO MAKE TRIP THROUGH FLORIDA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(P)—A large group of senators, representatives and government officials reserved space on a "Florida Resources Special" train here tonight for a tour of the peninsula. Officials of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, the sponssoring organization, estimated the passenger list at 180. By the time the 16-car train reaches Jacksonville tomorrow, they said, there would be more than 200 aboard.

WOMAN IS ATTACKED
BY MADDENED SOW

CORDELE, Ga., Dec. 1.—(P)—Mrs. D. H. Wiley, sister-in-law of as dangerous. Crisp County Agent H. G. Wiley, was in a hospital here today suffering with injuries inflicted by a sow which attacked her when she accidentally hurt one of its small pigs.

Mrs. Wiley was rescued by a negro woman after being severely bitten on the arms and legs. Her condition was not regarded as dangerous.

SHRINE CEREMONIAL
HELD IN STATESBORO

STATESBORO, Ga., Dec. 1.—(P)—A band concert and parade featured an all-day ceremonial of Alee Temple of the Mystic Shrine here today at which 28 candidates walked "the hot sands of the desert." Headed by Illustrious Potentate

George W. Hunt, a caravan of Shriners came here from Savannah. Several hundred visitors were present.

The first section of the ceremonial was followed by a turkey dinner at South Georgia Teachers' College. Ladies attending the ceremonial were guests at a bridge tea, and a

Whitehead's 'Ex'
Swaps Charges
Over Hotel Bill

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(P)—Mrs. Marion Hughes Pierce, former wife of Conkey Whitehead, Atlanta soft drink heir, says she paid her hotel bill. The hotel

Lombardy says she didn't. The hotel claims Mrs. Pierce owes them $2,808. Mrs. Pierce says she owes them no such thing, and counter claims the hotel should pay her $2,000 damages she contends was caused her furniture in the apartment when it was substituted while she was in Hollywood. The hotel insists there was no damage to the furniture.

Justice Henry S. Schimmel heard all this from attorneys for the hotel and Mrs. Pierce today and then reserved decision.

FAST START, QUICK STOP FIRE IS 10 FEET AWAY The Winchester (Kentucky) Fire Department drivers almost simultaneously stepped on the gas and slammed on the brakes recently in making the shortest run in local fire history. The blaze was 10 feet away from the fire house.

A curtain in the old-age pension office on the second-floor of the City Building burned.

EXPANSION BATTLE OF UTILITIES SEEN

American Gas, Commonwealth and Southern Seek Midwest Plum.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(P)—A behind-the-scenes battle between the two largest utility systems in the country for control of one of the most profitable middle western fields was disclosed today as a by-product of the filing of integration plans, under the federal holding company act.

Wall street utility experts familiar with the plans filed in Washington yesterday and today with the Securities and Exchange Commission by leading utility systems said both Commonwealth & Southern Corporation, and American Gas & Electric Company, have hopes of dominating the mid-western territory.

Commonwealth & Southern, headed by Wendell L. Willkie, who has frequently tangled with the administration over the Tennessee Valley Authority, is the second biggest utility system in the country.

Largest is Electric Bond & Share System, which records show owns 19 per cent of the voting stock of American Gas & Electric. C. E. Groesbeck, who recently made his peace publicly with the administration, is chairman of both Electric Bond and American Gas.

Chief stake involved is Midland United Company, now in reorganization in federal court at Wilmington, Del., as an Insull facility.

Despite its complicated financial difficulties, Midland serves most of the prosperous rural sections of Indiana, and number of cities, including Terre Haute.

American Gas abuts Midland's vast and prosperous territory at three points—southwest Michigan, northwest Ohio, and has an island in the midst of Indiana.

The biggest single company in Willkie's Commonwealth & Southern System is Consumers Power Company, covering a large part of Michigan, with profitable industrial, farm and residential areas.

SHIFTS ANNOUNCED BY SECURITY BOARD

Columbus Manager Is Transferred as Assistant in Atlanta Office.

Charles A. Hamilton, manager of the Columbus office of the Social Security Board's bureau of old age insurance, has been named assistant manager of the Atlanta field office, Joseph R. Murphy, manager, announced yesterday.

Hamilton succeeds H. E. Bray, who was transferred to Birmingham last February.

Other personnel changes announced by the Birmingham regional office through Murphy, are:

Eugene Rawls, assistant manager at Tampa, succeeds Hamilton at Columbus. Ted Van Antwerp, now stationed in Orlando, takes over Rawls' position in Tampa.

Victor Manget, manager of the Waycross office, will become manager of the Albany office, and Austin Lacy, personnel clerk in Columbus, will be acting manager at Waycross. Ulmer Crosby, acting manager at Albany, has been named assistant manager of the Savannah office.

David W. Fite, personnel clerk at Athens, will be assistant manager at Montgomery.

CHARLEY MCCARTHY WRITE-IN CANDIDATE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 1.—(P)—Charley McCarthy, ventriloquist's dummy, was a popular write-in candidate for governor, United States senator and other offices in the November general election in Los Angeles county.

Completing an official canvass of the returns, County Registrar William Kerr said the dummy out-ran several Hollywood personages, including Shirley Temple, whose names were written in on the ballots for several offices.

HULL, DELEGATES INSPECT DEFENSES AT PANAMA CANAL

Naval Vessels Escort Ship Past Fortifications and Listening Post.

ABOARD S. S. SANTA CLARA EN ROUTE TO LIMA, Peru, Dec. 1.—(P)—Secretary Hull and the United States delegation to the Pan-American conference sailed southward tonight from the Panama Canal Zone where they had visual evidence of their country's determination to achieve a western hemisphere defense.

The liner carrying the delegation was accompanied by the light cruiser Trenton and two destroyers. Outward bound, the Santa Clara met the cruiser Erie, returning from maneuvers. Both cruisers greeted the delegation with 21-gun salutes. Meanwhile two bombing planes roared overhead.

The delegation's visit to Panama disclosed that a determined effort was being made to increase the efficacy of the canal's defenses. Soldiers, now numbering 13,000, have overflowed regular quarters and some companies are sleeping in tents.

Army engineers are prepared to begin a third set of locks for the canal if congress supplies the money. Both army and navy officials at Panama expressed belief the problem of defending the canal still remained huge despite measures already taken.

As the Santa Clara sailed out of the Canal Zone she passed numerous fortified islands and listening posts from which the approach of an enemy air force could be signaled to the defenders of the canal. In this connection, it was said arrangements may have to be made with the Republic of Panama for still another observation post on Perlas Islands, 30 miles off the coast.

engine and ground under the wheels.

Bodies of the children, the school books, lunches, band instruments and even a pair of shoes, were tossed about under the train. Some of the children, who escaped death, were thrown from the bus at the impact.

Train Was Late.

Although the speed of "The Flying Ute" could not be definitely determined, Sheriff S. Grant Young said the train was running almost two hours late because of the storm. Its normal speed at that point, he said, was from 60 to 70 miles an hour.

Young said the train normally passed the crossing at a speed of about 60 miles an hour. The sheriff said, apparently, stopped the bus at the crossing and then started it up again. The locomotive hit broadside, bending the big bus around the front of it.

Crowds of weeping, shrieking mothers, fathers and classmates soon gathered at the scene. Pitiful attempts were made to identify the dead.

One of the survivors was Margie Groves, 16, of South Jordan.

"I got on the bus at 8:30 about two miles from the crossing," she said. "There must have been about 40 others in the bus with me."

"When we came to the crossing, we stopped and Mr. Silcox, the bus driver, started up again. I thought I heard someone yell 'train,' and then I saw something black coming from the right and it hit us."

"When I woke up I was lying in the snow near the bus. Two students I knew, Mack Bateman and Mabel Smith, were nearby. Mabel was lying near the bus and Mack was lying by a fence. I guess they're all right now."

"All Just Kids."

"There was an awful lot of screaming and moaning. They were all just kids."

"And then they came and brought me to a hospital."

David Witter, of Denver, riding on an oil tank close to the freight engine, said, "It was the awfulest thing I ever saw."

"None of them seemed to die right away. One by one they would stop screaming."

The freight train was traveling so fast the caboose was on the crossing by the time it stopped, said Dr. J. S. Alley, of Midvale, who brought victims to the hospital.

"The cab of the bus was tossed to one side, about 100 feet from the crossing," he said. "Bodies were strewn everywhere a mile down the track."

Most of the victims were from Bluffdale, Riverton, South Jordan, Crescent and Herriman, small communities a few miles south of Salt Lake City.

June Wynn, 16, who was standing in the doorway of her home 300 yards from the crossing, said, "I saw the bus and the train coming and wondered whether the bus was going to stop. It did stop, and then pulled onto the track directly in front of the train."

"I heard the crash, then screams. When the front of the train got opposite me, I could see the frame of the bus still on the engine."

"The train started slowing down

Tragic Scenes Enacted as Mothers and Fathers Learn of Children's Deaths; Sacks Used 'To Pick Up Every Little Piece.'

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 1.—(AP)—In a gray-stone hospital a blond, clean-shaven farmer bit his lips and addressing no one said: "I lost one boy five years ago; this one was all I had left."

As nurses led him into a side room he passed farmers and farmers' wives, some openly crying, the men comforting their women—parents of the more than a score of Jordan district school children killed when a freight train crashed broadside into a crowded school bus.

At the scene of the crash, two miles south of Midvale, a suburb, a long freight train stood still, unable to proceed because of a solid steel chassis wrapped around its cowcatcher and bent under its wheels.

Children Hysterical.

Farmers and sheriff's deputies carrying canvas sacks and bushel baskets went about "picking up every little piece that's left" on the orders of Sheriff S. Grant Young.

Hysterical children, survivors of the crash, told the story in short, jerky sentences. This is it:

The bus, picking up farm children to take them to the Jordan school high on a hill, was proceeding north. Close behind was "The Flying Ute," the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad's fastest freight—the train with a reputation of competing with passenger schedules. On level ground, between snow-covered fields, with no buildings to obstruct the view, the bus driver turned sharply to his right, started up a slight grade to the track and stopped. Then he went ahead.

"I thought I heard someone shout 'train' and then I saw something black coming, and that was all I knew," said 16-year-old Margie Groves, a passenger, whose only injury was a cut on the head.

One Question.

The remainder of the story could be told from the wreck. The engine crashed into the orange-colored bus, a little toward the front. The bus body was thrown to the left and as the heavy train stopped some of the children, pieces of the bus and the children's belongings were tossed about. Children thrown from the bus at the impact escaped with their lives.

For the next four hours hysterical parents arrived at Salt Lake General Hospital. They asked but one question: "Was my child—?"

Often attaches answered in the affirmative. The reaction from the parents was the same: to scream, to break into sobbing or to stand mute.

"It was tragic out there on the track," said one nurse. "But it's just as tragic here."

Heavy Toll Taken In Bus Crashes

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(P)—Major bus crashes of the last few years include:

Nineteen killed, 25 hurt when bus ran off road and burned near Ossining, N. Y., July 22, 1934.

Six killed, 15 injured in a bus-truck crash near Elyria, Ohio, April 16, 1934.

Fourteen killed in a school bus-train collision at Rockville, Md., April 12, 1935.

Five killed, 20 hurt in bus-auto wreck near Bowie, Md., August 21, 1935.

Thirteen killed when bus plunged through a drawbridge at Hopewell, Va., December 22, 1935.

Four killed, 15 hurt when bus skidded and dropped into a gully at Chesire, Conn., September, 1936.

Immediately, my father and I rushed to the track, and trainmen told us to go back and call ambulances.

"It was foggy and snowing. I wouldn't have been able to see the train or bus if they both hadn't had their lights on. I did not hear the train whistle."

W. E. Speakman, Denver and Rio Grande Western chief clerk, said 28 dead had been counted, but official estimates at the hospital were repeatedly revised.

LARGE TVA BALANCE KEPT QUIET, CHARGE

Legislator Says Agency Had $37,900,000 While Asking More Funds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(P)—Representative Wolverton, Republican, New Jersey, a member of the committee investigating the TVA, contended today that the Authority, while seeking additional appropriations, had failed to apprise congress that it had an unexpended balance of $37,900,000.

Another development before the committee was testimony by Theodore B. Parker, the TVA's chief engineer, that the tri-purpose character of the Authority's development had been the means of saving vast sums. He said $94,000,000 had been invested in the three dams now in operation—Wilson, Norris and Wheeler—whereas the total cost of providing separate systems for flood control, navigation and power would have been $160,000,000.

Wolverton questioned representatives of the general accounting office about financial reports for the year ended June 30, 1934.

The general accounting office listed TVA assets at $104,244,125, he said, whereas the annual report of the TVA to congress for the same period listed assets of only $13,714,416—a difference of approximately $90,000,000.

The general accounting office auditors said the difference had resulted from TVA's failure to include the Muscle Shoals property, received from the War Department and valued at $51,000,000, and omission of approximately $37,900,000 of funds appropriated by congress.

"So that any member of congress looking at the financial statement," Wolverton commented, "would not have been apprised that TVA, which seeking additional appropriations, had an unexpended balance of $37,900,000."

The auditors said TVA was making constant adjustments of its accounts and that its books were never closed.

NUMBER OF ARRESTS DROP IN NOVEMBER

The number of persons arrested by Atlanta police in November was 600 less than in October, it was disclosed yesterday in figures announced by T. O. Caythorn, statistician for Chief Hornsby.

A total of 5,064 persons were arrested in November, compared with 5,646 persons arrested in October. A decline was also noted in the number of arrests for drunkenness, dropping from 1,803 in October to 1,525 in November.

A marked increase was noted in stolen property recovered, rising from $3,964 worth of articles recovered in October to $11,047 worth in November. A total of 49 persons were arrested for jaywalking, compared with three in October.

In most European countries women slightly outnumber men; in the United States the reverse is true.

Youth Makes Dramatic Appeal for Mother

MURDERESS ANNA MARIE HAHN AND SON, OSCAR.

13-Year-Old Son Pleads for Life Of Doomed Mother, Anna Hahn

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Thirteen-year-old Oscar Hahn pleaded solemnly for five minutes today for Governor Martin L. Dewey to spare the life of his mother, Anna Marie Hahn, Cincinnati poison murderess, condemned to die in Ohio's electric chair December 7.

En route here with his mother's two lawyers, Oscar begged them to "take me before the Governor or somebody."

"I want them to see me and know that I am a good son," he said. "I want them to know I am the kind of a boy who could not have been reared by the kind of a woman they say mother is."

At the clemency hearing, Oscar was asked by Defense Attorney Joseph H. Woodin what he thought of the state's charges that his mother poisoned Jacob Wagner, 72, of Cincinnati, and six other elderly men "for their money."

Oscar replied, calmly: "I don't think she ever did that. She has been a good mother. I don't want her to die. I don't think there ever could be a mother as good as she is. Nobody can ever take her place."

When Oscar stepped down from the witness stand, Hamilton County Prosecutor Carl Rich declared: "Oscar is a fine boy, but his mother is a mass-murderess in every respect. She does not deserve clemency."

Later, Governor Davey said he would take the case under advisement next Tuesday, and would make a final decision then. He left Columbus tonight and will not return until Tuesday.

"I will not allow any delay on this case," he said. "The big question in my mind is whether to let a woman die in the electric chair. I will either commute her sentence to life imprisonment or deny clemency. I will not grant a reprieve and leave the whole thing up to my successor (Gov.-Elect John W. Bricker)."

VOCATIONAL WORK CITED TO LEADERS AS SOUTH'S HOPE

Ralph McGill Pictures
Need in Address to National Association;
Googe, Quigley Speak.

Special to The Constitution

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 1.—The extreme importance of using vocational education as the vanguard of all efforts to make the most of the South's golden opportunities was expounded here today before the American Vocational Association by Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, George Googe, Georgia labor leader, and Thomas H. Quigley, of Georgia Tech, president of the national organization.

The three Atlantans, speaking before the 1,500 delegates to the annual convention here, asserted that vocational education is the method the South will find leads to social uplift and economic prosperity.

Farms For Youths

McGill proposed the beginning of a solution for the South's problems when he asserted "the next legislation ought to be that which will permit the young vocational and college of agriculture graduate to buy a farm, a little stock and machinery. He is the real hope, not the man who has already started downhill."

"The South is the nation's No. 1 economic problem, but also, most definitely and positively, the national economic opportunity No. 1," he said. "It can become a great market for the remainder of the nation."

"All over the South there is evidence of an awakening. I think we may as well admit all the old one-crop farmers, the tenant and sharecroppers who have passed into mature age are pretty much 'water over the dam.' The new generation that is already on the farm, already settled in farming as a profession, is coming along. They will know markets, intelligent farming and cooperative efforts."

Bonds Still Hold

"Today, education is making itself felt in the rural sections more than in a decade. More people are thinking, talking, working for a solution. The South is bewildered, puzzled, but awakening. Today there is hope. The South is not singing 'Dixie' and throwing a black hat in the air. The giant is stirring but the bonds still hold," he declared.

McGill said he believed that vocational education is showing the people in general how to go about solving their problems.

"Especially do I not see any other answer to the problems of our agrarian and industrial South except through vocational education," he said.

"It ought to be obvious to anyone, regardless of political belief or affiliation, that the economic gains in this country must be won on the social frontiers of the underprivileged and that the great gains of the future must be made, not through the man who already has, but in giving the man who has not the ability to have."

He drew a contrasting picture of old time farmers who slaughtered blooded brood stock presented them by organizations interested in building up the quality of animals, and the vocationally trained sons of similar farmers who produce fine blooded animals while their fathers still raise scrub stock.

He referred to his experiences abroad last summer in Denmark and other Scandinavian countries, declaring that he notes in this country a "wishful thinking" on the part of educators for a better system of education which will fit young students for the part they are to play in life.

Googe asserted the American Federation of Labor is pushing a bill scheduled for consideration at the next congress which would provide "upward of $200,000,000" for a program of federal grants for vocational education. He called for such legislation because low-income states cannot provide for its youth the same educational advantages enjoyed by the youths of states with high incomes.

"Such a program as proposed in this bill will provide the key to raising the standards of all economically depressed areas," he said.

Quigley announced the association is planning a new system of vocational guidance which will give the pupil an opportunity for a better selection of vocations to follow.

All three speakers stressed the importance of co-operation among labor, employers and educators if the program is to be successful.

WALLACE APPEALS FOR QUOTA APPROVAL
RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 1.—(UP) Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today warned growers that rejection of quotas in the referendum December 10 would result in an increased acreage of cotton and tobacco in 1939. Speaking here, Wallace said the 1939 program would be "fairer, better and simpler."

"Without the New Deal's farm programs," Wallace said, "tobacco prices during the past five years would have averaged only 10 or 15 cents a pound. Greater production would have wrecked prices."

CITY POLICE OPEN CAMPAIGN AGAINST HIT-RUN DRIVERS

Death Toll Mounting, Captain Jack Malcom To Seek Stiffest Penalties in Convictions.

Faced with the problem of combating the mounting death toll from traffic accidents in the city, the Atlanta police department is planning an intensive war on hit-and-run drivers.

Attributing at least three deaths to drivers of this class so far this year, Captain Jack Malcom, head of the traffic bureau of the local department, said that he would see that police court judges imposed the stiffest penalty possible under the circumstances. In an effort to curb the practice, the traffic department head declared he would advocate a jail sentence and revocation of drivers' permits for all persons arrested and convicted on hit-and-run charges.

"Malignant Evil."

"The hit-and-run driver is the most malignant evil we have to face in traffic regulation today," Captain Malcom said. "In the past, persons convicted of this misdemeanor have escaped too lightly when haled into court, but with the traffic toll mounting too rapidly it is time that something drastic is done."

Captain Malcom pointed out that from January to October, 512 cases of hit-and-run driving have been reported in the city. Of this number, 289 have been apprehended, he said, with convictions being obtained in 222 instances.

In an effort to discourage hit-and-run driving Captain Malcom urged that citizens witnessing such accidents try to obtain the license number of the guilty party.

"Jaywalkers" Curbed.

That such a war can be effective is exemplified in the crusade against "jaywalkers," according to the traffic bureau official, who pointed out that since the inauguration of a campaign against offenders of this type November 20, following the death of Thomas J. Bullard who was struck at Third street and West Peachtree, there have been no pedestrian deaths in the city.

With the death Tuesday night of Tucker Wynne, who was struck at Ponce de Leon and Bonaventure avenues about three weeks ago, traffic fatalities in Atlanta for the year amounted to 50, one less as compared with the 11-month period of 1937 and only nine below the total for the entire year. Eight deaths from traffic accidents were recorded in November, an increase of six as compared with the same month last year.

BAPTISTS TO HONOR ORPHANS SUNDAY

Druid Hills Church Will Serve Turkey Dinner.

Druid Hills Baptist church will have the several hundred boys and girls of the Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home as its special honor guests at the morning service Sunday, and immediately following the 11 o'clock worship, the church will serve a turkey dinner for the guests and the officers of the home.

Governor Rivers and Mayor Hartsfield have been invited to sit on the platform and speak a word of greeting to the boys and girls, and later to join with them in the dinner at the church. Dr. Newton will deliver a special sermon for the occasion on "Strength and Beauty."

The children will be brought from Hapeville in large buses, which will be parked immediately in front of the church and remain there until the children are ready to return to the home. There will be police protection to avoid any possible traffic hazards for the children.

The service will be broadcast over radio station WGST and the children will be heard in a number of songs. E. J. White, superintendent of the home, will make a brief address. The public is cordially invited to attend.

FEAR OF HUNGARY IS BELIEVED CAUSE OF CAROL'S PURGE

Possible Attempt to Take Transylvania Province Viewed as Responsible for Ruthless Campaign.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Fear of a Hungarian invasion designed to regain territory which Rumania acquired from Hungary after the World War tonight was believed responsible for a ruthless campaign to wipe out the Fascist Iron Guard.

King Carol II ordered "ruthlessness" on a nation-wide scale in the face of reports that Hungary might attempt to seize Rumania's Transylvania province, formerly Hungarian territory.

Mass arrests, dismissals of veteran army officers suspected of Nazi-Fascist sympathies and military occupation of several districts marked Carol's determination to smash the terrorist Iron Guard whose "fuehrer," Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, and 13 companions were slain by prison guards yesterday.

Paper Warns.

The "purge" of Codreanu's already outlawed followers, for the most part zealous youths, occurred on the twentieth anniversary of the union of Transylvania with Rumania and while agitation mounted in Hungary, across the western frontier, for restoration of the war-torn territory.

The semi-official newspaper "Romania," which is close to Carol's Fascist dictatorship established last February, referred to the Hungarian revisionist program with the warning:

"Enemies from without await only a favorable moment to jump on us."

The newspaper said that the killing of Codreanu and his 13 companions—supposedly because they attempted to make a break from a prison convoy—and the resulting purge "had to be swift as lightning."

"There was no other solution," it said. "The order of the Iron Guard anarchy had to be crushed or we would have been paralyzed in facing other dangers more grave and which would have demanded a tribute of blood from the entire nation."

Guards Redoubled.

Guards were redoubled around all Jewish population centers, especially in Cernauti, near the Polish and Soviet borders, and at Timisoara, where a wave of anti-Jewish violence has occurred.

Government officials said that many young and zealous had been strongly influenced by the magnetic personality of the 39-year-old Codreanu, and were most likely to exact "reprisals" for his death by indulging in new violence against the Jews because of a general lack of police protection.

MODERN PIED PIPER EMPLOYS POISON GAS

The Pied Pipers are going modern—they are using poison gas instead of piccolos.

Herbert Brown, of Sudbury, Ont., hired to exterminate thousands of rats which were overrunning the city dump, poured tons of gas into a refuse heap where they were breeding and a few hours later not one live rodent could be found.

LOW SPEED LIMIT IS DEMANDED HERE

If they did it, we can. Our traffic experts have recommended that these three traffic reforms be adopted as a means of helping the situation in Atlanta. I hope that council will pass them.

Enforced Uniform Speed.

Hartsfield said a strictly enforced uniform speed limit is of utmost importance in preventing more accidents and deaths this year. The total already is 50, and the worst season for accidents is at hand. Elimination of angle parking on busy downtown streets will do much toward loosening the flow of traffic, he said.

"Marietta street, for instance, is as wide as one could want, but we make it narrow by parking cars at right angles to the curb," the mayor commented. "It could handle much more traffic if parking was parallel to the curbs."

Elimination of angle parking has been sought many times in recent years but thus far has enjoyed no more success than a bit of free publicity. Many businessmen have objected on the grounds customers and callers would have no place to park while doing downtown business.

Hartsfield pointed out that the traffic congestion now is far worse for business than lack of a few more parking spots on the downtown streets.

An effort, sponsored by the city's traffic experts and the police committee, to ban truck deliveries and pick-ups on restricted streets during rush hours was tabled at the last council session. Councilmen said some merchants had asked them to kill it "because it was bad for business."

Failure to pass the ordinance prompted Hartsfield this week to call on Atlantans to write letters to show council members they wanted traffic reforms.

The mayor said yesterday he felt sure that a majority of council members will agree to test the worth of the measures he will introduce tonight.

Trial of J. A. Bailey, one of the policemen indicted in the graft probe, is scheduled for tonight also. He is charged with being drunk.

Hungry Neighbors Eye Lands of Rumania

King Carol's ruthless campaign against the Fascist Iron Guard is believed caused partly by fear that Hungary might seek to take Transylvania, former territory of that nation. Shaded areas represent territory Rumania's neighbors would like to seize—1. Transylvania. 2. Russia's former Bessarabia. 3. Bulgaria's former Dobrogea—while the entire kingdom falls under Berlin's "eyes to the east."

RAMSPECKS LEAVE ON FLORIDA TOUR

Depart on 16-Car Train for Visit of Plantations, Winter Resorts.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Representative and Mrs. Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, left here tonight on a 16-car train, in company with some 200 other government officials, senators and representatives, for a week's tour of Florida's cane sugar plantations, winter resorts and principal cities.

Invitations were issued in the name of Governor Fred P. Cone, of Florida, and the trip is sponsored by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Ramspeck has opened his capital office, and when he returns to Washington on December 8 he expects to whip into final form a bill to extend the civil service to every branch of the government and to cover all but policy-forming positions. The measure probably will be introduced on January 3, the day of the first session of the 76th Congress convenes.

"President Roosevelt has repeatedly urged extension of the civil service," said Mr. Ramspeck who is chairman of the House Committee on Civil Service. "and I don't see why my bill should meet with any determined opposition."

During the coming session Representative and Mrs. Ramspeck, and their two daughters who are in school here, will make their home in suburban Washington. He does not plan to visit Georgia again until official or personal business brings him to Atlanta, which probably will not be until the next session is well on its way late this winter.

EDMUND P. ROBERTS DIES IN NEW YORK

Former Atlantan Succumbs at Home of Daughter.

Edmund Pettus Roberts, 70, a former resident of Atlanta and a widely known fire insurance executive, died yesterday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Don H. Woodward, in New York City. A native of Selma, Ala., Mr. Roberts first entered the fire insurance business in 1884. From 1897 to 1900 he was deputy insurance commissioner for the state of Alabama. He retired from business in 1929 and since then has spent most of his time traveling.

In addition to his daughter, he is survived by four sisters, Miss Bessie Roberts, Miss Mary Roberts, Miss Alice Roberts and Miss Agnes Roberts, all of Birmingham, and one grandson, Don H. Woodward, Jr.

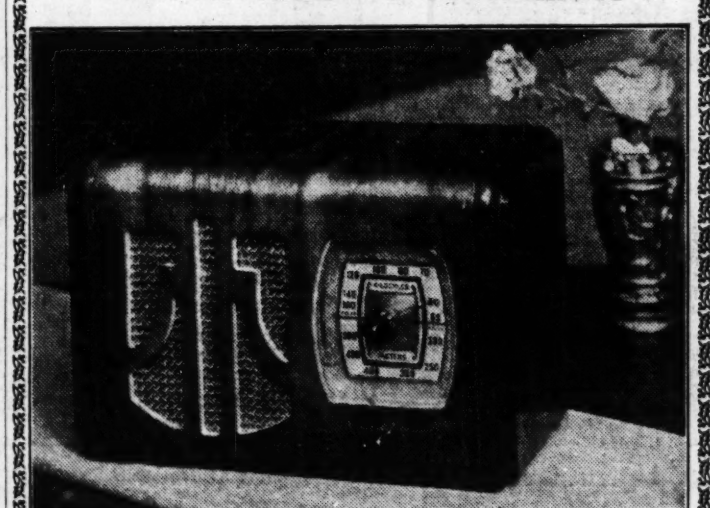

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Spring Hill by Dr. Richard Orme Flinn. Burial will be in West View cemetery under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

M'ILLAN IS ELECTED COBB COUNTY SHERIFF

MARIETTA, Ga., Dec. 1.—Acting Sheriff George H. McMillan today was elected sheriff of Cobb county to succeed the late E. M. Legg.

McMillan defeated O. D. Mitchell, his only opponent, by a vote of 2,557 to 1,508. He will serve until January 1, 1940, filling out the term of Sheriff Legg, who died November 3.

MARTIN TESTIFIES BEFORE DIES BODY

Automobile Union President Attacks Judge Gadola as Fascist Sympathizer.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The house committee on un-American activities heard testimony today that Communists are actively seeking control of every part of the American labor movement.

However, the witness, Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, added that the number of Communists so engaged has been "over-emphasized."

He also took occasion to criticize the house committee as a "political tool in the hands of reactionary" interests. He had appeared before the committee only reluctantly, after being subpoenaed.

Communists, like Nazis and Fascists, try to place their men in key positions in labor unions, he said.

"They are active in the American Federation of Labor as well as any other labor organization," he asserted.

"Are they active in the CIO?" Representative Starnes, Democrat, Alabama, asked.

"They are," replied Martin, whose union is affiliated with the CIO.

He said he had told John L. Lewis, CIO president, that some CIO leaders were "nothing but stooges for the Communist party and threaten to destroy the CIO."

Martin said Lewis was not responsible for that situation "but some of them close to him are."

Martin also testified that it had been "reliably reported" that Judge Paul V. Gadola of Flint, Mich., had participated in meetings called to raise money for Italy's conquest of Ethiopia. Gadola, at Flint, denied this. The judge, testifying before the committee several weeks ago, criticized Governor Frank Murphy's handling of a UAW sit-down strike at Flint.

DOCTORS NOMINATE FOR NEW TERMS

Fuller and Rushin To Compete for Presidency-Elect; Daniel To Advance.

Dr. George W. Fuller and Dr. Charles E. Rushin were nominated for the presidency-elect of the Fulton County Medical Society at a dinner meeting last night at the Academy of Medicine, 38 Peachtree street, N. E.

Dr. J. D. Martin was nominated without opposition for vice president and Dr. Walter W. Daniel was the unopposed nominee for a three-year term on the board of trustees.

The election will be held at the next meeting, December 15. Dr. Daniel, the present president-elect, will be installed at the annual meeting, January 5, succeeding Dr. C. C. Aven.

A group of 32 new members were guests at a buffet dinner which preceded an induction service. The dinner was served by the Woman's Auxiliary to the society of which Mrs. B. L. Shackelford is president. Mrs. C. C. Aven was in charge of arrangements.

Those heard on the meeting program were Dr. Champ H. Holmes, Dr. George F. Eubanks, Dr. R. A. Bartholomew, Dr. Marion C. Pruitt and Dr. C. B. Upshaw.

"GOVERNMENT" DUCK.

NEWNAN, Ga., Dec. 1.—Finding of a migrating duck bearing an aluminum band on its leg was revealed yesterday by Fleming Jones, on whose farm the duck was shot. On the band appeared the words, "Notify Biological Survey, Washington, D. C." The band was dated 1936.

INCESSION OF BOY BRINGS AUTO HURTS

An eight-year-old boy who ran into the path of an automobile and then attempted to run back to the sidewalk was struck down and seriously injured yesterday on North Decatur road, Brookhaven.

The injured boy, David Lee Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vocal P. Robinson, of 4045 Peachtree road, was admitted to Emory University hospital. Both legs were broken, his chest was crushed and he suffered lacerations of the face and head.

Fred J. Bieser, of 989 Gilbert street, S. E., was the driver of the car, according to police. The lad's father is an employee of Hospital No. 48.

WARRANT SERVED ON TRUCK DRIVER

Murder Charged in Connection With Hit-Run Death; Confession Claimed.

A murder warrant was served yesterday on John Digby, 24, negro, in connection with the hit-run death of a 23-year-old bride in Stone Mountain Wednesday night, DeKalb county police disclosed last night.

The warrant was sworn out by W. C. Adams, of Stone Mountain, father-in-law of the victim, Mrs. Rosie Pittman Adams, who was struck down and killed by a truck as she was walking with her husband, J. B. Adams, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Frances Pirkle.

Digby was arrested in Tucker, about an hour after the accident, which occurred on the Stone Mountain-Redan road, within limits of the community at the foot of Stone Mountain, and about a quarter of a mile from the center of the town.

DeKalb county police said they obtained a written statement from Digby in which he admitted driving the truck which struck Mrs. Adams with such force her body was thrown between 15 and 20 feet.

According to this statement, police said, Digby claimed he was blinded by light of an oncoming car and that he saw the three persons walking along the road. Police quoted his statement as saying, "I swerved to the left, to avoid striking anyone."

The side of the big bodied truck struck Mrs. Adams. Digby said he "didn't stop because he was afraid." Charges against him will be presented to the grand jury Monday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Adams, who was married about a year ago, will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of W. O. Mann. The Rev. S. Bryant will officiate, and burial will be in Mountain View cemetery.

AUTO CRASH VICTIM

SUCCUMBS IN JASPER

JASPER, Ga., Dec. 1.—J. H. Warren, 55, of Culbertson, N. C., died today in a hospital of injuries suffered last night when he stepped from his motor car on State Route 5 and was struck by another machine.

The area of Rumania was more than doubled as the result of the Second Balkan war and the World war.

President Roosevelt's Entourage Entertained at Callaway Lodge

Bullitt, Hopkins, Bailey Head Party at Blue Springs Home; Outdoor Dinner Followed by Evening of Music and Dancing.

Special to The Constitution
HAMILTON, Ga., Dec. 1.—Ambassador William Bullitt, Harry L. Hopkins, Governor Carl Bailey, of Arkansas, Dr. Ross McIntyre, the new surgeon general of the navy, and other members of the presidential entourage now at Warm Springs were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cason J. Callaway at their mountain home at Blue Springs near here tonight.

President Roosevelt gave members of his staff, headed by Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre, a holiday to attend the dinner. Governor and Mrs. Rivers were invited, but the governor had to telephone his regrets early tonight when his legislative conference required him to stay in Atlanta.

Outdoor Dinner.
The dinner was served outdoors, and following it, the group moved inside the Callaway lodge for music and dancing throughout the evening. Other guests included:

Miss Margaret LeHand and Miss Grace Tully, the president's secretaries; Frank Walker, former chairman of the National Emergency Council; Charles A. Jones, Mrs. Lynn Pierson, Dr. and Mrs. Ed Irwin, of Warm Springs; M. M. Trotter, of Warm Springs; Miss Marlon Dickerman, of Warm Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Chester T. Pottinger, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Fyler, of Warm Springs; Mr. and Mrs. K. Moore and Will Moore, of Warm Springs.

Other Guests.
Miss Cornelia Dewey and Miss Ruth Wilkes, of Warm Springs; Mr. and Mrs. William Huger, of Atlanta; Richard Courts, of Atlanta; Fred Botts and Mr. and Mrs. Boone, of Warm Springs; Mrs. Cooper Lord and Miss Cissie Lord, of New York; Major and Mrs. Ben Hardaway, of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Lanier, of Americus; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Tallman, of LaGrange; Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Cuthbert, of LaGrange; Miss Sarah Palmer, Miss Helen Jackson and Miss Isabella Badger, of LaGrange, and Mrs. Isoline C. MacKenna, of Detroit.

Washington newspaper correspondents attached to the President's party, also were guests at the dinner.

Campaign Against Jaywalking Ordered Intensified by Malcom

One-Half of Traffic Fatalities in First 11 Months of Year Involved Pedestrians, Traffic Captain Reveals; Bicycle Riders Also Face "Clamp Down" Orders.

Traffic officers yesterday were urged to intensify efforts in stopping jaywalking and were ordered to arrest any person carrying another on a bicycle.

The orders followed tabulation of accidents through November 30, which revealed more than one-half of traffic fatalities and one-third of injuries in 1938 involved pedestrians.

Twenty-nine pedestrians have been killed and 536 injured as compared to 34 killed and 587 injured during the first 11 months of 1937.

Jaywalking Blamed.
Captain Jack Malcom of the traffic department attributed the majority of pedestrian accidents to jaywalking and "not watching where they were going."

"We appreciate the co-operation the citizens of Atlanta have given us, and it is interesting to note that since we have started our drive against jaywalking two weeks ago, we haven't had one pedestrian fatality."

Captain Malcom also pointed out that so far this year three have been killed and 141 injured as the result of collisions between automobiles and bicycles. Last year for the first 11 months three were killed and 131 injured.

"I've ordered traffic policemen to arrest anyone carrying a child on a bicycle. Most of these injuries represent boys who are just careless in riding through streets."

The tabulation also showed that two children have been killed riding in tow wagons and four injured while riding scooters.

"If pedestrians or boys riding bicycles would not only watch the traffic signals, but also the traffic itself, we could cut the traffic toll by more than half," Captain Malcom said.

BOTTLERS TO ELECT OFFICERS TODAY

Georgia Association Opens Its Annual Convention in City.

The Georgia Bottlers' Association will close its two-day annual convention at the Ansley hotel today with the election of officers for the ensuing year during the afternoon session.

Features of the program will be addresses by Senator Walter F. George and Granger Hansell, Atlanta attorney, who will speak on the "Wages and Hour Act," a subject of vital importance to the bottlers of the state.

Welcomed by Mayor.

Convening after a luncheon yesterday, the association, representing more than 200 bottlers and supply men from all sections of Georgia, was welcomed to Atlanta by Mayor Hartsfield, who, in a short talk, called attention to the industrial development which has taken place in the city in the space of a few years and predicted further growth within the next decade.

Complimenting the members of the association for the excellent work done during the year, President Fred L. Cannon, in his annual message to the convention, declared the organization boasted the largest membership in its history. This growth, he said, was due largely to the co-operative spirit shown by all bottlers during the last 12 months.

He urged his associates to point toward the future with renewed interest, reminding them that the way out of the recession was to look upward and not downward.

Plant Safety.
Plant safety and soundness of product as a means of retaining public confidence was touched on by George S. Derry, of Philadelphia, past president of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, of which organization the Georgia association is an affiliate.

Citing the extensive research work being engaged in by the national association for the protection of the bottlers, Mr. Derry said great progress had been made in obtaining better working conditions, emphasizing particularly the improvements in lighting, space and ventilation facilities for plants.

He urged a better relationship between employee and employer, declaring the success of the industry depended upon its manpower. Short talks also were made by Frank Harold and Andrew Kingery, of the Coca-Cola Company. Closing the first day's activities were a banquet and dance last night at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

HARVESTER FIRM SUED FOR CRASH

$25,000 Sought by Truck Driver in Suit.

John L. Wilson, 28, truck driver, yesterday demanded $25,000 damages for personal injuries as a result of an accident. The International Harvester Company was made defendant in the suit.

Wilson alleges he was the victim of a freak collision September 18 when he was unloading a truck in front of a Marietta street store, and that another truck, parked 85 feet way on a down grade, slipped its brakes while the driver was gone. He was pinned between his truck and the runaway vehicle, according to his allegations.

EMORY LENGTHENS JOURNALISM STUDY

Five-Year Curriculum Designed to Afford Student Better 'Background.'

Plans for inauguration of a five-year curriculum in journalism, the first of its kind in the south, were announced yesterday at Emory University.

Beginning next fall, students admitted under the five-year plan will follow a unified program of courses embracing the junior and senior years in the College of Arts and Sciences and a fifth year in the graduate school.

"The purpose of the fifth year is not to increase the number of journalism courses which the student takes," said Professor Raymond B. Nixon, head of the department, "but rather to give him an opportunity to obtain a better understanding of the human society about which and for which he must write."

"Four other universities—Columbia, Northwestern, Stanford, and the University of Iowa—already have gone over to the five-year plan in journalism because they believe, as Emory does, that the traditional four-year course is too short to permit the student to obtain the background he needs in fields such as English, history, economics, political science, psychology and sociology."

OLD CITY HALL SITE LEASE IS OFFERED

75-Year Rental, Taxable Building Basis of Proffer to Officials.

A tentative offer to lease the old city hall site for 75 years has been made to city officials by an Atlanta real estate firm, Mayor Hartsfield said last night.

Hartsfield said the firm, representing out-of-town capital, suggested erecting an office building on the site at Marietta and Forsyth streets.

The lessors would pay the city $12,000 per year rent, based on a $300,000 valuation, and the building erected would be taxable, it was said.

The mayor asserted no definite offer has been made to lease the plot. There has been no offer of any kind to buy it outright, he declared.

RHOADS CLASS GIVES FUND FOR ORPHANS

A check for $123—more than half of which was raised by W. E. (Whistling Dick) Williams, 75-year-old retired Southern Railway engineer—was given last night to the Methodist Children's Home of Decatur. Presentation of the check, which represented dimes collected to the Rev. Fred L. Glisson, superintendent, was a highlight of the fifteenth annual banquet of the Rhoads Sunday school.

Selecting Gifts for Men Is Easy, But Duck the Gaudy, Cheap or Sleazy—The Christmas Spirit Goes to Waste Unless You Exercise Good Taste.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD
EDITOR MEN'S FASHIONS

The Christmas tie for many years has been the butt of scorn and jeers. Too many girl friends, in a hurry, don't stop to plan, or think, or worry whether the tie's the kind he wears, or passes to the man downstairs. They grab at ties bedecked with flowers, and wonder why the boy friend snorts. They pick up stripes, when he likes squares, and wonder why his temper flares. Or if he is the quiet sort they wonder—why that smothered snort?

I picked the ties in this array in a quiet thoughtful sort of way. I didn't rush. I didn't crowd; I dodged the sort that cried out loud. In my opinion, lined up here we've got the best ties of the year.

If you decide to let apparel sing out your keynote Christmas carol, and if it's shirts or socks, not ties, do not neglect the proper size. Palamas robes and gloves, as well, in sizing need to ring the bell. Men hate a gift that doesn't fit. It's such a bother changing it. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

the great good gift of things to wear

When you give them gifts to wear at Christmas-time—you give them everything.

Yes, everything a great good gift should stand for. You give them Romance: was not the silk in that cravat the proud creation of a noted French or British weaver? Was not the wool in those fine socks shorn from the sheep that roam the highest Scottish hills? Are not Egypt's finest yarns reflected in the sheen of that so spotless and superior broadcloth?

And so on.

You give them Good Taste: you know that well-selected gifts to wear are always sure-to-please...hoped-for in the superlative. You, as donor, are certain of Good Taste with your own good judgment and that of your favorite store, shop and manufacturer to rely upon.

You give them Pleasure: for you know that, whether for the male or for the female, suitable adornment is a foremost necessity, pre-occupation and hobby.

In choosing tasteful gifts to wear... whether for tycoon or tyro... whether for dowager or demoiselle... you give them the only gifts that... on each and every Christmas day... possess the glamour of a new experience.

Atlantans Win Georgia Title in Waltz Contest Here

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Thompson, who on November 2 were selected as the winning couple in the Atlanta waltz contest, were also adjudged Georgia winners last night at the state contest held in the Spanish room of the Henry Grady hotel. In the picture with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are Miss Lillie Mae Robinson, feature editor of The Constitution, who presented the trophy, and Juddie Johnson, master of ceremonies.

Memphis Couple Wins Waltz Prize In Finals of Zone Contest Here

Atlantans Selected as Most Representative Georgians; Winners Will Receive All-Expense Trip to New York, Chance at Movie Contract.

By LILLIE MAY ROBINSON.

The waltz—which has come down through history and has survived the new-fangled jitter-bug movements—was danced with all its due rhythm in the Spanish room of the Henry Grady hotel last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Spiro Alexander, of Memphis, Tenn., were selected as the most representative waltzing team in the zone, consisting of Georgia, Florida, Tennessee and Arkansas. They glided across the floor, with the greatest of ease, did the competing couples in the "Bring Back the Waltz" finals—first the state and then the zone, to the strains of the rhythmic waltz tunes played by Eddie Camden and his boys, with Juddie Johnson as master of ceremonies.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Thompson represented Atlanta, and Miss Virginia Poindexter and John Pless, Cartersville, competing for the gold trophy, state prize, engraved as the award of Luise Rainer, Fernand Gravet and Miliza Korjus, stars of "The Great Waltz." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's contribution to the "Bring Back the Waltz" movement. A staff of judges composed of Bert Bertram, Miss Lottie Hentschell and Enrico Leide, selected Mr. and Mrs. Thompson as the most representative Georgia couple, to compete with other zone contestants, who were Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, Miss Bobbie Karston and Shelley Theford, of Hot Springs, Ark.; Miss Rosemary Church and Bill Byron, of Tampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, as zone winners, will be given an all-expense trip to New York, where, on December 12, they will compete in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria with winning teams from the other 11 zones of the United States, for a grand prize of three months' contract in Hollywood with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Mrs. Alexander, a beautiful brunette, said that this trip to Atlanta is her first out of her native state, and she is looking forward to a great time in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, who will celebrate their first wedding anniversary on Christmas Day, were both born in Memphis, with birthdays two days apart.

Cotton Official Estimates

1939 Loss; Says the Pest

Could Be Controlled.

The boll weevil will cost Georgia cotton farmers more than $30,000,000 in 1939, it was estimated yesterday in a statement issued by W. M. Hutchinson, secretary of the "Grow More Cotton Per Acre Association."

"The prospective cost to Georgia for feeding the boll weevil, on the basis of the new cotton allotments will amount to $19,911,765," the statement said, "and the prospective loss to Georgia due to deficient farming will add another $10,087,000 to the total."

"If the terrific loss suffered annually in Georgia because of the boll weevil were caused by wind, flood or fire, it is safe to predict that national and state governments, the press, the Red Cross and the general public would rush to the relief of our farmer sufferers."

"Can Georgia afford to make this tribute to a bug that can be overcome by well established and economical control methods?"

Accused of Cashing Stolen

Money Order Blanks

in Texas.

A man listed as Robert W. Cole, 28, of an Atlanta address, S. E., address, is being held for federal court in Dallas, Texas, charged with cashing stolen money order blanks, postal inspectors reported here yesterday. Cole and a companion were arrested early this week in El Paso.

Inspectors said the pair, believed to have cashed five of the forms here on November 16, readily admitted cashing five more of the papers in Dallas.

Cole, a New Yorker, was released conditionally from the federal penitentiary here on September 29, after serving two years of a two-and-a-half-year sentence for violating the national motor vehicle theft act. After his release he found work in Atlanta as a salesman.

His companion, listed as Ray W. Miller, had been sought by postal inspectors for allegedly stealing 500 blank money order forms from the Glen Helen (N. C.) post office on November 15, and cashing approximately $600 worth en route to Atlanta. A search of Cole's room revealed that he had received a letter from Miller last October.

Brigadier General William E. Shedd Jr., who recently commanded the second coast artillery regiment at Fort Monroe, Va., has been ordered to Fort McPherson, where he will command the fourth coast artillery district, army orders released in Washington yesterday.

Shedd succeeds Brigadier General Fulton C. C. Gardner, who sailed for his new post in Hawaii several weeks ago. The fourth coast artillery district comprises harbor defenses at Charleston, Key West and Pensacola.

CARNEGIE STEEL REAFFIRMS PRICES

Present Rates To Continue in First '39 Quarter.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, traditional pace-maker of the steel industry, reaffirmed today existing prices on all products for the first quarter of 1939.

The announcement came as no surprise to the industry and retention of the present price structure by the U. S. Steel Corporation's largest subsidiary, was expected to release orders from a number of large consumers. These consumers, observers pointed out, have been withholding orders pending announcement of first quarter prices.

Some observers, optimistic over the outlook for the new year, expect automobile schedules to be stepped up and construction projects involving large aggregate tonnage moved forward. An added stimulus, they predicted, will come from railroads who are counted upon to come back into the steel market for the first time since 1937.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED.
NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Four men were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of conspiracy and using the mails to defraud the General Investment Corporation and others of $700,000. Five corporations also were listed in the 15-count indictment.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated; you probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines. It's this mass that helps a bowel movement.

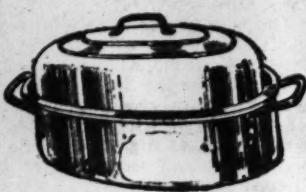

The common sense thing to do is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast may give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal-aid, vitamin B₁. All-Bran is not a drug, not a medicine. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Veteran Emory Glee Club Director Is Paid Honor at Surprise Dinner

Long and Faithful Service of Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey Eulogized on His 18th Anniversary as Head of University's Singers.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.

The long and faithful service of Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey as director of the Emory Glee Club was saluted in song and speeches last night at a surprise testimonial dinner and party, held in the "little auditorium" on the campus.

The affair brought together more than 150 persons, many widely known in musical and singing circles, and marked Dr. Dewey's eighteenth anniversary as director of the glee club and his twentieth anniversary as a member of the Emory faculty.

John Bumstead, president of the club last year, presided as toastmaster. Brief speeches honoring Dr. Dewey and his work were made by Fritz McDuffie, present president of the club; Dr. Harvey Hamfitt, professor of German and first director of the glee club; Lambdin Kay, Chess Lagomarsino, Dr. W. A. Smart and Ray Nixon, who gave a history of the organization.

Dr. Hamfitt was presented with an honorary life membership. A message from Harvey Enders, composer, of New York, was read to the assemblage, and McDuffie presented Dr. Dewey with the manuscript of a special arrangement for male chorus of a new song, "Remembrance," by Mark Andrews, who dedicated it to the glee club.

The club presented several numbers. Speights Ballard, business manager, announced plans for the coming year, which include trips to Florida, Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi.

Chester Kitchings, well-known tenor and former president of the club, journeyed by plane from New London Conn., to attend the party. Among well-known singers present were Miller Lewis, tenor; Ben Theobald, bass; Robert Blackwell, tenor, and Francis Nunn, baritone.

Many faculty members and former glee club members were present.

JOHN F. BALDWIN DIES AT AGE OF 54

Funeral Services Will Be Conducted Tomorrow.

John F. Baldwin, 54, of 853 Pulliam street, a resident of Atlanta for 20 years and a veteran of more than 30 years of service with the N. C. & St. L. railroad, died yesterday at a private hospital after an illness of about a month.

A native of Kennesaw, Ga., he was a Mason and a member of the St. John's Methodist church, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Surviving are two sisters, Miss Mary B. Baldwin and Mrs. C. G. Hill, and two brothers, C. S. and Claude Baldwin.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Kennesaw Methodist church by the Rev. W. H. Clark. Burial will be in the Kennesaw cemetery under direction of Harry G. Poole. The O. R. C. and the B. M. T. will act as honorary escorts.

W. M. KELLEY RITES TO BE HELD TODAY

Burial Will Take Place in West View.

Funeral services for William M. Kelley, 58, supervisor of the Southern Weighing and Inspection Bureau, who died Wednesday at his home, 456 Sinclair Avenue, N. E., will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes by the Rev. J. G. Davis and the Rev. J. W. O. McKibben. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

A resident of Atlanta for more than 30 years, Mr. Kelley was a member of the Baptist church and of Grive Lodge No. 652, F. & A. M., of Carnesville. He is survived by his wife, his parents, two daughters, five brothers and four sisters.

COLLEGE AT DOUGLAS TO DEDICATE LIBRARY

DOUGLAS, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, and John D. Spivey, president of the state senate, are slated to speak at the dedication of the new $30,000 library building at South Georgia College tomorrow.

The school, a part of the state university system, has an enrollment of 340. Its president, J. M. Thrash, will preside at the dedicatory ceremony.

CONTRACT IS LET BY U. S. FOR SIXTH NEW BATTLESHIP

Mighty War Vessel Will Cost $52,794,000; Army Order Calls for Streamline Supply Program.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(P)—The administration's quickened national defense preparations produced a navy contract for a sixth new battleship today and an army order to streamline munitions supply plans.

The navy contract was for construction of the 35,000-ton battleship South Dakota. Totalling $52,794,000, it was awarded to the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, of Camden, N. J.

The army order was given by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, to more than 200 munitions procurement specialists here for their first national conference.

The officers are in charge of preparations for mobilizing industry to supply munitions to the army and navy.

Simplified Plans. Johnson told them that in the event of war the high command did not want "the experiences of 1917-18 repeated."

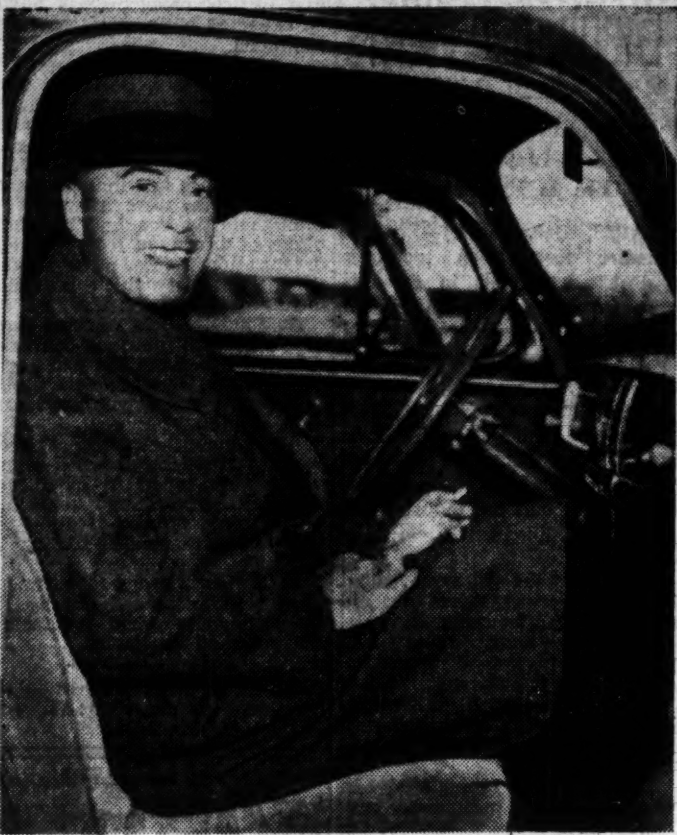

He noted that in the World War, American soldiers had to use numerous British and French weapons because of American shortages, and said 14 months elapsed before a full American division was on the battle line.

Urging simplified munitions plans, Johnson referred apparently to Germany in stating that "in a certain foreign country" designers strip all non-essentials from important war equipment items.

The assistant secretary urged the army officers to hasten completion of detailed specifications and drawings for all munitions the army would need in war-time. They are now only 75 per cent complete, he said.

"Big Job Ahead." "There is a big job ahead of us," he declared, referring to expectations that the new congress will provide substantially increased appropriations for weapons, planes and supplies.

International Problems and Internal Affairs on the Presidential Menu

William C. Bullitt, U. S. Ambassador to France, paused briefly at Candler airport yesterday afternoon before proceeding to Warm Springs to confer with President Roosevelt on what he termed "routine matters."

The contract which the navy awarded was for the last of four battleships for which congress provided initial funds this year.

It was delayed nearly two weeks after the other had been awarded. Negotiations resulting in a reduction of some $2,000,000 in the firm's original bid were completed during that time.

The contract price is subject to adjustments for changes in labor and material costs during the 52-month construction period. To it must be added approximately $26,000,000 for armor, guns and ammunition.

Government payments to farmers more than doubled from August to September, and were much larger than last year, the review stated.

Including these payments, estimated receipts from sale of principal farm products in the district increased 75.3 per cent from August to September and were 4.1 per cent larger than in September, 1937.

They talk of "cabbages and kings." That's what President Roosevelt and Speaker McNary, shown at Warm Springs, told reporters when questioned on the trend of their discussions. Their hour and half conference at the "Little White House" centered on the congressional outlook and the international situation.

upon the visit as a formality and go down merely to pay our respects."

Callaway Invitation. The governor was invited to be a guest at the lodge of Mr. and Mrs. Cason J. Callaway, near Hamilton, last night when members of the President's entourage were entertained by the mill executive and his wife, but he was forced to decline the invitation when the legislative conference he conducted during the day ran well into the night.

The conference with Hopkins and the legislators took up the greatest portion of the governor's day, his forty-third birthday anniversary. There was no special observance of the day, although the governor received scores of presents and hundreds of congratulatory telegrams.

The governor said he felt fine and added that the "day is just like any other, full of work."

Evans Present. The legislative conference was marked by the presence of Representative Randall Evans, of McDuffie county, anti-administration candidate for speaker of the house. Speaker Roy Harris, of Augusta, whom Evans is opposing, also participated in the conference.

The conference was one of a series the governor is holding prior to the January session. Yesterday's meeting marked the halfway mark. Following it a recess was taken. The governor will resume the meetings about the middle of this month.

At the conferences the state executive and the assemblymen are discussing informally the matters to come up at the forthcoming session, they being topped by the administration's desire to obtain about $8,000,000 in new revenue to complete its program.

Exemption Losses. While Rivers concluded his seventh pre-legislative conference, announcement came from State Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head that the state's net loss from homestead and personal tax exemptions this year would be $963,325.86—somewhat less than previous unofficial estimates of approximately $1,000,000 to $1,500,000.

Head disclosed gross returns from 159 counties for 1938 totalled $940,740,262, as compared to $922,791,679 a year ago. Automobile returns increased $12,890,403 over 1937, while money, notes and accounts jumped $25,627,350.

Returns on land values increased $11,166,414 while city property advanced $14,641,362.

Poll taxes dropped from $367,720 in 1937 for whites to $363,447 in 1938, and for negroes from $58,377 to $50,819.

Other Losses. Decreased returns were shown also in merchandise stocks, which dipped $25,053,210 as compared with 1937; building and loan associations, with a decrease of $11,930,411; iron works and machine shops, down $6,603,019; jewelry, $381,903; farm implements, $333,565; farm products, $52,699, and mineral leases and miscellaneous property, $579,829.

Seven senators and 19 representatives attended yesterday's conference. Four more sessions are planned, one each on December 12, 13, 15 and 16. The governor has invited all legislators to come with him to Milledgeville December 14 for ceremonies marking the start of construction of new buildings at the State Hospital for Insane.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY OPENS COLUMBUS QUIZ. COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 1.—(P) Investigation of about 75 criminal cases was started by a grand jury organized at the opening of federal court for the Columbus division of the middle Georgia district here today.

Cases to be investigated will include those in the other divisions of the district. Court sessions are scheduled in Macon and Athens this month.

The condemnation case of the United States for 839 acres of land in Harris county for Pine mountain park purposes will be heard tomorrow. A jury was selected for the trial today.

MADE EAGLE SCOUT. ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 1.—Charles Zachry, 15, son of Mrs. Ruth Poole Zachry, has been awarded his Boy Scout eagle badge. He is a member of Troop 1, sponsored by the First Methodist church in Athens. Since becoming a tenderfoot scout in 1935, he has advanced rapidly to eagle, the highest Scout rank.

F.D.R., BANKHEAD DISCUSS PROGRAM

to the United States, arriving in Atlanta shortly before noon.

White House attaches regarded the Bullitt visit as a social call without particular significance, but some observers believed Mr. Roosevelt desired to inform the envoy to France of the reports made by Hugh R. Wilson and William Phillips, ambassadors to Germany and Italy, respectively, on persecution of minorities by the totalitarian governments.

After Bankhead's hour-and-a-half visit at the "Little White House" on Pine Mountain, the chief executive drove his congressional guest to Georgia Hall, white-columned administrative center of the Warm Springs Foundation, and parked before a group of reporters and cameramen.

Bankhead nodded agreement when the President opened the interview by saying there was no news.

Asked whether a special message would be sent on the big defense program now under expert study, Mr. Roosevelt said he could not say how that subject would be treated because he had yet to begin writing his message. He shied away from questions whether he would make another attempt to get through a government reorganization bill. Specific bills would not be discussed at this time, he emphasized.

Committee appointments and senate and house organization in general were understood to have been discussed. Bankhead said before the conference he expected to take up the house rules committee chairmanship left vacant with the defeat, sought by the President, of Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York.

RANCH EMPIRE FARM COUNTY MINUS AID

Kenedy county, Texas, the stronghold of the King-Kieberg ranch empire, is one of three counties in the United States without a Public Works Administration project, according to Regional PWA Director George M. Bull.

The county has a population of about 700, nearly all of whom are employees of the King ranch. The county has been in the national news twice in recent years, first when its landowners declined to permit a state highway inside its boundaries and second when two alleged game poachers, John and Luther Blanton, disappeared near the King ranch while hunting.

The state highway finally was authorized, but the Blanton mystery still is unsolved.

$20,000,000 IN ART LOANED EXPOSITION

Italian Collection Arrives, Heavily Guarded, in New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The advance guard of $20,000,000 of art loaned by Italy to San Francisco's 1939 exposition arrived today with a report that both sides in Spain's civil war "have been very careful about preserving" that country's objects of art.

Reports to the contrary notwithstanding, said Dr. Rudolph Heinemann, a European representative to the San Francisco exposition, no dealer aboard has a worthwhile Spanish piece of art for sale.

Furthermore, both government and insurgent forces have been careful not to dispose of valuable art to buy ammunition (as reported), and also have rigorously guarded it against shellfire, he said.

On arrival from Switzerland in the French liner Champlain, Dr. Heinemann said the art treasures loaned by the Italian government for showing at San Francisco would be taken across country under armed guard. The shipments were expected to arrive in seven weeks.

Heinemann said that the statues and pictures, all insured at face value, including Botticelli's "Birth of Venus"—valued at $2,000,000—Michelangelo's "Madonna," Raphael's "The Madonna Sedia," Titian's "Pope Pius III with His Nephews," Del Verocchio's statue of "David," and Mantegna's "St. George," have been loaned free to the fair. The fair will pay only freight and insurance, he said.

DU PONT OPPOSES INCENTIVE TAXES

Too Much Danger, He Tells
proves Plan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Lamont du Pont, widely known industrialist, told the senate committee on profit sharing today that business was still afraid of what government might do to it and as a result was lagging in enterprise. The president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company testified that he was opposed to incentive taxation to encourage industrial profit sharing because he feared "there would be danger of too much administrative interpretation of such tax laws and of consequent bureaucratic interference with the conduct of business enterprise."

He said that "Once the principle is established, it can readily be used for ends definitely harmful to business—thus creating even greater uncertainty."

Instead of profit-sharing systems, du Pont favored "high wages based on efficient performance."

In taking a stand against both profit-sharing systems and incentive taxation, he differed with three other witnesses who appeared before the committee during the day.

Frank Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher of the Gannett newspapers; A. L. Marsh, Detroit manufacturer, and Willford I. King, New York University professor, all endorsed the principles of profit sharing and incentive taxation to encourage it.

Gannett asserted that the operation of profit-sharing systems on his newspapers had proved a bulwark against labor disturbances and had increased efficiency and profits.

Talking to reporters after the hearing, du Pont said he did not believe that business was prepared to take up the slack in employment that would be occasioned by a sudden cessation in government spending.

Nevertheless, he said he thought a start should be made toward economy in that portion of the government budget not represented by relief appropriations. He blamed high taxes and the fear of possible future punitive taxation for lack of business enterprise.

'Socks Appeal' Staunchly Supported by Atlanta Girls

Atlanta Misses Strong for Socks; Vanderbilt Girls Don Cotton Hose

Co-eds Parade in Stockings
Grid Heroes.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Stock in stockings went up on the Vanderbilt University campus today as enterprising co-eds found an advantage in obeying the dean of women's edict against socks and bare legs.

Technically obedient students proved their popularity by appearing in white cotton stockings prominently autographed by their favorite grid heroes while the rebel faction could only recall that yesterday men students paraded with signs defending "socks appeal."

Saturday morning a mass meeting will be held to debate what should be the height of fibular fashion.

Meanwhile Ward Belmont girls went about their nearby campus with their lower extremities unrestrained and with the oldest student there unable to remember the dim days of 1934 when not only were stockings required, but athletic teams appeared in long black bloomers.

The change there came about without the fanfare and excitement aroused on the Vanderbilt campus yesterday, when the men students picketing for "freedom of the legs" marched into the girls' chapel, to face the icy stare of the dean of women, who has declined to comment since her initial instruction that socks were not to be worn.

The Ward Belmont students asked to be allowed to wear socks and were granted permission "without protest or demonstration," said Miss Catherine Morrison, physical education director. But, pointed out Vanderbilt's supporters, the Ward Belmont girls still are prohibited from wearing makeup to classes.

1 KILLED, 1 INJURED
IN BAY STATE BLAST

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 1.—(UP)

One man was killed, another injured critically and several patients reportedly were thrown from their beds in nearby Maplewood hospital tonight, when an explosion occurred in the N. W. Mathey Shoe Cement factory.

Leonard Barrett, 28, of Saugus, was crushed to death under a cement wall that collapsed, and Frank Owen, 58, of Saugus, was hospitalized with a skull fracture, internal injuries and first-degree burns.

Dr. C. H. Foreman Resigns NEC Post

Dr. C. H. Foreman, acting state director of the National Emergency Council, resigned yesterday to devote his time to his position as director of the power division of the Public Works Administration.

He was succeeded by Francis F. Shurling, 25-year-old Wrightsville lawyer, his executive assistant since last July.

It was the third shift in the directorship in recent months, involving a position which was drawn into the controversies of the 1938 Democratic senatorial campaign.

Erle Cocke, a supporter of Senator George, was dismissed as director of the key New Deal uniting agency last summer, and was soon supplanted by Foreman.

Shurling, who has served as government attorney on several southern projects, and in Washington, came here directly from private practice in Wrightsville.

He was educated at Hargrave Military Academy at Chatham, Va., and was admitted to the Georgia bar at the age of 17. Believed to be the youngest NEC state director in the country, Shurling is married, and lives at 1230 Piedmont avenue, N. E.

rule against the girls' wearing socks on the campus but they are "asked" to dress for dinner, when means a street dress and stockings. The girls are not allowed to leave the campus for a visit into Atlanta wearing socks.

Snagging hose on desks and during recess seems to be the main objection to wearing stockings to school here, Jean McIntosh says.

Helen Taulman thinks that "girls appreciate a girl wearing stockings." She says: "I like stockings and think they look neater but low heel shoes are so comfortable to wear to school that we all wear socks with them. It just looks better."

Convenience Stressed.

Susan Garrett thinks convenience of socks is their "selling point" for school and in addition "thinks it a good idea to wear them. But Blanche Sparks wears stockings "because mother makes me, but all the boys like socks the best."

Genevieve Stevens is a senior at the Seminary but says, Senior or freshman, it doesn't matter as far as being dignified is concerned. We all wear socks and like it."

Fifteen years is the age limit for wearing socks in public, according to Jeannette Estes, who adds that "any age is all right for wearing socks to school." When Marion Knowles wants to be "dressed up," she wears stockings, but says that she "never dresses up for school, so, of course, I wear socks."

Only one pair of stockings graces the wardrobe of Clare Johnson, but there are "dozens of pairs of socks," while Kate Westmoreland and Sue Pierson think there "is no sense in wearing stockings to school." Dorothy Giddings thinks by wearing socks she "will save daddy's money a little because stockings rip" while Laura Palmer admits she has a "socks hobby," and adds that "I only wear stockings when I think I should."

"Next," Greshaw had her special reasons for socks:

"I don't care for stockings at all, but I do wear them, because when I wear dark brown hose it makes my legs look sunburned. And an-

DALADIER CRUSHING LABOR OPPONENTS

ble Is Reported.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Premier Daladier took stern measures against participants in France's thwarted general strike tonight and headed for a showdown on his three-year plan of "economic mobilization."

Despite moderate demands for a "gesture of appeasement" following his easy victory in quashing yesterday's abortive walkout, the government and big industry decreed punishment for striking workers.

Leaders of the strike movement in public services were ordered discharged and thousands of workers in private industry who joined the movement were dismissed.

New Problem.

Scattered walkouts of workers in sympathy with those discharged gave the government a new problem.

The premier announced he would convene parliament next Thursday. His action against the strikers, alienating him from leftist parties, was regarded as having thrown him on the mercies of the extreme right.

The Socialist party charged he had combined with "Fascist" sympathizers to smash all benefits labor had gained under the People's Front government since June, 1936.

Government sources put the number of dismissals of workers throughout France at "not more than 70,000." The Socialist party, however, charged that 1,500,000 workers had been punished because of the abortive strike which Daladier broke with a show of military force.

Labor leaders warned grimly that serious developments might be expected if punitive measures continued.

Loss of Rights.

In many cases, Socialists said, the discharged workers were required to renounce all seniority rights.

Increasing numbers of scuffles between police and mobile guards and workers were reported throughout the country. The rumblings of discontent from workers' organizations were more serious than the spirit which prevailed during the general strike.

At Soud-les-Bois workers sympathizing with punished comrades attempted to force the gates of a tube factory. Three soldiers, a Mobile Guard and a police sergeant were injured.

At Gundolsheim, in Alsace, trains were delayed when signal wires were found to have been cut. Six strikers and a Mobile Guard were injured fighting before an automobile factory at Sochaux.

At Romans, Drome department, shoe workers locked out by the management stormed the factory and smashed machinery.

The first printing press in the western hemisphere was set up in Mexico City in 1539.

Gargantua Heads West To Sail East

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1.—(AP)—That big soups, Gargantua the Great, circus gorilla, arrived here today in an air-conditioned, glass-enclosed, bullet-proof private railroad compartment.

He came from winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla., with his trainer, Richard Kreener, and two air-conditioning experts, and will sail Saturday on the S. S. Massadem for London to make a winter circus appearance.

The gorilla's private compartment—his regular circus cage with air-conditioning and special ventilators—is mounted atop a railroad flat car.

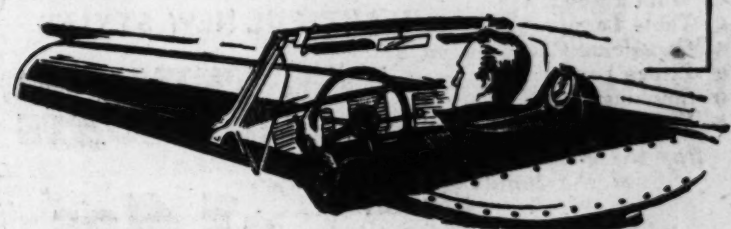

Gargantua is so protected against draughts that his meals are slipped to him in such a way that no vagrant breeze can blow upon him.

5-NATION COUNCIL TO DISCUSS JEWS AT SESSION TODAY

Report on Readiness of Other Countries to Take German Refugees Will Be Made at Conference.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(P)—Representatives of the United States, France, Great Britain, The Netherlands and Brazil will meet here tomorrow to study the great task of finding homes for Europe's harassed Jews, particularly those in Germany.

They form the "inner" committee of a board formed at Evian-les-Bains, France, last summer by delegates of 32 nations.

The British chairman, Earl Winterton, and the American, George Rublee, permanent executive director of the international committee, are to report on the reaction in other countries which were asked to help.

Taylor Arrives.

Myron C. Taylor, American industrialist and vice chairman of the international body, arrived today for the meeting. It is expected that concrete proposals are formulated to deal with the problem, representatives of all 32 countries likely will be summoned.

Some countries have expressed a willingness to take refugees on certain conditions and in limited numbers. But because German Jews are allowed to take only a small amount of money when they emigrate, some nations are unwilling to admit more than a few families.

Rublee has approached the German government to receive him to discuss the possibility of letting refugees take more money out of Germany. German officials said

Those 13 Diamonds Back in the News

LAGRANGE, Ga., Dec. 1.—It happens only once out of 158,000,000 deals, the law of probabilities says regarding the 13-cards-of-a-suit hand, but it happened to Remur Crum in LaGrange!

Playing with Miss Emily Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Bob McGarity, Mr. Crum found himself confronted with 13 diamonds. He sanely opened with a demand bid of two, and his partner bid two spades. Immediately he closed out the bidding with a seven-diamond declaration, whereupon Mrs. McGarity, also sanely, she thought, in view of two aces, doubled. Crum redoubled and displayed his solid hand for a showdown grand slam, vulnerable, for a total score of 2,710 points.

The four signed affidavits saying that it actually happened in the course of an ordinary bridge game.

They would consider the proposal, but gave no more tangible replies to repeated requests.

Jewish Children Due.

Meanwhile, the first group of 300 Jewish children, whom England agreed to receive, was due tomorrow at Harwich from Germany.

Australia disclosed she would admit 15,000 refugees within three years.

Prime Minister Chamberlain has announced surveys in British Guiana, Tanganyika and elsewhere to determine the suitability of wide areas for colonization.

The Netherlands government, which already has admitted some Jewish children, planned to receive 1,500 more.

Among the countries ready to admit a few families are Southern Rhodesia and Northern Rhodesia. Switzerland planned to admit 1,500 temporarily.

C. R. CRABBE SR. DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Former Atlanta Resident Was Visiting Son at Time of Death.

Charles Roy Crabbe Sr., of Russell, Ky., a former resident of Atlanta, died unexpectedly yesterday of a heart attack while visiting at the home of a son, Charles R. Crabbe Jr., of 198 East College avenue, Decatur.

A native of McDonough, Mr. Crabbe was connected with John M. Smith Company here for 16 years as mechanical superintendent and was considered one of the city's pioneer automobile mechanics.

He left Atlanta about 15 years ago to accept a position as superintendent of the ground crew at the Cincinnati airport but had been inactive for some years on account of health.

Surviving are two other sons, William J. Crabbe III, of the U. S. navy, and H. F. Crabbe, of Atlanta; six sisters, Miss Lulu and Miss Ida Crabbe, Mrs. T. O. Gillis, and Mrs. W. K. Burton Sr., all of Atlanta; Mrs. W. Watson, of Jacksonville, and Mrs. F. L. Fargason, of Gainesville; two brothers, G. L. Crabbe, of Locust Grove, and James B. Crabbe, of Galveston, and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Sam R. Greenberg & Company.

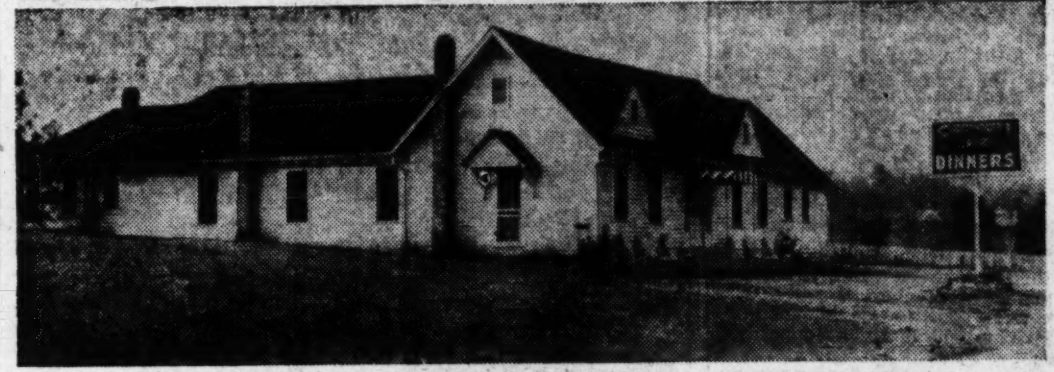

MODEL SCHOOL CHOSEN.

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., Dec. 1.—Blue Ridge High school has been selected by J. Harold Saxton, high school inspector, as one of the two schools in the state to carry out a study for experimental purposes. Blue Ridge school has added this year a commercial department and a fully equipped school band. T. B. Clyburn Jr. is superintendent.

ask responsible citizens. Ask the president of our bank, our pastors and the solid, respectable people of the county."

Adamson declined to discuss his case other than to say: "I'm going to demand an early trial to clear my name."

Walter Estes, foreman of the grand jury which returned the indictments against Adamson and named about 40 road house operators along the two highways, yesterday was "kind of bewildered."

"Only One Side."

"I don't know what it is all about," he told questioners. "People tell us that there is less bootlegging and less crime in Clayton county now than at any time in history. We heard only one side of the matter when we sat on the grand jury. Mr. Adamson appeared before us several times, but we could not tell him about any bill against him without violating our oaths. As a consequence, we know only one side of the matter."

Leathers, on the other hand, said he will continue his clean-up campaign. When asked if this was to be a policy throughout the circuit, he answered:

"It is our policy to enforce the law, if that can be construed as a policy. We are responsible for what transpires in the circuit and for conditions prevailing in the district. If law-abiding citizens of Clayton county will give us the only little help, we will show the world that the county has been reclaimed from the grip of racketeers."

Leathers' latest action charges violation of the fee system, under which the sheriff is supposed to work, and asks that he be relieved of his office. The accusation, filed yesterday with P. K. Dixon, clerk of courts, claimed Adamson accepted commissions ranging from five to 25 per cent for collecting old tax files.

Specifically, the charge is that he obtained five per cent on ten such files, which totaled $143.71; ten per cent on three, totaling $53.17, and 25 per cent on four, totaling $28.09. Judge Dawes set 9 o'clock Saturday morning for hearing on the ouster.

Commissions Keep Office.

To this Adamson pleaded guilty "in advance." He contended he accepted the contract with the Clayton county commission after a recommendation by Harvey H. Hunt & Company, auditors, that a central office be established for collection and retention of the files, and that the conduct of the office has taken every cent of the commissions to maintain it.

Miss Amahlee Rutherford has been in charge of the office for the past six months.

"We have done a good job," she said. "It has been a boon to the county and a convenience to taxpayers and others. I draw a straight salary, but I know the commission contract can not pay Mr. Adamson anything over a period of years. Our county is too modest to do that."

H. Grady Moore, chairman of the Clayton county commission, cited similar contracts between

TERRIFIED JEWS AWAIT SATURDAY

Order to Remain at Home Feared Ruse of Secret Police.

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—(P)—German Jews looked forward anxiously to Saturday, the day of national solidarity, when they must remain in their homes between noon and 8 p. m.

Some Jews viewed the occasion as an opportunity for secret police to visit their homes and round up many who escaped arrest in previous raids.

Foreign newspaper offices received frequent calls today from apprehensive Jews who asked if anything was known of such a plan.

Nothing could be learned officially. Nazis on Saturday will be collecting for the winter relief fund.

A brighter aspect appeared in the departure of 300 Jewish children for England and plans of a committee of British Jews now in Berlin to send about 4,700 more to English homes.

Reliable informants in Vienna indicated about 1,100 young Jews recently obtained visas for emigration to Liberia.

Foreign consulates and Jewish and Christian relief organizations were said to regard as hopeless the plight of adult Jews unless generous aid comes.

Experienced officials of foreign consulates said that helping men in concentration camps did not mean relief was brought thereby.

On the contrary, they said, secret policemen quickly arrest a "substitute" for every Jew whose release has been obtained by a consulate official.

Consular circles said sending money to Jews from abroad did not solve the problem and that the secret police regarded such attempts to help as a means of increasing Germany's amount of foreign exchange.

Hence certain consular officials advise Jews to ask friends abroad to make it evident that certain funds will be at the disposal of the German Jew when he reaches another country.

At any rate, the people of Clayton county are wondering, "What next?" They mill about in small groups in corridors of the courthouse, on drugstore corners, and swap ideas. Most of them seem to think it is a political fight, but there are numerous strong partisans who feel that Adamson is being martyred or that he is getting a prosecution long overdue.

In the meantime, the opposing factions are grooming for a fight to a finish beginning next Saturday and lasting until the cases are finally adjudicated.

Judge Davis yesterday barred newspaper photographs in the courtroom, and defendants refused to be photographed. He sent out a call for additional talesmen as Leathers pressed to clear up the situation before adjournment of the present term of court.

Mrs. Eddie Guyol, widow of the slain Atlanta numbers racketeer, was among those arrested in the raid. She will appear in court when needed. Allen has announced. In the interim, she is vacationing in Florida.

CHOIR WILL PRESENT CATECHISM IN SONG

NEWNAN, Ga., Dec. 1.—The choir of the First Presbyterian church here Sunday night will present a service of song consisting of the first 38 questions and answers of the Westminster Shorter Catechism, set to music composed by S. K. Emurian, Syrian Presbyterian minister.

The service will be the third and last of a series of studies in the catechism rendered by the choir during the last year.

Mrs. Mike Powell is choir director, and Mrs. Weyman Evans is organist. The Rev. J. E. Hannah is pastor.

Educators Must Learn to Live; Georgia Teachers Advised Here

Study of Social Situation Also Vital in Solution of Two-Fold Problem, Dr. William Kilpatrick Tells Conference Group.

In quest of "a better understanding of the philosophy of education," nearly 500 Georgia educators went to school here yesterday in the first of a three-day series of study conferences. Representing institutions near Atlanta, they met with 22 group leaders under direction of Dr. William H. Kilpatrick, professor-emeritus of education at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

A native Georgian and authority in educational philosophy, Dr. Kilpatrick told leaders in a preliminary meeting yesterday that education is confronted with a two-fold problem.

"Must Learn to Live."

"First," he said, "we must learn to live, continually enriching our personalities that we may live better; second we must study the social situation and find out how it needs to be managed that all may live best."

He declared he believed this end might be attained only in a democracy and added his contention that democracy would survive "as long as intelligence rules in the affairs of men."

"Dr. Kilpatrick characterized the British term 'muddling through' as 'a mild degree of intelligent direction,' and asserted 'if an individual knows exactly what he is driving at, it is less muddling.'"

"The greatest advance a person can make," he said, "is to get to a point where they can question intelligently the conventional goals. When you find anyone who does not question his goal, you find he does not live intelligently."

Southern education, he said, among other advantages, has a fine tradition of "what constitutes the good life," and a fairly homogeneous people. The chief disadvantages, he declared, is that the South is economically agricultural.

"Unless this is changed," he asserted, "the South cannot live decently. But it is exceedingly probable that if we put our brains together and don't get to fighting each other, we can solve the problem reasonably well."

Dr. Kilpatrick, often referred to as "America's greatest living teacher," will speak at 8 o'clock tonight at the city auditorium on the subject, "Progressive Education and the World We Live In."

Group Leaders. Frederick Redefers, executive secretary of the Progressive Education Association, said the study conferences are patterned after class room discussions rather than the conventional form of convention meetings with talks by a few leaders. The Atlanta conference is the eighth in a nation-wide series of experimental gatherings.

Group leaders taking part in the meeting here include Ethel Adams, of Moultrie High school; Walter Downs, of South Georgia Teachers' College; J. L. Fortney, of the Griffin public schools; J. E. Greene, Paul R. Morrow and Rachel S. Sutton, of the University of Georgia; W. Fred Gunn, of West Georgia College; E. M. Highsmith, of Mercer University; Harry A. Little, of Georgia State College for Women; W. W. McCune, of Savannah public schools; M. W. Clinton, of Tusculooza Senior High school, and Tully B. Olds, of the University of Alabama.

LINEMAN MEETS ISSUE. Dave Graf, in Rhein, Sask., telephone lineman, had to fight to do his work. He was instructed to remove a number of rural telephones because of unpaid bills. Five hardened farmers fought him on the issue.

A Ministry of Fifty Years will make a valuable Christmas gift to your pastor. Price $2.75. Send orders to the Author, B. J. W. Graham, Atlanta, Ga.

Top Textile Chemists and Colorists To Hear Talks on Cotton Research

Scientific Discussion of Staple Will Feature 18th Annual Session of American Association Which Convenes This Morning.

A scientific study of cotton all the way from the field to the ultimate consumer will feature the 18th annual meeting of the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists which opens this morning at the Biltmore Hotel.

More than 700 technical experts from all parts of the country are expected to attend the two-day session which will be held under the auspices of the association's southeastern section.

T. M. Forbes, executive secretary of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia, Hugh M. Comer, vice president and general manager of Avondale Mills, and Governor Rivers will be the principal speakers at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. Allen Jones, vice chairman of the southeastern section, will preside.

Prominent Speakers. Speakers who will be heard at technical sessions scheduled for this afternoon include Dr. Milton Harris, director of research for the Textile Foundation Research Association; "The Research Program of the Textile Foundation at the National Bureau of Standards"; Dr. A. R. Macomack and Dr. C. A. Basore, of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, "Methods for Increasing the Consumption of Cotton." Robert H. Adams, of the Calhoun Mills, "The Testing of Textile Fabrics"; Dr. Carl Z. Draves, of the Ludlow Manufacturing and Sales Company, "The A. A. T. C. & C. Official Method for the Evaluation of Wetting Agents," and Sumner H. Williams, of the General Dyestuff Corporation, "The Dyeing of Naphthols on Cotton Piece Goods by the Continuous Hot Flue Method."

A moving picture entitled "The Destiny of Dixie" will be shown at a buffet supper at 7 o'clock tonight which will conclude the day's program. P. G. Wear, chairman of the entertainment committee, will preside.

Flax Discussion. A talk on "Flax—Its Agricultural and Industrial Possibilities" by C. G. Worthington, research fellow at the state engineering experiment station, Atlanta, is scheduled for tomorrow morning's session.

Others who will be heard at that time include Thomas R. Smith, of the Wiscasset Mills; Professor Albert H. Grimshaw, of North Carolina State College; Ralph D. Greene, of the Calco Chemical Company; Henry L.

Young, of the Aridye Corporation, and James W. Stallings, of Stein, Hall & Company.

Entertainment features listed for tomorrow afternoon include a sightseeing tour in and around Atlanta, a golf tournament and a reception at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 6:15 o'clock.

This will be followed by a banquet beginning at 7 o'clock, the last event on the convention program. Robert W. Philip, chairman of the southeastern section, will be toastmaster, and speakers will include Senator George, Alban Evanson, president of the association; Louis A. Olney, president emeritus and chairman of the research committee of the association, and Arthur R. Thompson Jr., association vice president.

Mrs. Frances Carr Estes, a resident of Atlanta for more than 30 years and the widow of Dr. Joseph Lawton Estes, died yesterday at the residence of a daughter, Mrs. Eugene Willingham Sr., 88 Polo drive, where she had been making her home.

A native of Covington, Mrs. Estes was educated at Wesleyan College, Macon, and Shorter College in Rome. Subsequently she lived at Blackshear, and at Eastman, where Dr. Estes practiced until his death in 1898.

Later she moved to New York city and then back to Atlanta.

Surviving are another daughter, Miss Ann Estes; two sons, Joseph L. Estes, of Atlanta, and Todd S. Estes, of San Francisco; one brother, I. W. Carr, of New York city, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Church of the Epiphany by the Rev. John W. Kennedy. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery under direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

Pallbearers will be Hanson McNamara, Walter Peabody, L. M. Jones, Ralph E. Lewis, Fritz Jones and Broadus Estes.

ROBERT E. LORTON LAST RITES TODAY

Husband of Former Atlanta Died Wednesday.

Funeral services for Robert Eugene Lorton, associate publisher of the Tulsa (Okla.) World, and husband of the former Beverly Rogers, of Atlanta, who died Wednesday, will be held today in Tulsa.

Mrs. Lorton, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Rogers, prominent in Atlanta society, had planned to attend the wedding here next Tuesday of Miss Eloise Gresham and Stuart Witham.

Mr. Lorton was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage late Tuesday and failed to rally despite the use of an iron lung. Doctors attributed the attack to injuries sustained in a diving accident about four years ago.

Exercise for Streamlining Midsection Involves Little Activity

Russian Women Inquire Latest Reducing Exercises

By Ida Jean Kain.

Not so long ago the world pricked up its ears at the report that Russian women were once more interested in beauty and cosmetics. This announcement did not really surprise any of us, because all women are born with equal rights to the pursuit of beauty and not even a government can keep them from exercising that right.

Now Russian women want to know the latest wrinkle in reducing in America, and this request unexpectedly proves another point for us. . . . Work is not reducing. If the manual labor done by the Russian women does not keep their figures slim and lovely, then we can conclude once and for all that no work is streamlining. . . . And that is that.

From our experience we can tell the Russian women that the latest thing in reducing is streamlining exercise, and that position is everything. An exercise need not be particularly vigorous, but to be streamlining it must be performed in the position which uses the particular set of muscles which need firming.

For instance, the basic exercise for streamlining the midsection involves little activity. You lie on your back on the floor with the knees flexed and the feet on the floor and draw up and in with the lower abdominal muscles to touch the small of the back to the floor. This exercise is extremely easy but it makes for firm muscles, a flat tummy.

To make this position, serve for waistline exercise—and very slimming exercise at that—give it a twist. Hold the knees together and twist at the waist, first to one side and then to the other so that alternate thighs rest on the floor. Try to keep the upper part of the back flat on the floor, focusing the movement at the waist and rolling the hips.

Another splendid reducer for the waistline is the easy upward stretch, also combined with the twist. In principle, this position is just the reverse of the one preceding. Instead of holding the knees still, try to hold the hips square to the front, moving the trunk. Simply stand erect, hands clasped high overhead and stretching upward. Then twist at the waist from one side to the other, keeping the hips as still as possible.

Stretching and twisting give the figure that spare rib look.

Far and away the best hip-reducer is the exercise in which the leg is brought to a right angle at the hip, particularly in a backward kick. In this position the leg is given to the gluteus muscle, that fleshy mass forming the buttocks. Kick backward, raising the legs as nearly as possible to a 45 degree angle, and swinging from the hips.

Most of us work with our arms but we are rarely required to hold the arms at shoulder level—the position which brings into play the triceps, located on the back of the upper arm. Be sure that as you do your arm circling and thrusting exercises you raise your arms to shoulder level.

On first acquaintance exercise is all too likely to be mistaken for a series of strenuous ups and downs, wild gestures and violence, but the important thing is to make use of the right muscles. This can be done only by exercising in the right position.

Abtest sisters in the film colony, and loveliest in any area, are the Lanes—Priscilla and Rosemary. It's for such glamorous beauties as these that today's perfume is suggested—to heap still more splendor upon their pretty heads.

This Diadem of Loveliest Perfumes Was Created For An Empress

By Lillian Mae.

It adds that finishing touch to the adornment of beautiful women, in much the same way that a crown denotes dignity and splendor upon the head of a queen. In fact, I'm told on good authority, that it was created for an empress, by a royal prince of Russia.

That's how grand it is, so if you are not interested in being surrounded with an aura of glamour, don't read further about this intoxicating fragrance, this scintillating scent which will glorify the loveliest of women.

The package itself is a gem—red plush lined case lined with ivory-colored plush much like a lovely pillow. And perched in the center after the manner of a crown the bottle, itself crown-shaped, bearing royal insignia.

If you see it, you'll buy one or more for Christmas gifts, but my bet is that you'll sneak one aside for your own use—and ornamentation of your dressing table. That's how attractive the package is.

INDICATES SUIT.

For example, the contract is six spades. The opening lead is the Heart act. When defending partner plays an unnecessarily high heart, he is asking for a shift to diamonds. . . . the higher-ranking of the two remaining plain suits other than trumps. The play of an unusually low card asks for an immediate shift to the lower-ranking of the two remaining suits.

BECOMES CONFUSING.

It is true, this special high-low suit preference signal has met with mixed success against minor suit game contracts and occasionally works well against major suit game bids, doubled for penalties. But, therein lies the difficulty. There must be a stopping place lest leaded confuse the high-card signal with the standard method of requesting a continuance of the same suit.

Flattering "Slimliner" by Lillian Mae

A larger-size frock to gain the limelight and hold it! It gives the height that the short need, the slimmest that "stouts" look for . . . and it shows that quiet good-taste for which Lillian Mae's creations are famous. Then, too, this brand-new pattern 4991 can be made quickly in a few hours. You can guess how flattering the ease-in softness of the bodice will be—and how the new-shape panel (which may be belted or not) will slenderize your figure! The hip-line will mold you neatly, while the hem has just the right amount of "ripple" for comfort and chic. Why not sew a warm, long-sleeved version in a wool that absorbs light and makes you look thinner—or a gay, short-sleeved style in silk?

Pattern 4991 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 3/4 yards 36-inch fabric.

Don't Give Up Your Dining Room

By Elizabeth Boykin.

All politics aside, I have to take issue with Mrs. Roosevelt on the subject of dining rooms. She thinks they can very well be dispensed with in the small home of moderate means. And so they can, but not very conveniently.

Pretty Tiresome.

If there's a family of children—and people still have them as Mrs. Roosevelt should know—there are regular meals to serve. And eating in a corner of the living room gets to be pretty tiresome three times a day. It's all right for the career girls you read about who eat breakfast on the fly and just have dinner at home now and then for a lark. Or for a young couple just starting out.

But I say, for convenience's sake, that the lady with a busy active family had better think twice before she gives up her separate dining room. There are so often problems of finding space for so many straight chairs in the combination room, not to mention the question of storage space for linen, silver, china and glass.

The Ritual of Dining.

Another point to consider in the active family is the fact that the living room is kept pretty busy doing its own job properly without having to double up.

Hollywood Columnist Brings More News From the Studios

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.—I am sorry that Warner Brothers have shelved their original idea of a full-length picture on the life of Haym Solomon, which was to have starred Paul Muni. Solomon, as you may or may not know, was a Jewish patriot during the Revolutionary War, and the Warner boys are afraid that, if a big picture were made now, it would seem too much like propaganda.

And so they have compromised on a technicolor short to run 35 minutes—"The Sons of Liberty," which will have Haym Solomon as the central figure, but will give equal prominence to the other patriots of the day, including George Washington and Thomas Jefferson.

Claude Rains and John Garfield have been tested for the Solomon role, and there will also be parts for Pat O'Brien and Wayne Morris. (Solomon was a Polish immigrant who had been in this country one year and amassed a fortune. He lent the financially pressed Americans half a million dollars, which to this day has not been repaid.)

Claude Rains is also wanted to play John Philip Sousa in a picture based on the bandmaster's life. In addition to covering the Spanish-American War, the trouble in the Philippines and the beginning of the World War, the picture will feature the pick of the 100 or so famous marches.

RKO-Radio is trying to buy "Our Town," the Thornton Wilder prize-winning play. . . . Darryl Zanuck will beat competitors to the punch with his life of Abraham Lincoln, based on "Lawyer of the West," by Lamar Trotti. Zanuck's Lincoln is Henry Fonda, who bears a strong facial resemblance to the great emancipator.

Poor Sidney Toler. He was very upset about that story that he was to be dropped from the Clark series. The actual truth of the matter is that Twentieth Century-Fox is so enthusiastic about his initial "Champ" studio has signed him to continue indefinitely in the series.

Simple Remedies For Common Ailments

By Dr. William Brady.

Calamine lotion is famous for the relief of smarting, burning, irritation and especially itching of the skin from any kind of skin trouble. To make it, mix:

Powdered calamine (crude zinc ore) powder, tablespoonful; zinc oxide powder, tablespoonful; glycerin, two teaspoonfuls; borax powder, two teaspoonfuls; lime water 12 tablespoonfuls; phenol solution (5% carbolic acid), four tablespoonfuls.

This makes a little over one-half pint (8 ounces). Shake the bottle well, and dab on the skin with your hand, as often as needed, without rubbing. Lime water is made by putting a piece of unslaked lime size of walnut in two quarts of water in a crock stirring up and letting stand until sediment settles. Upper clear fluid is lime water. Phenol solution is one part of phenol, pure "carbolic acid" in 20 parts of water—druggists may sell this strength of phenol or carbolic without prescription. In some instances where the irritation is mild, the calamine lotion may be prepared without any carbolic in it—using plain water instead of the carbolic solution to fill the half pint bottle.

Lip salve is useful to prevent and relieve chapping or cracking of the lips. A satisfactory lip salve is made of:

Spermaceti, one ounce; olive oil, two ounces; white wax, one-half ounce; oil of rose geranium, four drops.

Melt the first three ingredients together in double boiler. When melted and stirred, remove from fire, let cool, then stir in the rose geranium oil, and if desired a few drops of cochinelle to tint. Both perfume and tint may be omitted if preferred. Apply the salve to lips as needed.

Skin lotion which is in constant use in many families to prevent or relieve chapping, redness and irritation from strong soaps or other cleaning agents, smarting and burning of the skin after shaving is easy to concoct:

Boric acid powder, three teaspoonfuls; Tragacanth shavings, 1½ teaspoonfuls; glycerin, one tablespoonful; rain or snow water or distilled water, enough to make one pint.

Be sure to get tragacanth in shavings or curly chips, not powder. Heat the mixture moderately until a clear fluid is obtained, stirring occasionally, adding water to make up for evaporation. Label it skin lotion. Apply a few drops to skin after washing and before skin is entirely dry, once or twice daily.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Oxalic Acid

Do dried figs contain oxalic acid? Are they fit food to feed a baby?

Answer—Yes, do potatoes, bread, beans, tomatoes, spinach, carrots, beets, chocolate, cocoa, strawberries, rhubarb, plums, coffee, tea, etc. Figs are excellent food for children. A young infant may not handle them so well.

There is no objection to eating foods that contain oxalic acid, as a general rule.

Booklet on Easy Ways to Tell Fortunes

How clever Peggy is at fortunes! The crystals are only an inverted fish bowl, but she pretends to see mysterious symbols in its dancing lights.

"What a rosy future you have," she says to Hal. "I see a boat, sailing a trip abroad. The bell nearby hints a wedding, so I'll wager that trip will really be a honeymoon."

And when Hal asks what he'll use for money, Peggy looks thoughtfully at the crystal, says she sees a ladder which means an important business promotion, a key which means good luck.

Fun for two or twenty when you can tell exciting fortunes like that. Learn the simple "crystal" symbols, other easy ways to tell fortunes, too.

Here's the clue to reading cards. Hearts stand for love and romance; diamonds give tips on wealth; clubs say how you'll do in business; and spades speak roughly of trouble. You quickly catch on to the meanings of each card.

Read handwriting, too, for personal secrets. Do you suspect Tom lacks ambition? If his writing slants downward across the page, you're right. And what a surprise to find quiet little Sue writing an angular hand, revealing a very stubborn nature. Tail capitals hint of pride; low capitals, an inferior complex.

Add to your popularity by playing fortuneteller. Our 40-page booklet, LET ME TELL YOUR FORTUNE, shows how to read cards, tea leaves, number. Tips on crystal reading, dreams, handwriting, seeing your fortune in an open fire. Fortune games for parties.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, LET ME TELL YOUR FORTUNE, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

My Day: Unofficial Visit. Enjoyed in Florida

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

SARASOTA, Fla.—It is wonderful how rumors spread. Just before lunch yesterday, a very nice young reporter from a Sarasota newspaper came in to call, and I told him about this being an unofficial trip and he went away quite happy. A little later he telephoned my aunt and said that he was in serious trouble because it was rumored that I had visited several places of public interest, and would she tell him if I had been there? She responded that I hadn't visited any of the places in question.

As a matter of fact, all we did yesterday afternoon was to drive down to a point where one can get fishing boats, and look at the beach where, should it really turn warm, we might go and swim. Then we drove through Venice named, I suppose, for the queen city of the Adriatic. Individual places in the town are very charming, but on the whole you receive an unimpressed impression. On the way back we stopped at a rather unique small hotel which looks like a barn on the outside, but is quite charming on the inside. The world is indeed a small place, for the manager proved to be the cousin of a boy I know quite well in New York state.

The house of the Grays, with whom I am stopping, has more charm for me than any other house I have seen around here. David Gray built it according to his own plans, and watched over the workmen every minute during its construction, so it was real individuality. There are two little courts. The terrace, which is completely enclosed by the house and the water, gives one a feeling of being cut off from the world. All the sun there is, pours down there during the day, the flowers bloom, the grass is green, and they are fortunate enough to have one or two fair-sized trees on it.

The rooms all open out to the water or on this little terrace, and with the fire blazing on the hearth, and I read aloud from Hendrik Willem Van Loon's "Our Battle," which is his answer to Adolf Hitler's "Mein Kampf."

Mr. Van Loon's book was inspired by that curious performance in New York city on October 12, 1938, when a meeting in that city, Mayor LaGuardia's name was hissed, and a foreign dictator's was cheered. Whether you agree with everything in this little book or not, I think you will enjoy reading it, for, as an historian, Mr. Van Loon has a way of saying things, and he draws upon a vast fund of knowledge to fix the facts in your mind, by some illustration which is always to the point.

You may feel that he is hard on some people. For instance, last night, one of my listeners said that he felt that Clemenceau had been kept alive on onion soup, yes, but by love for his country and not by hate. I have always had a theory that all hate sooner or later kills, but after reading this book, which spurs you to look back over the past, it allows people to do a great deal of harm before their eventual demise. In any case, read the book. It will, I think, increase your sense of responsibility for our democracy. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

Happy Life Depends on Way People Meet Circumstances

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: May a mother have a word in your column to protest against the prevalent tendency to excuse married men who seek companionship outside their homes? I read quite a lot in defense of husbands who neglect their wives during the period of rearing the children. Perhaps the wife too is neglected. It seems to me that parenthood should involve sacrifices for both man and wife and it's a mighty poor sort of man who uses an alibi for his derelictions.

Mr. Van Loon has a way of saying things, and he draws upon a vast fund of knowledge to fix the facts in your mind, by some illustration which is always to the point.

You may feel that he is hard on some people. For instance, last night, one of my listeners said that he felt that Clemenceau had been kept alive on onion soup, yes, but by love for his country and not by hate. I have always had a theory that all hate sooner or later kills, but after reading this book, which spurs you to look back over the past, it allows people to do a great deal of harm before their eventual demise. In any case, read the book. It will, I think, increase your sense of responsibility for our democracy. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

Isn't it true that there's very little we can do about changing the outside circumstances of our lives or the characters of our dear ones? I think it is; but a happy and useful life depends on the way we meet those circumstances and adjust ourselves to the nature of our dear ones. We have to deal with life as it is, not as we would wish it to be or think it should be. Husbands should be loyal to their wives and loving toward their children and patient and unselfish during the trying years of rearing their families. But they aren't always that good.

And so it comes to pass that while the married man has no moral right to seek companionship outside his home many a one yields on the temptation to seek it if his wife neglects him while the children are young. Not excusable but understandable. CAROLINE CHATFIELD. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

Wild West Party Is Planned by Members of S. A. E. Fraternity

Novel Affair at Emory University Will Feature Days of Gold Rush

By Sally Forth.

TIME will turn back to those famous days of the gold rush in '49 and to the original wild west when the Georgia Epsilon chapter of S. A. E. fraternity entertains at a Wild West party tomorrow evening at the fraternity house at Emory University.

To add to the realism of the era made famous in film and fiction, the hosts have converted their fraternity house into an old time ranch house with a first class saloon with swinging doors and a bar where unspiced punch will be served. An old jug band will furnish music for the occasion and no doubt some of the "cow boys" will use fake pistols and guns as real "shoot 'em up" scenes will be staged. Wild West characters will be represented when the guests arrive wearing costumes of miners, cowboys, Indians, cowgirls and other figures typical of the wild west.

Officers of the fraternity are

James Humber, president; Henry Michael, vice-president; Jere Wells, secretary; and Smith Johnston, treasurer.

Young belles invited are Ruth

Miller, Dorris Thomas, Val Nelson, Lucille McDuffie, Martha Dunn, Betty Lumus, Virginia Wright, Betty Aycock, Emmie Martin, Virginia Langdale, Sara Copeland, Sue Clapp, Frances Stewart, Jean Allen, Mary Robertson, Betty Hurt, Catherine Tift, Peggy Crosswell, Cavel Long, Dagmar Peterson, Elizabeth Brannen, and Anne Jennings.

IN THAT historic Georgia town known as Greensboro is a quaint antique shop located in one of the city's oldest homes. Attractive Virginia Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Evans, former residents of this city, who now reside in Memphis, Tenn., is proprietor of the shop.

For several years, Virginia has made the collecting of valuable antiques her chief hobby. Atlanta friends of the young belle are keenly interested in Virginia's hobby developing into a career. Sally is informed that Friends from Atlanta, Athens, Macon, Madison and other nearby towns attended the shop's opening recently. Incidentally, the first sale engineered by the youthful antique collector was a pair of fan vases, which was surrendered with regret as Virginia counted the pieces among her choicest possessions.

A pair of Georgian mirrors over a century old, which Virginia found in Greene county, is among the valuable collection which includes many pieces brought from abroad, as well as collected in this country. By the way, Virginia has the distinction of being one of the youngest members of the National Glass Collector's Club.

Virginia is the niece of Sam Carson and Garnett Evans, and a cousin of Edward Percy and William Merritt, all of this city.

GLIMPSED HERE AND THERE: Flora Wright at a recent social affair wearing a model of plum colored crepe accented by finger-tip cape of silver fox fur. . . Emily Inglis King presenting a stunning appearance in a rose woolen model worn with a coat of easter milk and a hat that trimmed with a rose feather. . . Blanche Knapp appearing sophisticated in a severe black broadcloth model accented by a gold necklace and belt. . . Virginia Merry Jones smartly attired in a black velvet afternoon frock worn with a black velvet hat featuring a spice rust crown. . . Helen Aycock wearing a perky black hat highlighted by a fuchsia feather. . . Mrs. V. W. McKinney looking ultra smart in a duobonnet duvyn coat trimmed in a kolinsky collar. . .

Junior Woman's Club Honors New Members

The Junior Atlanta Woman's Club entertained its new members at a buffet supper recently at which Miss Evelyn Burns was hostess at her home on Mt. Perin road.

A business meeting preceded the supper. Mrs. Vernon Brown, president, appointed the following committee in charge of Christmas projects: Misses Marian Mobley, Anne Cox, Hermie Jacobs and Christina Phillips. Misses Gene Witherspoon, Marian Mobley, Catherine Heffernan and Mary Frances Witherspoon gave a skit.

Miss Martha Burnett Marries Mr. Carswell at Brilliant Ceremony

Miss Martha Louise Burnett became the bride of Rufus Hutchinson Carswell Jr. at a brilliant ceremony solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. William Gardner officiated in the presence of an assemblage of prominent Atlantans and out-of-town guests, and a program of nuptial music was presented by Dr. Charles A. Sheldon, organist, and Mrs. Elyea Carswell, soloist.

The altar was banked with palms and ferns and flanked on either side by pedestal baskets of Easter lilies. Myriads of candles in cathedral candelabra lighted the chancel and completed the lovely effect. Family pews were marked with clusters of Easter lilies tied with white satin ribbon.

Groomsmen were Tom Sims, Jim Williams, Dr. Hugh Hailey, Dr. Bernard Wolff, John McGaughey, Whitney Colburn, of Chattanooga; G. B. Ramsey and Frank T. Davis.

Ushers were John K. Otley, A. D. Adair, James H. Whitten, John Sanford, Fred Stone, Charles Elyea, Dr. H. J. Savage and George McCarty.

Mrs. Frank T. Davis, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a bouffant gown of ice-blue satin, fashioned along Victorian lines, the bodice of which featured an off-the-shoulder effect. Her old-fashioned nosegay was fashioned of Better Times roses and parma violets, and was tied with red ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Catherine Gray, Miss Ethel Erwin, Mrs. Stratton Foster, of Nashville, Tenn.; Miss Anne Irby, Miss Frances Lyle, of Montgomery, Ala.; Miss Betty Long, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Elizabeth Odell, of Concord, N. C., and Miss Caroline Dalton, of High Point, N. C.

They were gowned alike in models similar to that worn by the matron of honor, and they carried old-fashioned nosegays of Better Times roses and parma violets encased in lace paper holders, and tied with red ribbon.

The lovely bride entered with her grandfather, Jeff Burnett, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Elyea Carswell, who was best man. Her wedding gown of lustrous white satin featured short bouffant sleeves and was fitted to the hip-line. Fullness was introduced in the skirt to form a court train, and the collar and cuffs were fashioned of Rosepoint lace. Her exquisite veil of illusion tulle, purchased during her travels abroad, fell from a halo of rosepoint lace, which was caught to her hair with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and valley lilies encased in an old-fashioned holder, and tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Gordon Burnett, mother of the bride, was attired in a model of pearl gray lace fashioned with a full skirt and puffed sleeves. She wore a shoulder spray of purple orchids.

After the ceremony the bride's mother entertained at a reception at the Piedmont Driving Club. The club was beautified with palms, ferns and a profusion of pastel-shaded flowers.

The receiving line stood in the loggia against a background of greenery before which were placed floor baskets of white chrysanthemums. Receiving with the bride and groom were Mrs. Gordon Burnett and Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Davis.

Misses Beverly Bailey and Belle Meador took the bride's book. The bride's table was placed at one end of the ballroom. Centering the handsome lace cloth was a tiered flower-embossed wedding cake embedded in a mound of white roses and valley lilies.

Miss Rosinger, of Beaumont, Texas, Weds Carl D. Levy, of Atlanta

BEAUMONT, Texas, Dec. 1.—The marriage of Miss Doris Miriam Rosinger, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Rosinger, to Carl Devereux Levy, of Atlanta, Ga., was solemnized recently in Temple Emanuel with the bride's father officiating.

Garlands of amilax, with woodwardia fern and palms, provided the background at the altar for the floral decorations of white chrysanthemums and white cathedral tapers. Before the ceremony Mrs. Aaron Littman sang and Mrs. J. D. Simmons, organist, played.

The bride's attendants, gowned alike in royal blue taffeta, with the exception of the maid of honor, Miss Ruth Rosinger, who wore gold, wore colonial costumes with full hoop skirts, basque waists and puffed sleeves on a dropped shoulder line. They carried colonial bouquets of blue cornflowers and carnations.

The bridesmaids were Misses Adele Feinberg, Helen Goldstein, Lena Mae Goldstein and Gladys Galewsky, of Beaumont; Miss Ruth Levy, of Galveston, and Miss Leah Nathan, of Houston.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Leonard Rosinger, of Atlanta, Ga., wore a bridal gown of ivory satin fashioned with hooped skirt which carried a train. The waist was embroidered at the neckline with seed pearls and the sleeves, long and tight fitting, were full at the shoulder line. She wore a veil in three graduating lengths to cover the long train and it was attached to a cap of rose-point lace. She carried a prayer book with marker of white orchids and a cascade of lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom was attended by his father, A. E. Levy, of Galveston, as best man, and the ushers were Marvin Herbert Blum, of Beaumont; Emil Hirsch and Nathan Gans, of Macon, Ga., and Melvin Nussbaum, of Atlanta. A reception in the rose room of Hotel Beaumont followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Levy left for their wedding trip to Mexico City. The latter traveled in a duobonnet three-piece suit with gray fox collar.

For the wedding Mrs. Rosinger, mother of the bride, was gowned in a handsome vintage crepe afternoon dress embellished with gold belt. Her flowers were orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. Levy wore a dress of royal blue slipper satin and her flowers were orchids and valley lilies.

The bride, member of a prominent family, has enjoyed a wide popularity in social and church circles here where her father, the rabbi of Temple Emanuel, and her mother, active in church circles, are among Beaumont's best loved citizens. She is a graduate of the University of Texas.

Mr. Levy is a graduate of the University of Georgia, where he received his law degree. He and his bride will make their home in Atlanta.

Give One for Christmas

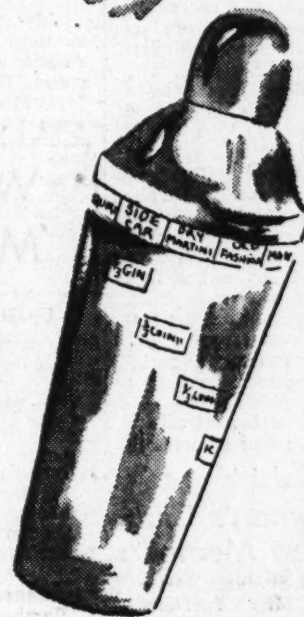

to the Men

"Men are all alike" is an old feminine saying, but promptly proven a fallacy when you start shopping for His gift. Whether he's a man of the world, Joe College, or the outdoor type, there's a gift especially designed for him that's yours for the finding . . . and a little cash or credit. Personal gifts, gifts for his car, his office, or his quarters, are many and varied. Atlanta stores seem to believe it's a man's world, and stand by their conviction by presenting a galaxy of gifts to please the males.

Call your Constitution Fashion Editor, WA. 6565, for information regarding the merchandise sketched on this page, and the Atlanta store where you may obtain it.

Amusing and different, this sterling silver tube with glass at both ends, encases a dollar bill, and is inscribed thusly: "In case of emergency—break glass." With pay day still in the offing, no one to cash a check, and a taxi-fare imminent, it will be an aid to the composure of any male.

The delight of amateur bartenders—a Recipe Shaker. A twist of the container, and lol . . . the secrets of his favorite drinks are revealed. It holds a quart of the nectar of the gods . . . and man. The top serves as a measuring cup, and of course there's a strainer.

A boon companion in the wee sma' hours after the last strains of Sweet Adeline have drifted heavenward. This Keylite on his key chain will enable him to find the keyhole and corresponding key the first try . . . well, the second, anyway. Black, green, or red enamel case complete with battery refill.

If he should be an outdoor guy, this Pendleton Shower-proof Shirt of Virgin wool will be a gift to warm the cockles of his heart. Its Tartan plaid breathes masculinity, and is wonderfully tailored.

One more alligator bit the dust . . . the results, a cigarette case and billfold of flawless workmanship. Typically masculine, t'would make an ideal gift.

He can keep both hands on the wheel now . . . well, one anyway . . . while "lighting up." Touch the ejector on this Auto Smoker, and out comes a lighted cigarette! No fumbling of matches and cigarettes . . . the case holds 23 fags, and adds safety to long trips.

Merry Christmas

Miss Carter Becomes Bride of Mr. Moon

MARIETTA, Ga., Dec. 1.—The marriage of Miss Lois Irene Carter and Robert Toy Moon took place in the Jay's Chapel Methodist church here on Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. Z. B. Everton.

The church was decorated with ferns, evergreens and baskets of white chrysanthemums. A musical program was rendered by Miss Mildred Ellison.

Miss Virginia Moon, sister of the groom, was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant. She wore teal blue crepe, and her accessories were in matching color. A shoulder bouquet of sweetheart roses completed her costume.

Mr. Moon was attended by Erah Carter, brother of the bride, as best man.

The lovely young bride was gowned in blue chiffon velvet, and dark blue accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lilies. The ushers included Paul Foster, cousin of the groom, and Harris Evans.

After the ceremony the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Moon, entertained with a reception at their home on Roswell street, for a group of close friends and relatives.

Mrs. Moon is the daughter of G. R. Carter and the late Mrs. Carter. Her sisters are Mrs. R. C. Bettis and Mrs. J. R. Wilson, and her brothers are E. R. Carter, George Carter and Calvin Carter. Her mother was the former Miss Jessie Davenport.

Mr. Moon is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Moon, his mother being the former Miss Lena Mae Foster. His only sister is Miss Virginia Moon. He graduated from North Georgia College at Dahlonega. He is now employed by the Marietta postoffice.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Carter and son, Don, of Atlanta;

MOON ON THE WATER

During Ride in the Rain, Gavin and Jane Discuss Their Mutual Interests

By RUBY M. AYRES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.
When Jane, youngest of the Brookers' three daughters, is 16, the family can scarcely believe the good news that her mother, of whom they have seen little for a year, has bequeathed her 3,000 pounds to be held in trust until she is 21. Jane, who bothers little with her unruly hair, is an odd mixture of dreaminess and philosophy and her mother has long given up hope of "managing" her. Pamela, a real sister, is saving and careful. Dulcie, the eldest and the beauty of the family, would spend the money lavishly. But that would be expected of her. When Mrs. Brooker dies suddenly Dulcie and Jane find their world upside down. But Pamela just naturally takes her mother's place. Shortly before Jane is to get her legacy, Gavin Montford, who has been in the Canadian wilds, returns to England and is visiting his uncle, Dr. Bingham, the Brookers' neighbor and family physician. The Brookers' old second-hand car stops suddenly when Jane is driving alone. Gavin, out for a walk, comes along and tells her the only trouble is her gas tank is empty. He calls with her two miles to a garage to get gasoline, learning en route that she loves poetry, and is particularly particularly about seeing the moon through glass or reflected in the water. When Pamela tells Jane that Dr. Bingham's nephew is coming to dinner, Jane does not mention having met him. Sidney Dale, who Pamela expects to marry, is pessimistic over business prospects for Gavin. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Sidney was rather a wet blanket last night, wasn't he?"
"Sidney? Oh, the chap who came to dinner."
"Yes—he wants to marry Pamela."

"So I guessed. I think they are very well suited."
Jane laughed. "I should go mad in ten minutes if I had to live with him, and yet he's awfully kind—and clever."

"The sort of man who will get on, I should think," Gavin said dryly. "A real John Citizen—the backbone of the empire and all that."

"It sounds dull," she said. "And if I ever marry—" she stopped abruptly.

"Go on," he prompted.

Jane looked away from him to the wet fields.

"I was going to say that he wouldn't be my idea of a husband—but then I don't suppose I should be his idea of a wife either."

Montford laughed. "Hardly I imagine."

"That doesn't sound very much like a compliment."

"Doesn't it?" But he did not explain.

"You've got another sister," he said presently.

"Yes—the flower of the flock. She'll be home soon, and then you'll see for yourself."

"If I'm here," he said, and she turned her head quickly.

He laughed at that. "What a 'I must look for a job,' Montford said."

"What sort of job?" Jane asked.

"Anything I can find—I've got a little money—not much—not enough to last, I rather hope that my uncle may interest himself in my future—not having any family of his own."

"I hope he will. Is that why you came?" she asked innocently.

"You're not going away?"

"I'm sorry—I didn't mean to be rude, but relations never seem much good when it comes to the point, do they?"

"I thought you had a fairy god-mother."

"Yes, I did—but nobody ever expected she would be. I can't remember her very well, except that she was rather a stiff, forbidding sort of person, though sometimes there used to be a little twinkle in her eyes. I'm afraid I was rather rude to her, and yet she left me three thousand pounds."

"Lucky you."

"Yes," Jane laughed. "You'd be amused if you knew how often I've spent it in my mind—and in what different ways."

"Tell me."

"Well, sometimes I've decided to go round the world. I've written to several steamship companies to make inquiries; and then sometimes I've decided to leave it invested and just take the interest as sort of pocket-money, and once I had a wild idea of starting a tea-shop out in the country somewhere."

"Would that pay?"

"I shouldn't think so," she admitted honestly. "I'm not very good at business, but it would be fun—having people driving up in cars and asking for eggs and bacon. I like people."

"So do I."

"Pamela says—she's so businesslike—that if I'm wise I shall just save it for a rainy day. You see Pamela has quite made up her mind that I'm to be the old maid of the family."

"How very impolite of Pamela," Jane laughed. "Oh, I don't know—I shouldn't make much of a life. I know that domestic things are so dull, don't you?"

"I don't know much about them. You see, I've always roughed it—my people died when I was a kid at school, and as soon as I was old enough I cleared off—Canada—I was only twenty then."

"And then what did you do?"

"I don't know—perhaps because I could have had more freedom. If I had been a boy I think I should have gone abroad as you did."

"As I have."

"Do you think you will really settle down in England?"

"I hope so."

He half shrugged his shoulders. "Anything—everything. Once I worked on a railway—once in a store; then on a farm. Two years ago I went into partnership with another fellow, raising wheat—but two bad seasons broke us, so I got together what I could out of the wreckage and here I am."

"She said with a touch of envy, 'But at least you've seen something of the world.'"

"Only a bit of its seamy side, I am afraid, and there's not much romance in that. I can remember thinking how wonderful it would be to have a good meal on a white tablecloth with some one to get the cooking and to wash up; to get a newspaper every morning and a hot bath." He slowed down a little as they came to a crossroad.

"Which way?" he asked.

"The left," Jane said promptly.

Gavin swung the car about and for a little neither of them spoke till he said, "It was queer—meeting you, wasn't it?"

"How do you mean?"

"Well, I was feeling fed up. The Bingham's are kind and all that, but it's possible to feel just as lonely in a house like theirs as it is in the backwoods. And then, when I met you—it seemed as if I had come face to face with a friend whom I hadn't seen for years."

"Did it?" Her voice was a little tremulous. "Men don't like me as a rule," she added with rather painful honesty.

"You mean men like our friend Sidney," he answered.

"Yes, I suppose I do," she laughed. "But I had a proposal of marriage once."

"Who was he?"

"Oh, he was very nice, and I liked him—just as a friend. He's engaged to some one else now, so he couldn't have been very broken-hearted."

"Do you believe that hearts ever break—seriously?"

"Yes, I think perhaps they do—with some people. I can imagine that they do."

"You're full of amnigation."

"What do you mean?"

"That I've never met a girl like you before; you're so downright and honest—and real."

"Thank you; it's not very often I receive a compliment."

"And you're not quite sure even now that it is sincerely meant."

"It must be if you say so," she said politely.

They both laughed and Montford said, "What about this place for lunch? Do you think it will be any good?"

"I've never been there, but if there's bread and cheese it will be all right for me," she said happily.

He looked down at her, his brown eyes warm.

"Do you ever quarrel with life?" he asked.

"Sometimes, but on the whole I think it's good."

"It's what you make it," he said.

He stopped the car at the door of the little inn.

"It may be only bread and cheese," she said.

"I love bread and cheese," she answered.

There was a bright fire in the little parlor and a sleepy old grey parrot in a cage in the window that opened one eye and said, "Hello, mate!" as Jane walked across to him.

A girl with red hair and a white apron came in.

"We want some food," Gavin said.

"Yes, sir, roast beef and potatoes, cabbage—and apple tart."

"Lovely," Jane said with enthusiasm. She sat down by the fire, loosening her coat. "Now I call this fun," she said.

Continued Tomorrow.

Comedy, Adventure, Heavy Drama Billed by Theaters for Atlantans

Paramount Shows 'Submarine Patrol,' Loew's 'The Young in Heart,' Fox, 'The Sisters,' Rialto, 'You Can't Take It With You,' Capitol, 'Swing That Cheer.'

By LEE ROGERS,
Motion Picture Editor.

Atlanta's motion picture theaters are opening with a variety program today that offers theatergoers diversion all the way from comedy to heavy drama.

The Paramount is offering a picture which delves into a heretofore uncracked section of navy life—the splinter fleet—to find war-time excitement. It's called "Submarine Patrol" and deals with adventure and the small wooden craft that were pressed into convoy service during the World War.

The novel, "Gay Banditti," has been produced under the title "The Young in Heart," starring Janet Gaynor and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. at Loew's. The title change was intended to keep the public from thinking it a gangster film.

Out at the Fox, Bette Davis will hold forth in a costume picture which deals with Tedd Roosevelt's election, the San Francisco earthquake and a roving, good-for-nothing newspaper reporter whose worldliness intrigues her. Errol Flynn is the fight reporter. They call the picture "The Sisters."

"You Can't Take It With You," still our choice of current pictures, has been held over by the Rialto and all you who missed it during the first week have a second opportunity to see this screen riot in which Jean Arthur, James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold and others emote. The Capitol follows this week's most entertaining stage show, an illusion act by Calvert, with "Shanghai Nights," opening Sunday. It is said to be the most elaborate stage show ever offered by the Capitol. On the screen will be "Swing That Cheer," a college picture.

"Out West With the Hardys" has been moved to the Rhodes.

PARAMOUNT BILLS

"SUBMARINE PATROL" Mention the term "Navy picture" and most moviegoers immediately think of super-dreadnoughts heaving in the ocean swells to the strains of "Anchors Aweigh." But that's not found in "Submarine Patrol," which opens today at the Paramount.

According to Director Ford, "Submarine Patrol" tells the incredible story, overlooked until now, of America's wartime "splinter fleet"—tiny, oft-ridiculed, wooden patrol boats, designed to clear the U-boat infested lanes of the Atlantic, and some of them manned by the sorriest crews of civilian odds and ends ever to board a fighting ship.

Richard Greene is seen in the role of the young social registerite who joins up as chief engineer, and who promptly falls in love with Nancy Kelly (a promising newcomer to films), whose father is the skipper of a munitions freighter which Greene's

Screen Married Life is Tough Going for Her

Bette Davis finds married life tough going in "The Sisters," which opens today at the Fox theater. Errol Flynn is her sports reporter husband who is in the act of tearing up his novel after a friend had criticized it adversely. Flynn then runs away from home and the earthquake strikes San Francisco.

by their wits on the fringe of high society. Roland Young is the head of the family, who calls himself "Colonel" though he has never set foot in India, and who cheats at poker. Billie Burke is his talkative wife. Janet Gaynor and Young Doug Fairbanks are the son and daughter who are out to marry rich. The Carletons' plans are upset when the Riviera authorities catch up with them. They are forced to go to England.

On the train to London they find an easy mark in a kindly, rich old lady. She puts them up at her home and decides to leave them her money. The Carletons wait for her to die and, in the meantime, the men of the family go to work in order to show their respectability. Things become more complicated, however, when the son falls in love with Miss Goddard, a stenographer, and Miss Gaynor becomes enamored of Richard Carlson, a poor Scotchman.

The new film is based on I. A. R. Wylie's popular novel, "The Gay Banditti." Minnie Dupree, Lucile Watson, Henry Stephenson and Irvin S. Cobb are featured in the supporting cast.

CAPITOL TO SHOW— "SWING THAT CHEER" Cash prizes will be awarded tonight by the Capitol theater to two winners in their junior amateur contest which will be staged at 9 o'clock. These contests feature juveniles under the ages of 16 years and are proving very popular with Atlanta amusement fans.

Amateurs scheduled to appear tonight include Mary Ellen Selfe, Eleanor Kibler, Paul Epps, Caldwell Smith, Eloise Pinson, Jerry Fowler and Robert Henson. "Time Out for Murder," one of the roving reporter stories starring Gloria Stuart and Michael Whalen, continues through Saturday at the Capitol screen while The Great Calvert and Company of magicians and illusionists appear on the stage.

Starting Sunday, the Capitol will change the program, offering the new screen hit, "Swing That Cheer," a peppy college story starring Tom Brown, Andy Devine, the midnight preview Saturday night at the Fox theater. James Cagney, Pat O'Brien, the "Dead End" Kids, Humphrey Bogart and George Bancroft have important parts in "Angels With Dirty Faces."

Thanksgiving Day, and the continued crowds thronging to see the comedy, it has been decided to hold it over for another week. Manager W. T. Murray announced today. In the cast are James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Jean Arthur, Edward Arnold, Mischa Auer, Spring Byington and a half score others.

The story is taken from the legitimate stage hit of the same title. Though it departs, occasionally, from the original plot, it actually follows it closely enough and carries the same theme, of care-free abandonment of inhibitions, throughout.

Clever short subjects complete a program that is, beyond question, one of those Rialto offerings which, every so often, sets local theater history.

ABSORBING DRAMA IS FOX PREVIEW. One of the most absorbing, action-filled dramas ever brought to the screen, "Angels With Dirty Faces," will be the attraction at ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 2, 1938.

RULING THE WAVES

The total world tonnage of new warships—including those vessels now building, about to be laid down and authorized—approximates 2,000,000 tons. This is equal to about one-half the tonnage now in service in all the navies of the world. The present year will have surpassed any other 12 months in the history of naval construction. Yet, in this mad race to rule the waves, the year 1939 will be even greater.

During the idealistic days of the Washington naval limitation conference of 1922, it was felt that an agreement to restrict ships and guns as to number and range was not only a sufficient indication all nations were willing to forego further territorial ambitions, but would insure non-revival of the old expensive race for naval supremacy. But the hysteria of nationalism in Japan, Germany and Italy has brought any such ideal into disrepute. The word "limitation" has been stricken from the world's naval vocabulary.

Even Russia, considered of no consequence as a naval power, is creating a modern fleet for the purpose of matching the new German flotilla in the Baltic. The expansion of Italy on the seas has forced France to look to her laurels in the Mediterranean, while Mussolini, astride the British line of communication to the east, with a belligerent Japan at the other end, has aroused Britain to full realization that her sea power has been seriously impaired.

Nevertheless Great Britain still remains supreme so far as total naval tonnage is concerned. Not including vessels of the "super-annuated" class—at least 25 years old—she has 201 warships in service and 67 others under construction totaling 1,592,025 tons. The old boats, however, should by no means be considered as useless. There are still many parts of the world in which no greater force is likely to be encountered. Taking these ships into consideration the British fleet is fast approaching the 2,000,000-ton mark.

The rapidly expanding German fleet, although supposedly limited by treaty to only 35 per cent of the British, is a source of worry to Great Britain as well as to the United States. Within two years, according to reliable sources, Germany will have 380,000 tons of the most modern airplane carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines, bringing her naval strength within striking distance of French sea power. Russia's ability to match or offset this power in the Baltic is problematical. No authority seems to know with any degree of certainty just what strength they have on the seas, on land or in the air.

Another source of worry—and a problem which must be met by both the United States and Britain—is the Japanese fleet. It now comprises 711,000 tons. But 163,000 additional tons have been authorized or are now building, including two 40,000-ton battleships, a new fleet of 10,000-ton cruisers and many destroyers and submarines of the super type.

Although the American navy, as presently outlined in blue-prints, will give the United States complete mastery in American waters, for the time being, the rapid expansion of sea power elsewhere, as well as the tendency to look upon treaties as "scraps of paper," offers no assurance as to the future. It should occasion no surprise, therefore, if the United States launches upon a construction program the like of which has never been known in American naval history. There seems to be no other course to be followed with safety.

KANSAS CITY AND HEALTH

When, and if, the proposed national health program designed to provide adequate medical care for every citizen is put into effect, there will be found in the example of Kansas City a model for its operation.

The "laboratory city" has made the health of its people a "direct concern of the government" for the last ten years. Today three municipal hospitals, 300 white and 30 negro physicians, eight ambulances and three emergency cars are available to care for even the poorest resident. All this in a city of 425,000 persons.

Medical care is provided on a charity basis only when necessary, with payment expected and demanded from citizens who are able to pay—no matter how little the payment may be in relation to the cost of the service. Layettes are furnished to mothers of the babies born in the municipal hospitals who are too poor to afford them. Sixty per cent of all negro children and 16 per cent of all white children are born in the city hospitals.

The service is based on realism, which must be the core of any health program, whether national or local. Those who can afford to pay for private treatment secure that service rather than the public aid. Those who cannot afford the full cost of private service, but can pay for a part of the public assistance, help in the maintenance of the system and secure adequate attention without recourse to direct charity.

Public health has been shown to have a direct connection with public wealth; in Kansas City there has been a realistic effort to swell the last by aid of the first.

WAS THIS RISK COVERED?

Claims against foreign insurance companies for damages inflicted on Jewish synagogues, stores and homes in Germany, have been filed in amounts estimated to total more than a half billion dollars. If this figure is even approximately correct, it provides startling evidence of the extent of anti-Jewish vandalism which has swept Germany in recent weeks.

The Nazi government, in what appears to be the most irrational example of official greed of them all, has declared that any proceeds from these insurance policies shall go to the German government and that the Jewish owners of the damaged properties shall get none of the payments. At the same time, these Jewish owners are required to make repairs on the property damaged. Ironical injustice could go no further.

It seems, however, questionable if the claims will be paid. Most of the policies are undoubtedly written against fire risk and, as has frequently been demonstrated in civil suits in the courts of all countries, such insurance covers loss by fire only. It has been contended, even, that loss by fire which was caused by wreckage of the covered property by tornado, was not included, inasmuch as the windstorm was the primary cause of the damage.

It also appears self-evident that, if any individual had followed the procedure of the Nazi government, the seizure of the insurance claims would be convincing evidence of intent to defraud. If an individual burns down his neighbor's house and then, by some chicanery, seeks himself to collect on the neighbor's insurance policy, the case for arson is pretty well established.

It will be interesting to see if these foreign insurance companies, mostly British, recognize the claims of their Jewish policyholders, and agree to pay the damage claims, not to the policyholders, but to the arsonists who caused the losses, the Nazis themselves.

If they do, the conclusion must be reached that, once again, fear of Nazi power to retaliate has dictated a course that would never be pursued had the case involved individuals alone.

ANOTHER WAR RAGING!

Perhaps the terrors of a cruel revolution rending Spain and the undeclared Japanese war devastating poor China, have caused the world to lose sight of a much older, though fortunately less deadly, conflict raging along the northwest frontier of India. It is there the Khan of Khar and the Khan of Nawagai, between periodic truces, are attempting to compose their long unsettled differences by resorting to arms.

If, as Bonaparte once said, Providence is always on the side with the most artillery, then Allah has been placed in an extremely awkward predicament in this conflict. For there is only one cannon. And, strange to relate, this belongs to neither of the Khans, but is the property of a tribe of super-neutral Malmalaz maliks, which alternates this providential advantage by lending it first to one side then to the other.

Another peculiarity about this war—which, by the way, might profitably be employed in other conflicts—is that hostilities always adjourn whenever there is more important business needing attention, such as harvesting the crops or welcoming into the world a new heir presumptive to the throne. But the two Khans invariably agree on the time and place for resuming the fight—one to shoot and the other to be shot at.

This year it is the Khan of Nawagai who is the fortunate possessor of the artillery. After getting the grain into the barn and attending to other important matters, he duly notified his perennial adversary of the pending attack. No undeclared war here. He then fired 12 rounds in the general direction of the enemy. One shot is said to have struck a tower which the artillerymen were doing their best to miss. Then another truce was declared.

Seems queer, though, that the arms manufacturers of the world should permit this war to be fought with only one cannon. Can it be they haven't heard about it? This, of course, is understandable so far as America is concerned, because the neutrality act forbidding exportation of arms is automatic upon declaration of war. This, if nothing else, should preclude the United States from becoming embroiled in this conflict.

REBELLION

(From The Charleston News and Courier)
One hundred years ago, 1837, the cost of federal government was $2.25 per capita. In 1937 it was $62.91 per capita. It will be higher. It is the nature of government, federal, state, county, town, to diminish the power of the citizens by increasing taxes. The more men enlisted in government and receiving salaries, the weaker are the people not on government's payroll, and the easier it is for government to perpetuate itself in power. The News and Courier has faith in rebellion and loves the word "rebel."

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

SOMETHING OF A DILEMMA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The New Dealers are just beginning to realize that the problem of the Dies committee may be as difficult as the problem of a skunk in the cellar. If you leave the little animal alone, it goes right on perfuming the house. If you use force, it drowns the sense in odors.

The comparison is unkind, but it accurately represents the New Dealers' reaction. If Martin Dies is allowed to get more money and a new authorization from the next congress, he will no doubt continue his strange effort to brand half the members of the national administration as active agents of the Communist party. But, if the White House puts on pressure to have his committee liquidated, the loud-mouthed Texan will be able to pose as a martyr to the truth. Even sensible people will suspect that the New Deal has something to hide.

There is talk, however, of a third alternative, which should not only provide a way out for the New Dealers but also find favor with all honest conservatives. The alternative is to supplant Dies and his crew with another house committee, composed of men of unquestioned standing and ability. The substitute committee should be non-partisan in flavor, and supplied with enough funds to undertake a serious investigation.

LUNATIC FRINGES It would be hard to resist a proposal to transform the Dies circus into a serious investigation of Communist and Fascist activities in this country. There is pressing need for the real facts on American Communism and Fascism. And the need is recognized, among New Dealers as well as among conservatives.

The Communists are no more loved by the New Dealers than they are by big businessmen. They are not considered a real threat to the stability of the nation. But such New Dealers as Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson and SEC Commissioner Jerome N. Frank clearly understand that the extreme left invariably leads the rest of the liberalism it seeks to aid. John L. Lewis was once The Communists' public enemy No. 1, when he purged the party members out of the United Mine Workers. When the opportunity presents, he is likely to repeat the performance with the CIO.

At the other end of the lunatic fringe, inquiry will be as richly repaid. In the last months, the trickle of anti-Semitic propaganda has grown to a steady stream of poison. There are said to be over 100 publications dedicated to the cause of race-hatred. It would be interesting to know who is paying the bills for the American Nazi bands and similar organizations.

FACTS OR FANCY? How far can a democracy go in permitting totalitarianism to use democratic freedoms to undermine the democratic spirit? That is the great question. You can understand why the question has not been answered by the Dies committee when you realize that an important committee investigator is said, on excellent authority, to have been himself associated with a virulently anti-Semitic organization.

As everyone knows by now, Martin Dies and his crew have broken the tradition followed by the most biased congressional investigators. Hitherto, the system has always been to call accused persons to the stand and force them (sometimes by highly unfair questioning) to admit their misdeeds. The Dies committee omits the formality of confronting the accused with the charges against them, preferring to allow the accusers to indulge in orgies of free-style name-calling.

A case in point is that of Harper Knowles, the mysterious fellow who described himself as "Chairman of the Radical Research Committee of the California American Legion," and denounced about half the California citizenry as "Reds." Knowles was flatly repudiated by the California Legion, and Dies, in a brief spasm of contrition, promised to hold hearings on the coast to get to the bottom of the matter. Now no hearings are to be held, "because of lack of funds," and the Knowles charges remain on the record.

Such goings-on confine Dies, right to his self-given title, "Founder of the Demagogues Club of the House of Representatives." They do not produce the real facts. And since the civil liberties are intimately involved, only the real facts are acceptable.

When fate decrees we shall possess

Attributes for fame—or shame—
Why should we, ourselves, profess
Special honor, cruel blame?

A Night

In New Orleans.

There were half a dozen of us, in New Orleans on a special assignment for a week. This was almost 20 years ago. Had which space of our hands, which we were quickly dedicated to the scientific game of poker, in one of the larger hotel rooms at our disposal. By scientific poker, I mean straight draw, with only the one joker wild.

We decided we must see some of the more interesting phases of life in the Louisiana metropolis, so designated one of the party as treasurer and squeezed 25 cents out of each pot for the expense kitty. One night, at about 9, after the session had lasted since noon, we used sufficient strength of character to quit the game and turn out for a tour of the night fun spots of the city. There was some $75 in the expense book at Kolb's and then secured a taxicab with a driver who was reputed to know his way around in the outlying parishes.

Our first place of call was the Yacht Club, where a quite a number of the party were in progress. Paused long enough here to absorb some of the atmosphere—and the refreshments—and moved on.

To the bathouses, which were at the extremely opposite end of the social order. The toughest gangs of them all, both male and female, patronized this honky-tonk area.

Did some sideline observing, purely in the spirit of sociological study, while we drank under the belts, of course.

A Famous

Establishment.

Next our taxi driver took us to an establishment—since defunct, I understand—known as Jack Sheehan's. This was, in a quite a different way, a very entertaining place. A number of the solons are going to take part, and Judge Newsome will sing "Lone Rock by the Sea." There will be lots of fun.

Christmas Recess.
A mother of eight children decided that nine days was too long for her youngsters to be around the house just before Christmas, so she asked the Kenosha, Wis., Board of Education to shorten Christmas vacation.

Her plea, supported by a delegation of other mothers, moved the board to keep schools operating until December 21 and take three days off the Easter vacation.

Sic Insects on Cactus.
The prickly pear, a cactus native to the American southwest, has turned into a dangerous pest since its transplantation into Australia.

After considering various schemes for exterminating it, estimates on which ran as high as $400,000,000, authorities are attacking the plant by releasing destructive insects.

Australians Not So Fit
A national "keep fit" campaign affecting a million adults and 600,000 children is expected to be launched in Australia soon.

Unofficial surveys have shown that standards of fitness throughout Australia are surprisingly low.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Very Loose New York, Dec. 1.

Subject
1.—This is going to look like a man trying to pitch ball with a handful of feathers, because the subject is very loose and scattery. It refers to the sentence of 139 years imposed on a nasty little maniac named Robert Irwin, who killed three persons, and the question whether he got a bargain in escaping the electric chair.

Some say this and some say that, but I will attempt to say that people in this country have centered their attention and resentment on the dramatic crime of murder to the neglect and condonation of another type of crime which is just as bad as murder in its effect on the safety of the community. I am inching up to the subject of graft and corruption in public office and the suppression of the liberties of the people by local dictators.

It isn't only the cash cost to the taxpayers that makes graft a grave crime, because, whether a man steals from individuals or from masses of individuals, that is only larceny, after all. But when his thieving, whether by actual tapping of the till, which is a crude method practiced only by poor, dumb dopes, or by subtler methods, deprives the people of improvements and services and brings their government into popular contempt, he is a dangerous enemy of the people's liberties and the safety of the country. I suppose that is rather high sounding, but if so that is just too bad and just goes to show how tolerant we are of this kind of crime. I shall tell you why I think it is so dangerous.

Sabotages

It sabotages the operations of democracy and brings people to the point of toying with the idea that maybe they would be better off under a dictatorship, which is another way of saying that it discredits the American system of government. They get into the habit of thinking that every second, third or fourth dollar of public money is earmarked for the grafters by a tradition having almost the force and dignity of law, and in time they may develop a what-the-hell attitude and a conviction that democracy is just a wall motto and not a system.

It would be easy to mention names of men who should have gotten death—or, anyway, life—for public thievery in New York, Chicago, Jersey City, Louisiana, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, but I have to watch out for libel, because most of them have never been indicted, much less convicted, but any informed resident of those communities will find the names springing up to his tongue. If a few such criminals had gotten death—or, anyway, life—a long time back, the more recent generation of thieves would never have entered politics at all, because it would have been an honest profession and thus unsuited to their talents and unattractive to their nature.

Suppose, for example, that in Chicago some thieving county official whose perjury not only increased the people's tax burden but hampered the efficiency of their government had been hanged in the old county jail, say, 30 days ago. Or suppose he had just gotten life but hadn't been paroled and had been compelled to stay in Joliet until he died.

Warning And let me assume that some of the simple Public Servants I have mentioned have been in various other communities early in the game as a warning to public servants that any crime against the public trust in the old county jail, say, 30 days ago. Or suppose he had just gotten life but hadn't been paroled and had been compelled to stay in Joliet until he died.

I think that had this been done we would today have a much higher standard of honesty in politics in office and that the people, in their hearts, would have a much stronger love for and appreciation of their liberties. But, as it is, I am afraid the people regard such crimes as mere mischief inherent in democracy and would be shocked at the very suggestion that a criminal politician, guilty of jeopardizing their liberties by crippling their government, is comparable in evil to the murderous nut who killed three persons. The citizens of this country seem to believe that the good old democratic system can support forever any burden of graft, willful impairment and discredit that can be loaded upon it. In this sense they connive at the attack on the democratic system and their own liberties, which vanish when the system at last collapses into one or the other of the dirty Europeanisms.

Homer Cummings and Edgar Hoover, with the help of the press, have changed the attitude of the whole country toward the hoodlums who for a long time were glorified in the public imagination. They are now regarded as rodent enemies of society, but the thieving, grafting, sabotaging politician and officeholder is still honored as a sort of Robin Hood.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

PUBLIC SCHOOL EDUCATION

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 1.—It perhaps was a fortunate coincidence that as the thirty-second annual convention of the American Vocational Association convened in this city, a group of educators made public their conclusion with regard to the nation's public schools.

The committee on education issued this statement: "America cannot be governed satisfactorily or administered industrially in the days that lie ahead on the basis of the kind of schooling 80 per cent of the boys and girls now receive."

"They have no idea what work means, what sort of opportunities there are, how to look for work—or how to work when they get a job."

"They are not prepared to be useful citizens or to enter community or home life. Few have any protection against mob hysteria, propaganda, shallow prejudice or economic gold bricks."

"The whole school curriculum needs reconstruction so as to develop the abilities of youth in working together in modern industrial life and in acting in intelligent and self-restraining self-government."

It ought to be said that thoughtful school people everywhere have been concerned with the statements, and conclusions reached in that statement. The recent district school conventions in Georgia found the educators seeking to impress upon their teachers the necessity for doing something more than the mere instruction from books.

Too much of our education is mere preparation for college and ignores entirely the fact that only a small percentage of high school graduates can or will go to college. There is not enough training to enable those to obtain the most from the environment in which they are destined to live.

The high school graduate has little or no idea of political theory, sociology or economics and yet only a small per cent will go ahead and obtain this in college. The great majority of them will seek a job for which they aren't trained and will try to evaluate their own political and economic theory, without any educational background as assistance.

The nation spends about $1,950,000,000 on education each year and there are signs at least of radical changes in method.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION There is no inclination, of course, to say we ought to make a sweeping change. Vocational education already is supplying the answer to some of the wishful thinking going on in educational circles.

Georgia will do as an example. Thirty years ago there were not more than six accredited high schools in the state, about 90 per cent of their graduates went to college. Today we have a great array of accredited high schools and only a small percentage of the graduates go to college.

That explains why so many "economic gold bricks" have been sold the people of Georgia and, for that matter, the people of other states, not all of them southern. The people of that generation of 30 years ago who did not even go to high school, now are illiterates or semi-illiterates. They whoop after demagogues and crackpot politicians with promises. They become the "Tobacco Road people" and the submerged section of tenants and croppers.

Vocational education is making great progress in Georgia. It has established, through vocational teachers, about 300 centers in Georgia. It may, in time, eliminate pellagra, which is a dietary disease. It is making improvements in farming, and its future farmers of America are among the state's hope.

When industry begins to expand, as it will in the nation's No. 1 land of economic opportunity, it will not be the high school graduate that will make their services profitable to an employer and assure their success in economic life—were largely realized in the 20-year experience in this field at Williamsport," he said.

"A very large proportion of the graduates are now working in the fields for which they were trained." He continued, "the training helped them get jobs and progress in their work at a faster rate than those who were not trained. Nearly all told our investigators they were satisfied with the kind of education they had received and would repeat the courses if they had the chance to choose again."

All of which means the boy and girl who can't go to college will, within a short time, have an opportunity to learn in school that which will enable him or her to make a better citizen and a better home.

Being Nice People Doesn't Save the Sheltered When the Mob Runs Amok

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

"If you want to fight, go to Europe; this place is neutral." Middle-aged people will remember seeing that barroom sign or reading about it 22 years ago. Our people were sharply divided. Some wished to fight Germany; some wished to fight England; some wished to keep America at peace, whatever the cost. Nervous were the opinions were battle lines.

Yet a short time later, when the government mobilized available talent to blanket the nation with propaganda, almost everybody stepped into line and made common cause against the Huns. We learned by experience that it can be done. Make enough clamor to wake people up; give the facts in a way to make them understand; and the great majority will form the same convictions.

Welding the free people of the world into a unit is the urgent job that now faces the statesmen of democracy. That they have not yet made any effort, or even prepared plans to instruct and convert their own people, seems incredible to those private citizens who realize the ever-increasing danger in lack of unity.

Times without number we have learned by costly experience that division invites defeat and ruin. United we stand; divided we fall. Disunion almost brought us defeat in two wars and nearly destroyed the Union in another. The Allies in the World War suffered needlessly and shamefully before they learned their lesson and united all forces under a supreme command.

Now free men face the most desperate struggle in the history of democracy, yet the crisis finds us disunited; class hating class; group quarreling with group; the free nations making little honest effort to co-operate; economic groups striving for special privileges; union workers at one another's throats; every selfish little soul clamoring and scheming to get some personal advantage, so intent on his own affairs that he is scarcely aware of the gathering storm that may destroy him in the common ruin.

Three nations have united to loot the earth in brazen defiance of law and justice and all that civilized men call decent. Their union gives them strength. They can take what they will while disunited free men agree in nothing but their dread of war.

Is this the end of freedom? Do free men lack the intelligence to forget their petty differences and unite in spirit and in fact to save themselves? If that is true, there is no hope. The fittest will survive.

Penny-Flipper's Chances Termed Matter of 'Internal Consistency'

University Professor Checks Findings With Classroom Charts, 'Forged' and Genuine, With High Degree of Accuracy.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The University of Georgia's penny flipping professor of mathematics came forward today with a contention that happenings "by chance" follow certain iron-clad rules that smack not at all of "accident."

Putting forth his views in plenty of time for those persons who may be tempted to spend their holidays checking his findings by tossing a penny 100,000 times, Professor Pope Hill said the principle involved is that of "internal consistency" which applies to all matters of chance.

Under this rule, the apparent haphazard fall of a coin heads up is a certainty during any given number of coin flippings.

Professor Hill made a serious study of penny flipping. He went around the campus for weeks flipping a penny and keeping a record of every fall, whether heads or tails and whether the fall was in series of one, two, three or more.

Chances Are 50-50.
His first definite finding was that, yes, you have a 50-50 chance when you match a friend for the drinks or the lunch. If you match for 100,000, you may as well be prepared to pay for 50,000.

Now he is baffling his students with a little game in which he leaves nothing to chance except the application of the inviolable rule of consistency. He invited the class to bring in charts of 1,000 squares, marked heads and tails in any order that each student might choose. They were at liberty to flip coins 1,000 times and record the falls, or simply mark the squares at will.

Professor Hill correctly diagnosed the charts as "genuine" records of coin flippings or "forgeries."

Probability of Runs.
He said it was easy, that a run of five heads just doesn't occur more than a certain number of times. The same rule of probability applies to other runs, four, three or two, of either heads or tails.

By running tests, he identified quickly the sheets that had violated the rules of probability and internal consistency.

It was harder to identify the genuine record of flips, but when test after test failed to show a sequence beyond probability, he called the sheet genuine.

Then he figured out that his own chance of guess correctly on the accuracy or falsity of the charts was one in 30,000.

Professor Hill believes the usefulness of his experiments will be found in the application of the two inviolable rules in checking data assembled in research projects.

$50,000 IS GIVEN TO MORRIS BROWN

Rosenwald Endowment Fund Must Be Matched by Atlanta College.

A gift of $50,000 from the Julius Rosenwald fund to Morris Brown College, one of the largest grants made to a negro institution during the last year and the largest ever made to a school of the A. M. E. church, was announced yesterday by Bishop William A. Fountain, chairman of the board of trustees.

The donation is intended as the start of a permanent endowment fund and is conditioned on being matched dollar for dollar by friends of the college throughout the denomination.

Maintenance funds in the past have been derived principally from contributions made by members of the A. M. E. church, but in recent years the school has attracted the support of many white persons in Atlanta and of leading philanthropic institutions in the north and east.

In a letter to officials of the Rosenwald fund, the board of trustees expressed sincere appreciation for their assistance in establishing an endowment and predicted that the conditions of the gift would be met without difficulty.

SPONGE IS COSTLY.

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 1.—(AP)—A wet sponge which fell six stories and struck Mrs. Gladys L. White on the head, resulted in an award of $1,038 to her in superior court here today. She sued the Latham Square Corporation, and Peter Massaro, window washer, alleging the blow strained ligaments in her neck and shoulders.

ZELL M'GEE NAMED HIGHWAY SECRETARY

Elberton Aide in Camp Organization Succeeds Vanstory in Department.

Zell McGee, of Elberton, for the last year administrative aid to Governor Rivers, yesterday was elected secretary-treasurer of the State Highway Board. He succeeds Frank P. Vanstory, who was relieved several weeks ago.

McGee is a native of Elberton and a graduate of Young Harris College. For a number of years he has been an attorney for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Washington.

During the recent campaign McGee was a prominent supporter of District Attorney Lawrence Camp, the New Deal candidate, and has been looked upon as the liaison man between the Rivers and Camp organizations.

It is understood that Vanstory has been offered a post in the State Revenue Department but has not yet accepted it.

Another change was announced yesterday at the capital when the resignation of H. A. Shacklett as cashier in the Wild Life Department was made public. Officials said that Shacklett's duties would be shared by other workers in the office.

Cloudy Skies And Warmer Are Predicted

A low pressure area moving eastward from Texas will bring partly cloudy skies and slightly warmer weather to Atlanta today, the United States Weather Bureau predicted last night. The minimum reading this morning is expected to be around 40 degrees.

A low barometer yesterday from Texas into Canada caused parts of the mid-west to have warmer weather than ordinarily sunny southern points. Augusta, with 34 degrees, and Macon with 32, shivered at dawn, while Dallas and Oklahoma City basked with readings of 58 and 50 degrees, respectively. The low in Atlanta was 39.

COBB IS AWARDED $2,000 OF ESTATE

Marie Daughtry Says Agreement Was Repudiated.

SYLVANIA, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—A Screven county superior court jury today awarded Albert Cobb, Savannah attorney, $2,000 from Marie Daughtry's share in the estate of Charlie Daughtry, slain Screven county planter.

The verdict was given in a suit brought by B. W. Miller, administrator of the Daughtry estate, to determine disposition of a claim by Cobb to 50 per cent of Miss Daughtry's share, which was estimated at $25,000.

Miss Daughtry admitted giving Cobb power of attorney on a contract agreement, but told the court she had repudiated it because of "misrepresentation."

4-H ACHIEVEMENT DAY MONTEZUMA, Ga., Dec. 1.—

The 4-H Clubs of Macon county celebrated their annual Achievement Day yesterday when they were entertained at a luncheon by the Kiwanis Club and presented a program demonstrating the activities of the group during the past year.

M'NATT IS ON TRIAL IN KENDRICK DEATH

Valdosta, Vidalia Witness Testify in Lyons.

LYONS, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Marvin McNatt, 23-year-old member of a widely known Vidalia family, went on trial today in Toombs Superior Court on a charge of murder resulting from the death June 21 of Jesse S. Kendrick of Valdosta.

Kendrick, 46, a State Highway Department employee, died in Valdosta of injuries received in what Sheriff R. E. Gray described as a street fight over a traffic incident at Vidalia.

The trial was called before Judge R. N. Hardeman, with Solicitor General W. H. Lanier heading the prosecution.

Following selection of the jury, two physicians, Drs. Little and Etheridge of Valdosta, testified as to the condition of Kendrick when he was taken to the hospital after the alleged fight.

P. P. Phillips, of Vidalia, told the jury he saw the altercation between McNatt and Kendrick, and saw the latter fall to the pavement. He said he could not hear what words passed between the men.

The case was expected to reach the jury tomorrow.

$2,000 REWARD POSTED IN CARNIVAL MURDER

AMERICUS, Ga., Dec. 1.—The Showman's League of America, in Chicago, has offered a cash reward of $2,000 for the arrest and evidence sufficient to convict the murderer or murderers of Cliff Jewell, concession operator with a carnival which appeared here recently.

Jewell was shot to death near Americus Friday night, November 11, and his body was found by State Troopers Spence and Forrester, slumped in his car. Two shots had entered the body, one penetrating the brain and the other his heart.

Jewell possessed about $2,000 in cash at the time he was slain.

DIAL SYSTEM PLAN HALTED
SPARTA, Ga., Dec. 1.—The movement which was launched to place a modern dial telephone system in this city has been halted, at least for the present, by a petition which was being circulated to keep the old system.

Georgia Will Play Miami Tonight in Final Game of Season

ELEVENS RATED ON EVEN TERMS; BIG CROWD SEEN

Gillespie, Barbre, Wilhite and Matthews Unable to Play for Bulldogs.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1.—Joel Hunt's Georgia Bulldogs landed in Miami this afternoon and took their final workout before meeting Miami University tomorrow night in the last game of a successful season.

The Bulldogs worked under the lights of beautiful Orange Bowl Stadium last night.

Twenty thousand grid fans are expected to watch the game which will start at 7:15 (Atlanta time). The teams are about even with the Miamians rating the favorite's role, if any. Jack Harding's boys have lost only two games this season—to Drake and Catholic. They have beaten such teams as Duquesne, Florida and Bucknell. In addition, the Hurricane has yet to be beaten in Miami this year and has built up quite a reputation as a home team.

SEEKING SECOND.
Georgia, on the other hand, will be seeking their second straight victory over Miami, the Bulldogs having won a 26-0 triumph in the first game of the series last year.

Captain Eddie Dunn, Miami's great back, will be at full strength for the battle. Dunn is considered one of the best backs in the south, having averaged over six yards a try running with the ball this year.

Georgia is crippled for the battle with at least four regulars considered lost for the game. Marvin Gillespie, Ned Barbre, both ends; Clayton Wilhite, tackle, and Dudley Matthews, back, are unable to play because of injuries.

Coach Hunt, as usual, will bank on the pass throwing of Billy Mims for the main part of his attack. Scouts report that aerials seem the most logical way to tally on the Miamians, and it is likely passes will flood the air.

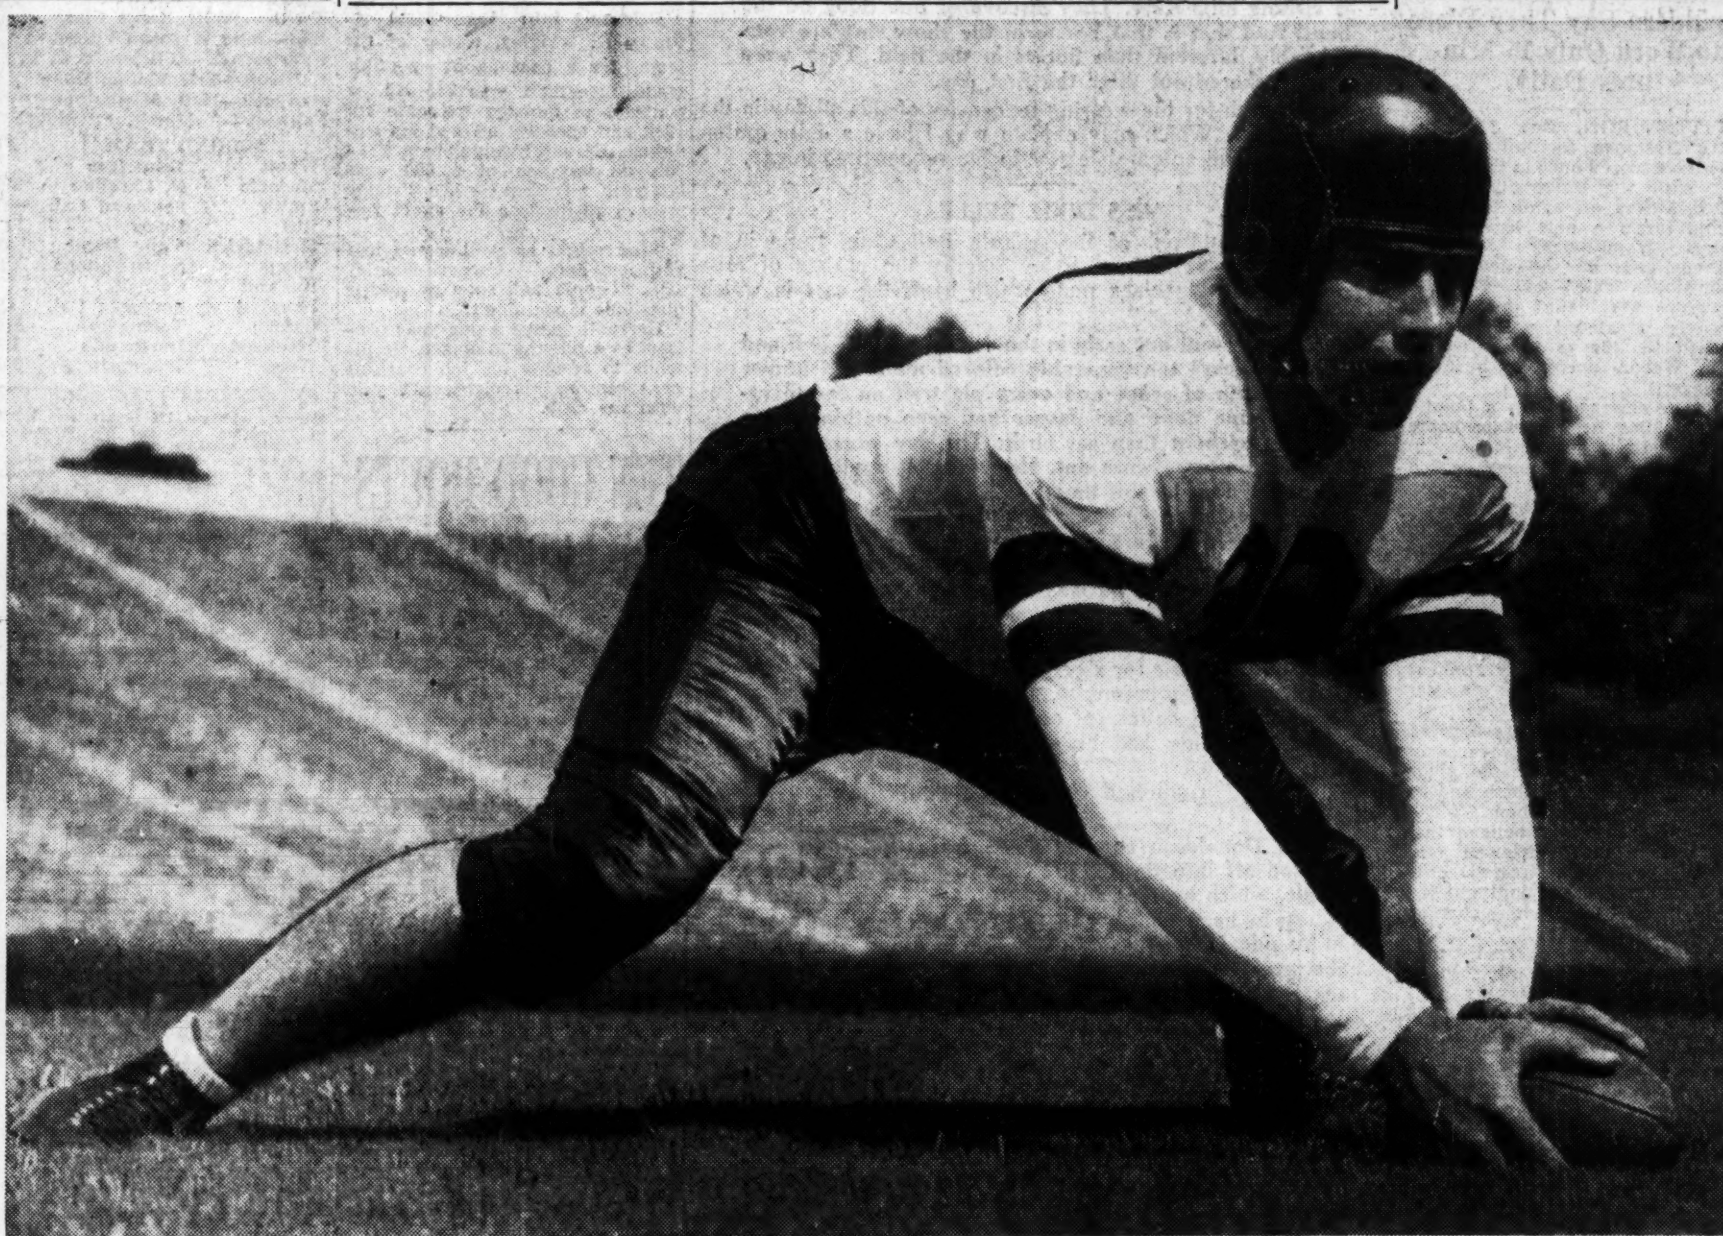

BULLDOG SUPPORTERS.
A large number of Georgia followers are with the team for its last 1938 battle. Included in the list are Registrar T. W. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Broadnax, Coach and Mrs. Hunt, Coach and Mrs. J. V. Sike, Coach and Mrs. Howell Hollis, Coach and Mrs. Wallace Butts, Coach and Mrs. Elmer Lampe, Dr. and Mrs. Marion Hubert, Jack Frost, Mrs. Garnett Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bolton, and Buster Birdsong.

Bulldog headquarters are at the Hollywood Beach hotel. The whole city has received the Georgia squad wonderfully and the players are having a great time.

This week has been designated as Georgia-Miami Week and activities are numerous. College colors are draped over every lamp post.

The probable starting lineups:

Lumpkin Plays In Final Game For Bulldogs

Quinton Lumpkin, University of Georgia varsity center for the past three years, will wear the Red and Black colors for the last time tonight when the Bulldogs battle Miami in Miami. The Bulldogs never had a captain who was better liked or more respected by team-mates and the student body than the 215-pound Macon boy. He was chosen on the Associated Press' All-

Southeastern eleven yesterday. He has had numerous pro offers and will probably join their ranks next fall. He will be graduated from the University at the end of the fall quarter.

Jordan Plays Smithies For G.I.A.A. Crown

Tech High Ends Season in Important League Clash in Columbus Tonight.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.
The tail end of state prep football is in view after its long parade of three months' duration and usually a December second game would be merely a closing gesture of little import, but this year it is different; the tail end fracas is really the tale end, for it "tells the tale."

Tonight in Columbus Atlanta's Tech High will end its grid season, battling the Jordan High gridders in a game on which hinges the G. I. A. A. championship for the good year 1938.

WILL WIN TITLE.
The Jordan eleven can simplify the situation by copping the all-important melee, for with a win the Jordan lads can carry off the championship of the G. I. A. A. and the Dartmouth cup which is presented each year as an emblem of victory.

VOLS ENTRAIN FOR MEMPHIS

Offense Stressed at Final Drill; Ole Miss Works Lightly.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Coach Bob Neyland and a squad of 37 Tennessee Volunteers entrained tonight for Memphis, scene of the unbeaten and untied Vols' gridiron engagement with Mississippi Saturday.

Neyland devoted most of today's final stiff workout to a drill on the offensive plays the Vols will use against the Rebels. Some new formations have been given George Cafego and his running mates, but, as in the past, they likely will not be hauled out of the Vol arsenal unless needed.

Hall Won't Play So Much—Mehe

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Coach Harry Mehe, fearful of injuries, gave his University of Mississippi Rebels only a light workout today in preparation for the Tennessee game Saturday.

Mehe indicated the great Parker Hall might not be used as much this week as in past games. Johnny Whittington was put through most of the running plays and Les Dodson was used for passing. No one would bet on that, however.

TIDE WON'T PLAY IN BOWL CONTEST

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Huskies of the University of Alabama football team—conqueror of Southern California, the West Coast's representative in the Rose Bowl—tonight turned their interests to other sports after Coach Frank Thomas had revealed they had turned down two invitations to play in post-season games.

Thomas would not disclose which bowls had wanted the Alabama Red Elephants as a contestant, but it was reported that one was the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Alabama opened the season by trouncing Southern California in Los Angeles, lost only to Tennessee, champions of the Southeastern Conference, and was tied by Georgia Tech.

"We have received two invitations to play in Bowl games," Thomas said, "but we decided that our season was closed Thanksgiving."

UTAH ACCEPTS.
SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The University of Utah officially accepted an invitation to meet New Mexico University in a football game at the El Paso, Texas, Sun Bowl January 2. Theon S. Parmelee, graduate manager, said that only the football approval of the Big Seven conference was needed now to assure Utah's participation.

Davey O'Brien Received 350 Points Out of Possible 360; Vol Is Only Soph.

By HARRY FERGUSON, United Press Sports Editor.
NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Out of a blizzard of ballots from coaches, scouts and sports writers all over the country, the United Press presents its 1938 All-America football team.

The process of arriving at the team took almost two weeks, and a careful attempt was made to find the best players at their positions no matter whether they came from large schools or small.

Toward the end of the season a call was sent out for All-America nominations, and from all parts of the country the names rolled in. Along with the nominations came reasons for making them and specific games and plays in which the players had excelled.

Then the nominations were at-

QUAIL AND DOVE HAVEN, Ga., Dec. 1.—Male members of the "Nevermiss" Club, priding themselves on their skill as dove shot, are wearing faces which match the rising and sinking sun, all because of a little incident which happened here this week.

Miss Judy King, of Atlanta, one of America's foremost horsewomen, visited the camp of her brother-in-law, Ben Smith, last week before going to Sea Island. Miss King had never shot dove before.

So several of the self-designated crack shots took it upon themselves to give Miss King some friendly and well-meant advice.

Little did they realize what they were being let in for. They had not stopped to think, or read the papers, about Miss King's exploits with the scatter gun on the skeet range at Sea Island.

And so when Miss King went into the fields for her first dove shoot and bagged 14 birds you can readily understand the effect on her counsellors.

Not calling any names, of course, but I know a couple of fellows on our shoot who would gladly settle right now for 14 doves for the entire hunt. Let's see. There's Kenneth—no, it's best not to mention any names.

Anyway, Miss King won her spurs at dove shooting

Pitt Freshmen Lay Down New Demands for Assistance

Boys' High Cards Game With Miami Dec. 1, '39

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1.—Boys' High and Miami High will play football here December 1, 1939, it was announced today following a conference between Shorty Doyal, athletic director and coach of the Boys' High team, and Jess Yarbrough, Miami High coach. It will be the seventh meeting between the two schools, with only one game having been played in Atlanta.

In answer to a question as to when the game will be played in Atlanta, Coach Doyal replied "I hope it will be a long time, for our relations with Miami are most pleasant and it's always a pleasure to play here in December."

The remainder of the Boys' High schedule for 1939 is rapidly nearing completion.

HORRELL NAMED TO COACH U.C.L.A.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—(P)—Edwin C. (Babe) Horrell, prominent Pacific coast grid official, former University of California center star and since 1930 assistant football coach at University of California at Los Angeles, late today was named head coach at U. C. L. A. to succeed William H. Spaulding.

Ray Richards, line coach the past year under Spaulding and ex-Nebraska star, was retained on the staff, and James (Jim) Blewett, coach of the championship Manual Arts High school here and prominent Pacific coast conference grid official, was named to round out the staff.

RUSSELL PLAYS CHARITY GAME

The East Point post of the Atlanta Legion is sponsoring a football game tonight at 7:30 on the Russell High field. This game represents an innovation in football in the East Point community as an alumni team will meet the fast Russell Wildcats. The game is to be played for charity and is attracting widespread attention. It is the first post-season game for the Wildcats.

The Russell High team has just completed one of the most successful seasons in the history of the school. The record has been particularly good in view of the fact that 10 lettermen were graduated last June, leaving a nucleus of about 10 experienced players at the beginning of the season.

Those who will play their last game with the Wildcats tomorrow night include Bert Johnson, Billy Nichols, Horace Rutledge, Carl Lyon, Hilliard Steele, Tom Weaver, Amos Collins, Jack Davis, Larry Dodd and Ed Ledbetter.

The alumni team will include such former stars as Groover Dempsey, Harry Goughly, Henry Faulkner, Dicky Collins, Bull Brown, Olin Grant, Perry Johnson, Owen Bell and W. D. Roberts. The alumni team is coached by Colonel George W. Allen.

SEEK SHOWDOWN ON THEIR STATUS; PAID $48 A MONTH

Gridders Say They Were to Work Only 15 Minutes Daily.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—(P)—Pitt's freshmen football players, who have scored once in their contest with the university's front office, kicked off again today by laying down a new list of demands for assistance.

Demanding a "showdown" on their status, which revived a controversy over the university's "strictly amateur" policy, they backed their line to the office of John Weber, university business manager.

Weber emerged from a huddle to announce he would probably have a definite answer Monday to the freshmen's statement which included:

"1. We were told (by a university representative) that we were to work only 15 to 20 minutes per day.

"2. Notes (for tuition) given us at registration were supposed to be a matter of 'formality' when we signed them.

"3. Athletic eligibility applications were also said to be a matter of formality."

"4. Whenever we were given the notes, the eligibility cards or anything else we were not given enough time to read them and be able to understand them.

"5. We sincerely believe that we should be interviewed (regarding the points stressed) only as a group, and not individually, as proposed by the administration officials."

The athletes are currently paid $48 a month for their work, which consists mainly of cleaning windows and sweeping floors in Pitt's skyscraper cathedral of learning.

'Bat-Wing' Davis To Race Here On Sunday

"Stinky" Davis, Detroit, most famous bat-wing man since the death in France of Clem Sohm, will leave the air for a few days and return to his old love of auto racing when he competes in the stock car auto races at Lakewood Sunday.

The Michigan aviator and stuntman, who raced the bull rings of Michigan and Ohio in 1927 and is now the only living of the original bat wing fliers, will whirl the Lakewood course Sunday afternoon in hopes of qualifying for the main event in which 18 cars will start, the first 12 of which are already under the wire.

Assured dozen starters Sunday, according to entry qualifications now are: Speed Goff, Harley Taylor, Gordon Bracken, Red Singleton, Larry Beckett, Chuck Cauley, Ralph Crouch, Winfield Woolf, Tip Lanther, Pete Dobra, Jugg Bryant and Buzz Whaley, who get positions as listed because they were the first 12 to make entry. Remaining entries must run in a heat race to decide the remaining six to compete in the 50-mile.

W. Va., biggest money winner of 1938, would meet much success on the narrow fairways of the par 71 layout.

the very first time out. She handles a shotgun, seemingly, just about as well as she does her prize horses in the show ring. Which is to say very expertly, indeed.

Miss Mary Fisher, of Dixiana Farms, Lexington, Ky., also one of America's best known horsewomen, proved quite adept with the scatter gun, too. Miss Fisher is visiting Miss King. They discovered one thing on the hunt. And that is that horses in the show ring are considerably different than horses in the field. They were a bit tuckered out after the first day.

I can vouch for the wearing tendencies of this all-day-in-the-saddle business. Which may explain why I have a daily option on the right hand automobile seat in the rubber-tired buggy.

MISS DIXIE BELLE.

Jasper Donaldson, of the Atlanta Ball Club, came in at the end of the day's hunt today singing the praises of Miss Dixie Belle, the big black mule which hauls the cart in which he rides.

Jasper went out early in the day with Dixie Belle and "Uncle Dick," the venerable colored man who knows every clump of sedge and every pig trail on the plantation. Came noon and Jasper had seen nothing more eligible to shoot than cat birds. The day wore on and Jasper's patience wore out. He was a bit unattached to the setter dogs by this time.

It was just after dusk, as he reported it, that Dixie Belle dragged the cart around the edge of a peanut patch and stopped dead still. The mule refused to go on and Jasper said at first he was inclined to put it down to hereditary stubbornness.

And then it happened. "Uncle Dick" spoke up. "Ise been knowing this old mule for a good long time and I never knowed him to stop like this before."

"Maybe you'd better get out and walk through the field," Donaldson certainly had his fill of false points and did not hesitate to say so.

"All right," countered Uncle Dick, "but don't say I didn't tell you."

So Donaldson climbed down from the wagon and stalked off into the field. He immediately kicked up a single, which he shot down.

As he hastened after the bird, his gun hanging loosely at his side, there was a mighty whir and roar. The rest of the large covey took off for the swamp as Jasper stood there, open mouthed.

He didn't complain, however, and returned to camp with a broad grin on his face. "Setters," he explained in a rather significant tone, "if you have them. I'll take Dixie Belle tomorrow."

LITTLE GAL SAVES THE DAY.

The following day, a check-up revealed that a setter actually had pointed all the coveys found by the entire party.

And if it had not been for the timely intervention of a little gal pointer, Major Scott would have had a lot of explaining to do to such setter people as Dr. George Myhrhall, Charley and Fred Jordan, Sego Farkas, of Albany; Major C. J. Dockler, Atlanta; Bruce Hall, Atlanta, and M. E. Dudley, Greenville, S. C.

But the little gal, committed to uphold the prestige of the pointers, swung into action and turned in some flawless field work on coveys and singles.

Major Scott hadn't smiled up to this point. He was bemoaning the sudden fate that had saddled him with setters for the hunt. Then up jumped the little gal pointer. Major Scott kissed her without a trace of a blush.

IT WAS A CLOSE CALL.

There is no question about it. The great setters have not lived in vain. Several of them came to mind. Such as Prince Whitestone, Count Whitestone, Little Labesita, Crowley's Rodfield Pride, Fagan's Mohawk Pal, Equipoise and her offspring by Sports Peerless and Candy Kid, all consistent winners in field trials. Not to mention Bob Woodruff's Duke.

I have never quite understood the rivalry that exists between pointer and setter people, except that they will almost resort to hand guns if it goes too far. Which is all I need to know.

Suffice to say, the setter made very fine headway on this hunt, and even now Major Scott is singing the praises of the little gal pointer.

The old setters can rest in peace.

Gabby Hartnett Signs 1-Year Pact

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(P)—Gabby Hartnett, who lost his given name of Charles Leo to baseball years ago, today received a swell Christmas present, 24 days early.

Dropping into the office of Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the team, for a chat about possible trades, Hartnett was offered a contract to manage the club for 1939 and speedily affixed his signature. He will receive about $27,500, an increase of $5,000 over last year, although Owner Wrigley refused to disclose the exact figures.

"You might as well sign while you are here," Owner Wrigley said. "People will soon be asking questions if you don't."

Hartnett signed a one-year contract as a playing manager. He intends to resume his job coaching next season, his eighteenth year with the club.

TEN GOOD BOUTS BILLED TONIGHT

Ten excellent boxing matches, bringing together some of the best talent in this section, are billed at the West Side arena tonight.

The bouts will be in the nature of team competition, with the Grant Park amateurs battling the Northwest Atlanta team. Heading the list of participants will be Bob Adams, the only local boxer who won a match from Max Maxwell's Villa Rica CCC team when the teams clashed here two weeks ago.

Herman Kemp, another great Southern California fighter, will be seen in action. Kemp is one of the most promising fighters in this section. He has not been beaten in a year and a half of fighting and always is the aggressor. Other prominent boxers on the card are Bob Phillips, Uval Marshall and Otis Neal.

The West Side arena is located at 758 Bankhead avenue.

Dupont, New Britain Play for Prep Title

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 1.—(P)—The Louisiana Sports Association announced tonight the high school teams of Dupont, Manual High of Louisville, Ky., and of New Britain, Conn., accepted invitations to play here Dec. 31 for the national prep school football championship.

tached to ballots and sent back to coaches, scouts, sports writers on newspapers and United Press football writers from Dupont, Manual High of Louisville, Ky., and of New Britain, Conn., accepted invitations to play here Dec. 31 for the national prep school football championship.

A point system was devised for votes on the first, second and third teams and under that system the most points any one player could get was 360.

The players with their qualifications and the number of points they received:

LOUIS DADDIO, Pittsburgh, 217 Points. This year he scored one touchdown, kicked 18 points after touchdowns and two field goals. He is the cramping type of end and he stood out in the Pittsburgh team, which many persons consider one of the greatest in the country despite its two defeats.

JOHN WYSCOCKI, Villanova, 189 Points. Many who voted said he was not as great a player this year as he was last year when he was in the United Press All-America team, but he still was good enough to beat out Holland, of

INTEREST RIFE IN NEGRO GAMES

Advance tickets for the Morris Brown College and Virginia State football game at Ponce de Leon park Saturday afternoon are going fast. A check-up indicates that over 2,000 pasteboards have been sold to white fans, who are taking unusual interest in this outstanding gridiron contest between the two leading colored teams.

The Governor and his entire staff residing in Atlanta has been invited to attend this classic, along with Mayor Hartsfield and other high city officials, who will be honorary guests. The invited guests will occupy a specially decorated box in front of the fifty-yard line.

The game itself, a battle between the best Northern team and what is considered the strongest team of the deep South, will decide sectional supremacy, and the winner will draw a bid for the Peach Bowl classic here, January 2.

Coach Jefferson, of Virginia State, arrived early Thursday morning, bringing with him a squad of 29.

Nine stalwart warriors who have carried the Morris Brown banner to enviable records will close out their college careers in this game. John Powell, All-American tackle; Mackey, tackle; Fegues, All-Southern tackle; Claude Bewley, end; Dewey Williams, All-American center; Roby Harris, guard and goal kicker; Layfield Bussey, former All-American guard; Frank Nichols, guard; Harrison Brown, All-Southern halfback, are the seniors who will graduate in the spring.

A crowd of 9,000 fans is expected to attend this game.

KRYWICKI NAMED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(UP)—William Krywicki of Wilkesbarre, Pa., varsity quarterback on the Fordham football team, was elected captain of the 1939 squad today. Krywicki, who also is catcher on the varsity baseball team, has played first string quarterback for the Rams for two years.

Warren Arena Offering Three Main Matches

Skill and brute strength, scientific and vicious tactics will be matched on the Warren arena mat program tonight when six of the better light-heavyweight grapplers in the game are rounded up for this program of three main matches, starting at 8:30 p. m.

In the south's most elaborate sports arena, Sammy Miller, rough Syrian bone twister, and Toni Nickol, Racine, Wis., a former football star, open hostilities in one of the three main attractions on this all-action—all-star card.

But the show, for most of the mat followers will get under way with the first of two one-hour matches when Stokely Knilson, red bearded Nebraskan grappler, tackles Jack McAdams, present southern champion. This will probably be one of the most bruising exhibitions of rough and tumble fighting local mat fans have witnessed in some time and those attending tonight's show should get their fill of excitement when these two grapplers get going.

The finale will pit savage Paddy Nolan, the Irish killer, against Young London, scientific Atlanta grappler.

St. Mary's To Play In Cotton Bowl Tilt

Twice-Beaten Galloping Gaels Will Battle Undeclared Texas Tech.

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Twice beaten but dangerous St. Mary's of California—the Galloping Gaels—today accepted an invitation to meet undefeated, untied Texas Tech in the Cotton Bowl post-season game on January 2.

Dan Rogers, chairman of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, said Coach Slip Madigan, of St. Mary's, had telephoned approval after conferring with athletic officials of the coast school.

Selection of St. Mary's ended a three-day combing of the nation's outstanding major clubs available for a post-season engagement. Reports said four teams were under consideration after considerable shuffling of countless telegrams and telephone calls.

Both teams employ wide-open offenses and Cotton Bowl officials expressed satisfaction at the lineup.

The Gaels, one of the major independent clubs of the nation, snapped Santa Clara's two-year winning streak in its last engagement, bludgeoning in a 7-0 victory that blasted the Broncos out of bowl consideration.

California, runner-up for Pacific Coast conference honors and outvoted for the Rose Bowl, edged past St. Mary's, 12-7, in the Gaels' opening game of the season. In its next to last appearance, the Gaels went east and dropped a 3-0 decision to Fordham.

L. S. U. SIGNS COX AS ASSISTANT

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Ted Cox, former head football coach at Tulane University and at Oklahoma A. & M., today signed a three-year contract as assistant at L. S. U.

Athletic Director T. P. Heard said that Cox's addition would "in no way" affect the status of the L. S. U. coaching staff.

Cox was captain of the Minnesota team in 1924. From 1927-1931 he was assistant to Bernie Bierman at Tulane. When Bierman went to Minnesota, Cox became head coach at Tulane. In 1936 he went to Oklahoma and served as head coach for three years. He recently resigned.

KICKING BY COX ONLY GOOD PLAY FOR ATLANTANS

Miami Gains 21 First Downs to Two for Boys' High.

By ROY WHITE.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1.—Completely outclassing Boys' High in every department except punting, Miami High defeated the Atlanta team, 19 to 0, here tonight in the first of two big football games celebrating Georgia-Miami week.

Georgia's Bulldogs and the University of Miami follow with the feature game Friday night in the Orange Bowl stadium.

It was the third straight victory for Miami High over the Purples and gave Miami three victories to two in the series. One of the largest crowds to witness an outside high school team play here this season helped swell the Kiwanis Club's charity fund, the game being a benefit affair.

Jake Cox was the one shining light for Boys' High tonight.

He gave one of the best exhibitions of punting ever seen here and checked one of Miami's touchdown drives on the one-yard line with an interception of a pass.

21 FIRST DOWNS.

Miami outgained Boys' High 21 first downs to 2 and scored in every period except the third.

Both teams used all the players possible and Miami had a complete reserve team in the game in the last quarter.

Coach Shorty Doyal started a reserve team which last week played so well in checking an Ensey High winning streak at Birmingham, but it proved disastrous.

Miami received the kickoff and it required only six plays for the Stingarees to score their first touchdown on a 63-yard drive.

SCORE IN HURRY.

Harris gained a yard to start. Reid got 12 behind perfect blocking. Dubruel gained 14 and another first down. Harris was not to be denied on his second try and added 15 more. Dubruel followed with another 14-yard dash over tackle and Harris picked up the last eight yards for the six points without serious trouble. The try for the point was blocked.

Just after the kickoff, Coach Doyal removed the shock troops and the regulars gave Miami plenty of trouble through the rest of the period and second quarter.

Miami broke through and blocked one of Jake Cox's punts on Boys' High's 27-yard line to set the stage for the second score late in the second period. Harris again scored after five short gains, the last for only three yards, but enough for the touchdown. Schaffer kicked the point and Miami led, 13 to 0, at the half.

The first half was all Miami, with the Stingarees gaining 14 first downs, while holding Boys' High to a single 10-yard gain.

COX'S GREAT PUNTING.

Jake Cox's great punting was the only feature for the Purples. He kicked 75, 56 and 55 yards, with another being blocked. Cox also broke up a Miami touchdown drive when he intercepted a pass on Boys' High's one-yard line late in the first quarter.

Miami continued its fine offensive and gained seven first downs while holding Boys' High without one in the third period.

The Stingarees carried the ball 73 yards to the Purples' seven, but a fumble, recovered by Captain Conger, prevented a score. Cox kicked 55 yards out of danger as the period ended.

Miami High added another touchdown in the final period, following a 55-yard drive. Harris dived over the Purple line for the final yard, after the ball had been placed in scoring position on short gains.

A long forward pass, Greer to Sheldon for 50 yards, was Boys' High's only offensive, but the Purples could not carry on and lost the ball on downs on the one-yard line.

N. Y. U. IS AGAIN ON GEORGIA CARD

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 1.—An 11-game schedule for 1939 was announced today for the University of Georgia football team by Dr. J. O. Payne, director of athletics. Two teams not played by the Bulldogs during the 1938 campaign appear on next year's schedule and Tulane, one of the Bulldogs' greatest southern rivals, was released from its contract at the request of Green Wave officials in order that the Greenies could play an intercollegiate foe. A new six-year contract between the two schools goes into effect in 1940.

The complete schedule follows:
September 24—Citadel in Athens.
October 7—Furman in Greenville.
October 14—Holy Cross in Athens.
October 21—Kentucky in Lexington.
October 28—New York University in New York.
November 4—Mercer in Athens (pending).
November 11—Florida in Jacksonville.
November 18—South Carolina in Athens.
November 25—Auburn in Columbus.
December 2—Georgia Tech in Atlanta.
December 9—Miami University in Miami.

Williamson Picks Georgia-Miami Struggle As Tossup; Favors Florida To Beat Temple

By PAUL B. WILLIAMSON.
The Williamson system was again successful with its Five-Star Special in correctly predicting the Stanford Indians to take the Dartmouth Big Greens, which they did by a score of 23 to 13. The system also predicted correctly the outcome of the Duke-Pittsburgh game, which the Duke Blue Devils won by 7-0; although many other fans and experts called that also one of last week's big upsets.

This week the system will start off by predicting Florida to take Temple, although the latter team has more than a three-point advantage in ratings.

All the December games except a few will be played this week end. More than half of them are intercollegiate games.

Leading in importance will be Notre Dame's meeting with Southern California. The system picks the Irish to win. Oklahoma should have no trouble with Washington State. Tennessee will have no easy time with Ole Miss, but should win.

Close tussles may be in order in games respectively between Georgia and Miami of Florida, Rollins and Stetson, Fresno State and Texas Mines, Oregon State and the Uteans, with the first of each pairing favored. The last game is slated for December 10 and the Utah-Hawaii affair for December 17. Both the games with Hawaii will be played in Honolulu.

California has a game scheduled with Georgia Tech in Berkeley for December 26. It should be some struggle. Tech has a habit of bumping off coast teams when they are higher favored; but this time California should win.

EXPLANATION: Figure after each team is its rating according to the current Williamson Football Rating Table, published earlier this week. Probable winner is named in capital letters. T after visiting team rating means tie game or close outcome likely and "upset" possible; 2, means prediction contrary to ratings; 3, Friday afternoon, 4, Friday night, 5, Saturday night, 6, Sunday.

The Columbus entry, however, is rated the underdog to the fine Gabe Tolbert-coached grid machine which has come with a rush in the latter stages of its campaign to sweep all opposition before its vaunted attack. Hang Feet Off Bed For Comfort -- Dr.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP)—If you can't seem to find a place for your feet at night, try hanging 'em over the edge of the bed.

Dr. Edmund Jacobson, of Chicago, told the National Association of Bedding Manufacturers that people who hang their feet

over the edge of the bed are more comfortable than those who do not. He said that the

of the bed than when they are on the floor. He said that the feet are more comfortable when they are hanging over the edge of the bed than when they are on the floor. He said that the

CHIPLEY TO GREET ROAD GROUP TODAY

Congressman Owen Will Be Principal Speaker.

CHIPLEY, Ga., Dec. 1.—Representative Emmett Owen, of the fourth Georgia congressional district, Herman Watson, of the state highway board, and Frank Holder, of Cincinnati, executive vice president of the Taft Memorial Highway Association, will be among the notable guests to attend a Georgia meeting of the association at CCC Camp Kimbrough here tomorrow. Congressman Owen is one of the scheduled speakers. Representatives from counties along the highway's North-South route through Georgia are expected to attend and participate in the meeting, which will be opened at 12 o'clock by Mayor J. W. Caldwell, of Chipley.

Speakers are expected to include Roy Askew, president, Chipley Chamber of Commerce; F. G. Champion, chairman, Harris county board of commissioners; Col. J. B. Peavy, Hamilton county; Captain T. H. Sills, of Camp Kimbrough; J. W. Graham, Rome; W. H. Aycock, Moultrie; W. M. Pherson, Columbus; J. D. Hudson, LaGrange; Col. W. W. Mundy, Catoosa; George F. Singer, Columbus; Cason J. Callaway, Blue Springs Farm, Hamilton county; W. Tap Bennett, Pine Mountain; W. H. Foster, Rome; Mayor W. C. Sturdivant, Summerville; Walter Graham, Lafayette; W. French Grubb, Chattanooga, and others.

STAGE ATTRACTIONS WILL OPEN IN CITY

'The Great Divide,' 'Lost Horizons,' and 'One-Act Plays' To Be Given.

Three legitimate stage attractions, two amateur productions tonight and a Federal theater show Tuesday are ready for Atlanta theatergoers' approval.

The Emory University players are offering "The Great Divide" at 8:30 o'clock tonight in Glenn Memorial church and the Atlanta Theater Guild is sponsoring three locally written one-act plays at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Castle Playhouse on Fifteenth street.

"Lost Horizons" is the Federal theater play opening at the Erlanger theater Tuesday.

EMORY TO GIVE 'THE GREAT DIVIDE'

Portraying the role that skyrocketed Margaret Anglin to Broadway fame, Margaret Sloan Emory co-ed, will take the lead in "The Great Divide" to be presented by the Emory Players at the Glenn Memorial church at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Opposite Miss Sloan will be Joe Crawley, theology student, who is cast as Stephen Grant, a brutal westerner. Ghent, a desperate bandit, falls in love with Ruth Jordan (Margaret Sloan), a proud and vain woman.

In addition to Miss Sloan, Philip Burdette and Mary Anne Kernan, both Emory co-eds, appear in the production. Others in the cast include Charles Pries, Louis Shelburne, Henry Phillips, George Porter, Jimmy Wilder, Mike Clarke, Covington Hardee, Paul Atherton, Merrill Leinbach and Finley Garvin.

Unusual feature of the play will be the reproduction of the Grand Canyon on the stage of Glenn Memorial.

GUIDE TO PRESENT WORKSHOP PLAYS

The Atlanta Theater Guild program of workshop plays will be presented at 8:30 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night in the Castle Playhouse, 87 Fifteenth street.

"Ole Tobacco Road," a satire written by Harry Berman, an Atlanta, will be offered for its original presentation. It is a mirth-provoking comedy in one act, with an original and different plot. The cast includes Edgar Evans, Nora Jennings, Samuel L. Kobre, Herman Aronson, Dr. F. L. Belyue.

"The Singapore Spider," a tense melodrama in one act, will be presented with Harry Berman, Charles de Loach, Jean Johnson, John Winchester, James Wams, directed by Leigh Seymour.

Completing the program will be "Before the Unknown," a drama with Sara Nathan, Robin Stacy and Mary Foute Jones in the cast.

FEDERAL THEATER BILLS 'LOST HORIZONS'

"Lost Horizons," second production of the Atlanta Federal Theater to be presented in the new quarters of the Erlanger theater, opens Tuesday for a five-day run. The performance Wednesday will be sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Jewish War Veterans.

"Lost Horizons" was written by Harry Segall in conjunction with John Hayden and has no connection with the motion picture adaptation of the Hutton novel. In rehearsal three weeks, the cast includes the New York talent which recently augmented the local membership of the group.

The play deals with the life and death of a young ingenue whose suicide followed her apparent fall from Broadway. A fantasy, "Lost Horizons" follows the career of the actress had she lived and is climaxed with the New York acclaim she might have won.

"Lost Horizons" will be presented each night at 8:30 o'clock and reservations can be made by telephone or at the box office.
